
A.C.A.T.

The American Cultural Association of Turin
1986-1987

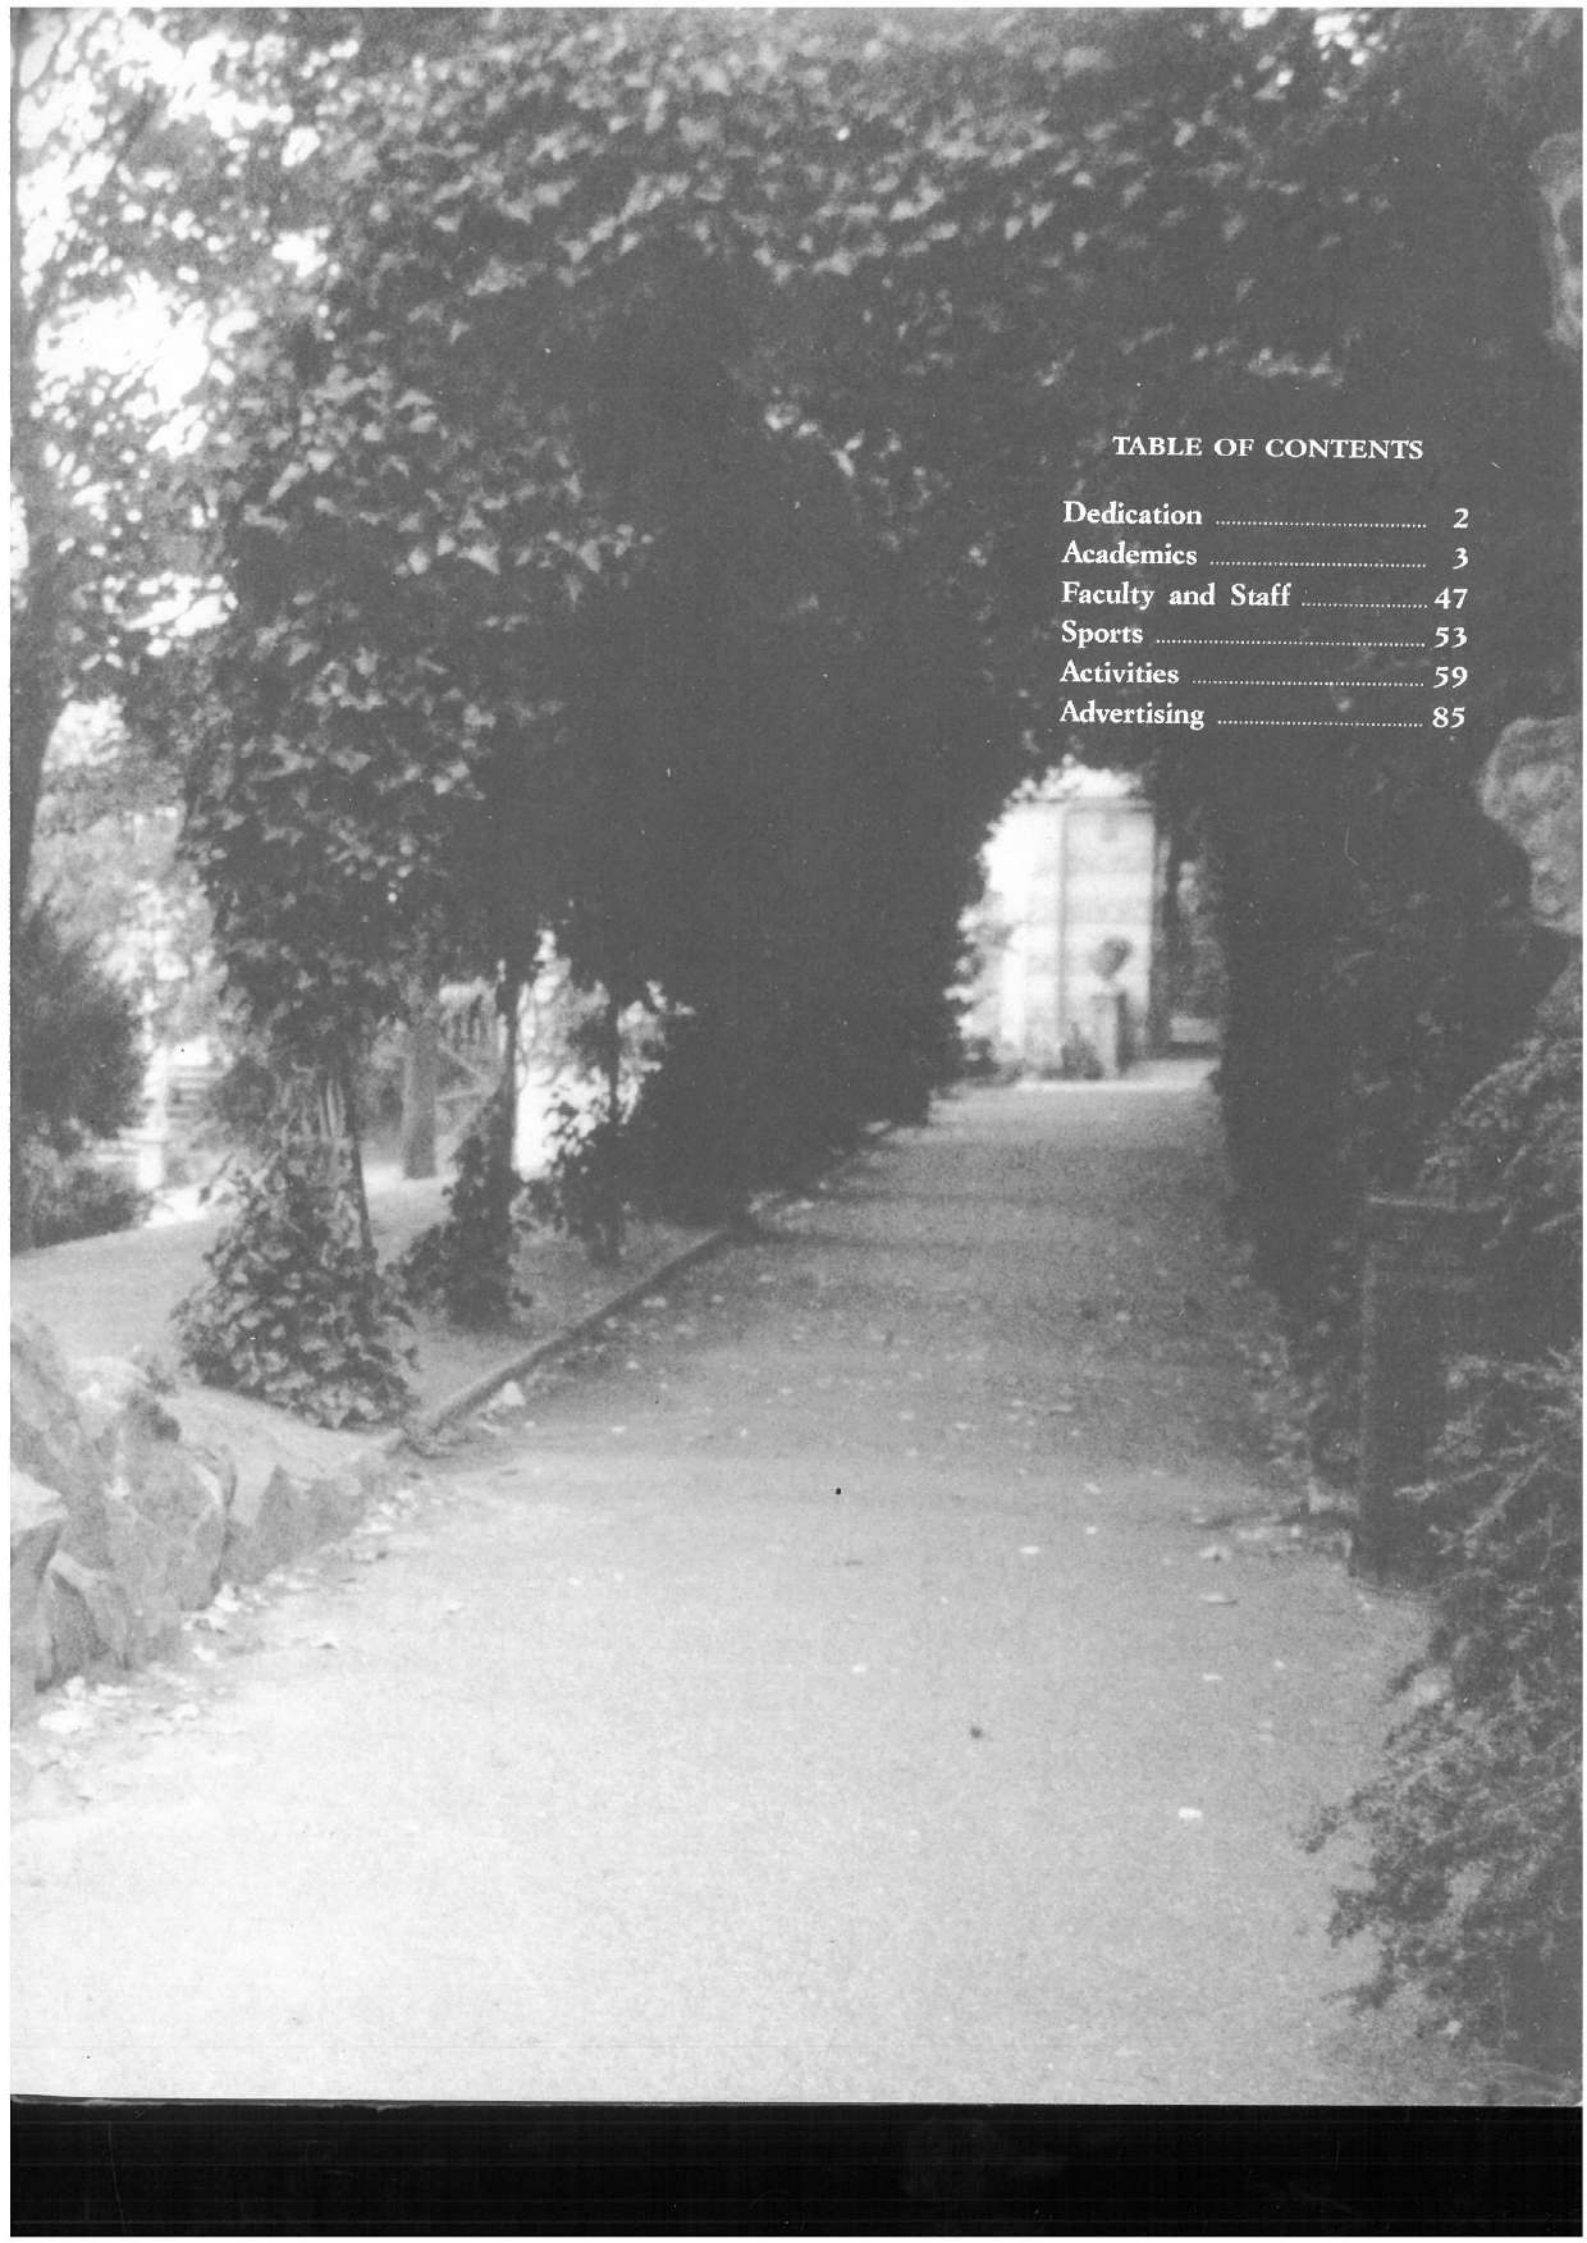

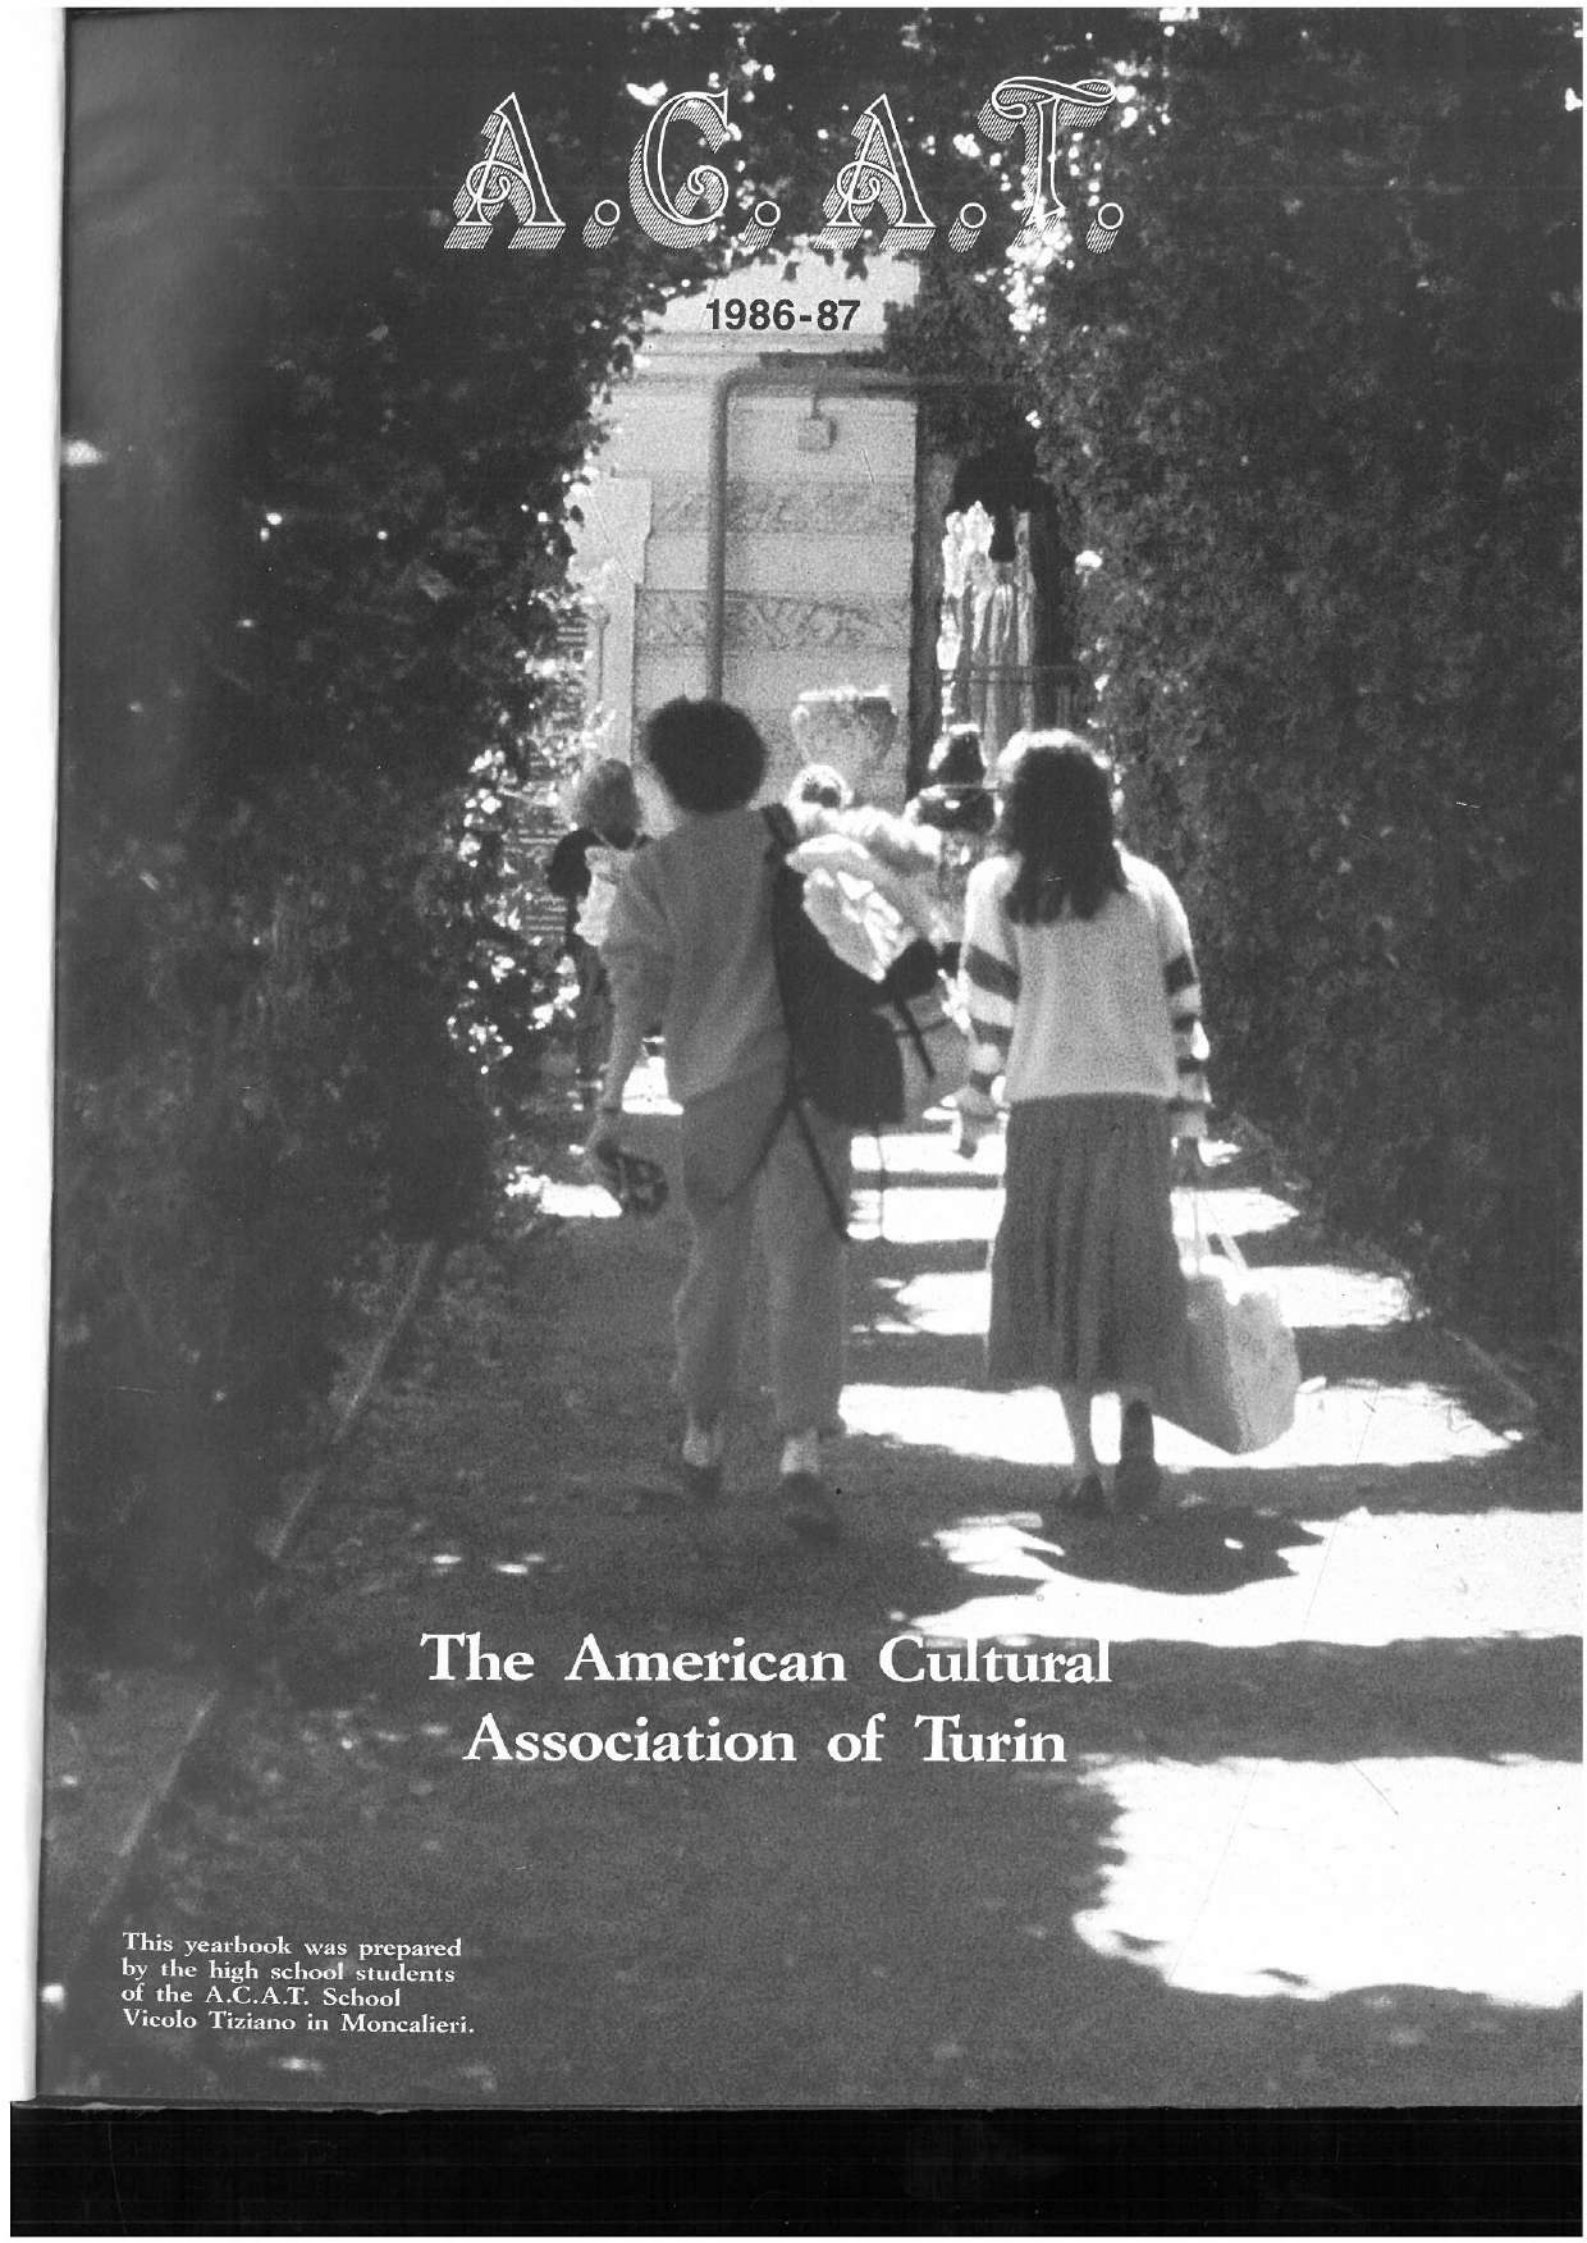

A black and white photograph of a tree-lined path leading to a building. The path is paved and runs straight into the distance, flanked by large, leafy trees that create a canopy overhead. In the background, a building with a large window is visible through the trees. The overall atmosphere is serene and academic.

A.C.A.T.

1986-87

The American Cultural Association of Turin

This yearbook was prepared by the high school students of the A.C.A.T. School
Vicolo Tiziano in Moncalieri.

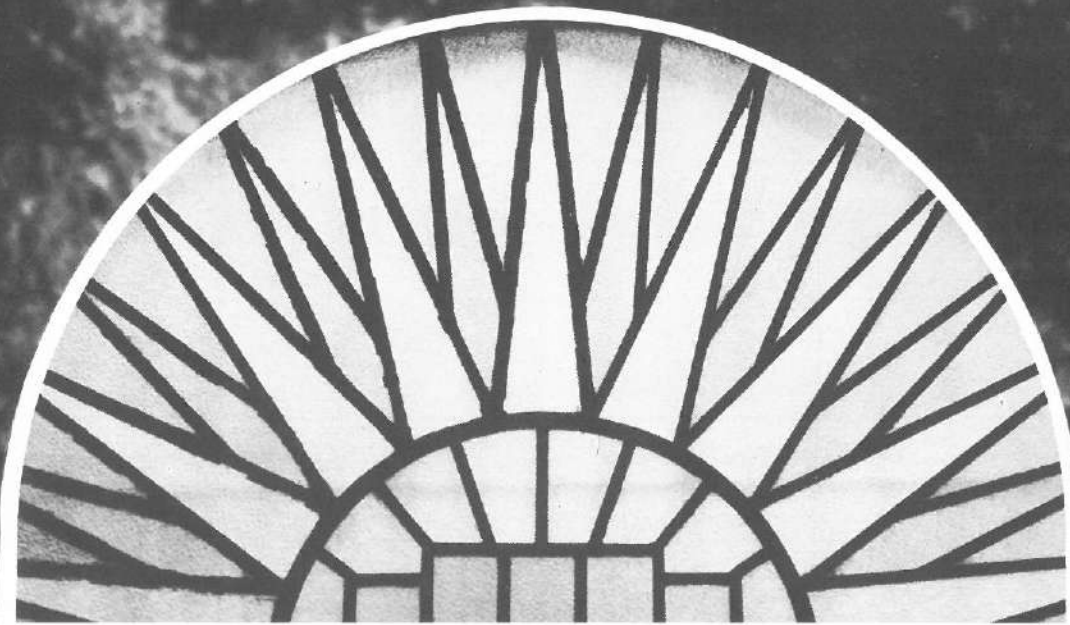

Evelyn Broccardo

Monique Scognamiglio

"Sur le pont d'Avignon" or in many other Charming French sites, A.C.A.T. cías have visited, they have been privileged to know the basics of communicating in the beautiful French language, but Madame Scognamiglio and Madame Broccardo have done much more than teach us a few words and expressions. Over the many years they have been at A.C.A.T., they have taught us the appreciation of a whole different culture: Le monde français.

With this yearbook we wish to express our deep appreciation for the privilege of those few words and much more. Merci auf, très sympatiques Dames "Monique et Eveline" avec beaucoup d'affection.

Alissa Herschbach

David Jones; "I often dream of trains"; banana clips; There's still half an hour to go; "Nutmeg"; The Maid threw out my gym clothes.; Oreeegon; Does anybody have any hairspray?; hmmm bust; the Stratford gigolos; Alan; Did you study for Philosophy?; The glass spider; Watford; Lost one in the war; Perrie, this is a fork.; Jill, dude, the invisible bench; See you in California! "we're folklore in Turin".

Alberto Matta

"One day at a time" expresses Alberto's philosophy of life (one day of school and one day of vacation). A California dreamer and "Latin Lover", he will long be remembered for his barbecue extravaganzas and his genial personality.

Emanuela "Mischi" Verdum

Mischi's memories of A.C.A.T. will include taking field trips to Russia, Florence, and France, having fun at School parties, helping the school secretaries, and, most of all, graduating.

Remember when...

... we sweated out "Fratelli d'Italia" at La Mandria?

... we rehearsed graduation speeches with Mrs. Shor.

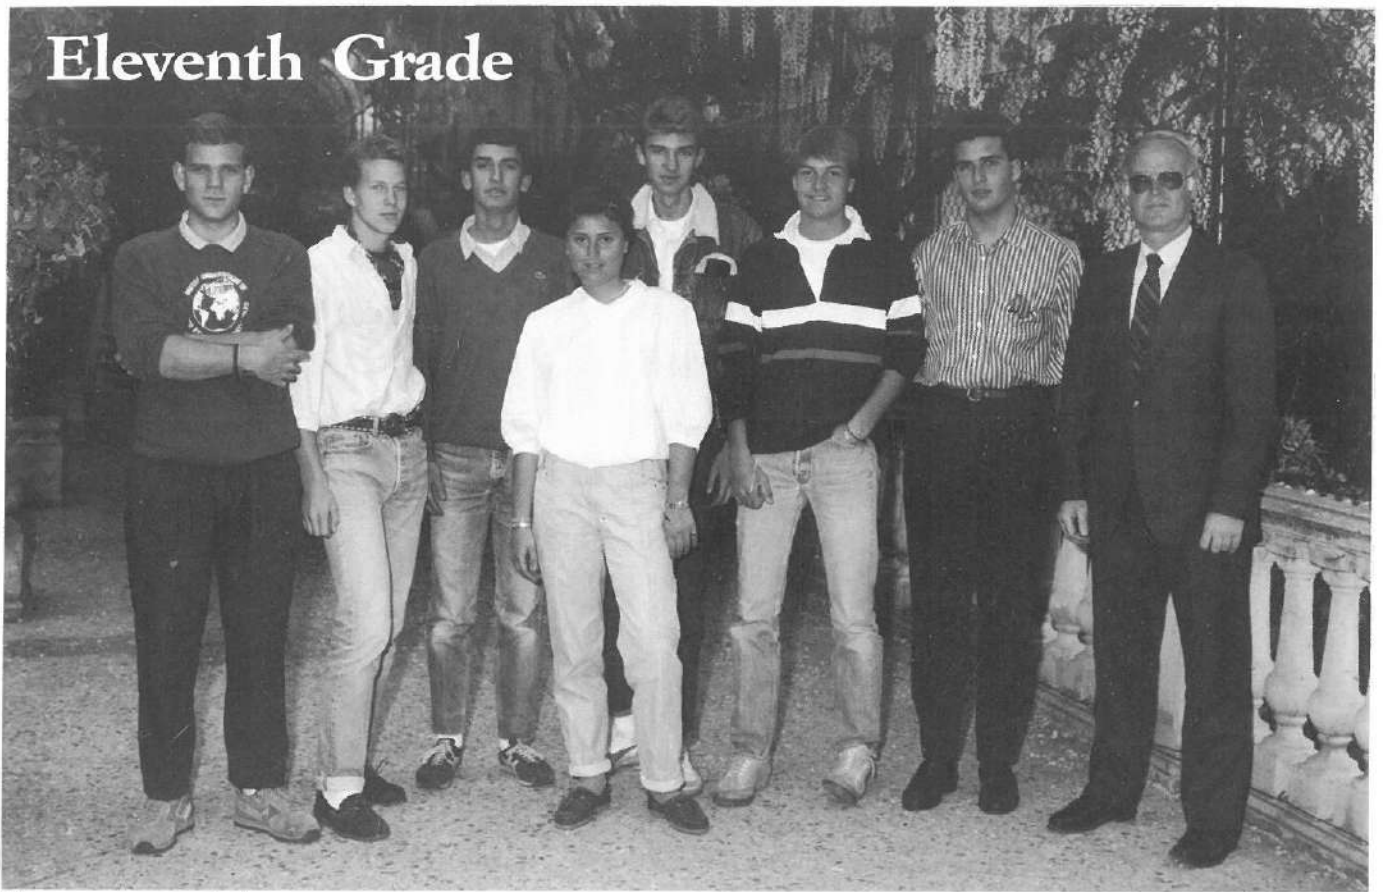

We shared our spring fair at Roddolo.

... and our last year with some of our favorite people?

Activities

Halloween: an A.C.A.T. treat instead of a treatment

Devilicious!

Ridi, pagliacci!

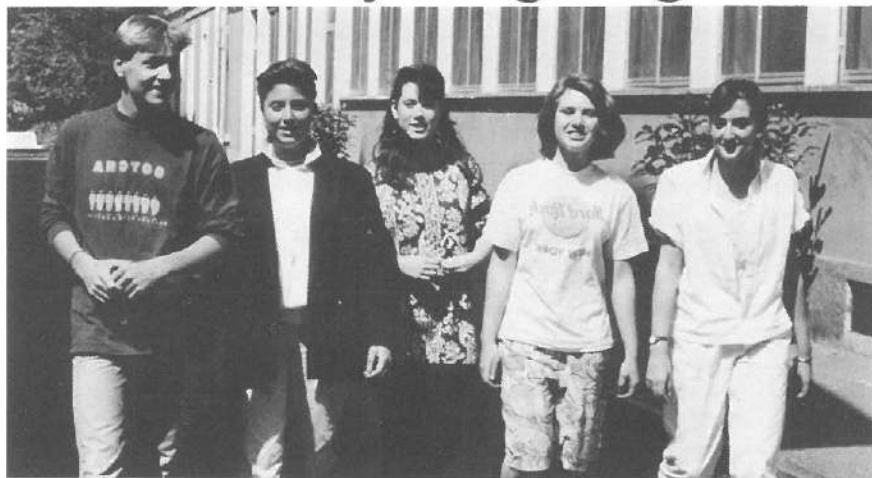

... and they all were strangely garbed.

Try to remember.

Humanities Club Spring Fair: the day of giving.

Humanities clubbers smile as they begin their weekly visit at Roddolo.

The blind leading the blind folded.

Official judges at the unofficial cake contest.

Susy awards premiums at the basketball throw.

The best 25 out of 30?

Giuseppe under pressure.

Determined participant launches sand bag.

...and wins a wet Alberto.

Thanksgiving: an internationally flavored treat.

Where else but at A.C.A.T. would you find an international gathering of friends to share a traditional American Thanksgiving? The sumptuous meal itself notwithstanding, this year's thanksgiving dinner was an even greater success for the spirit of camaraderie and sharing that it inspired. The relaxed atmosphere and successful outcome of this much anticipated event were due to the efficient planning of the P.T.C. Many thanks for a project well done.

Guests enjoy a quiet moment before joining the food line.

Volunteers to serve and to eat were abundant,

Mr. Cucchi, the unsung hero of the mashed potatoes.

pace... an informative exchange of ideas

Orphanage Visit... an Easter Bunny specialty... a sixth grade discovery

April 14th. The day when Binny Bunny...

struggled along with the rest of the sixth grade...

...to win the hearts of a charming group of less fortunate children.

...and Pasquale Uova...

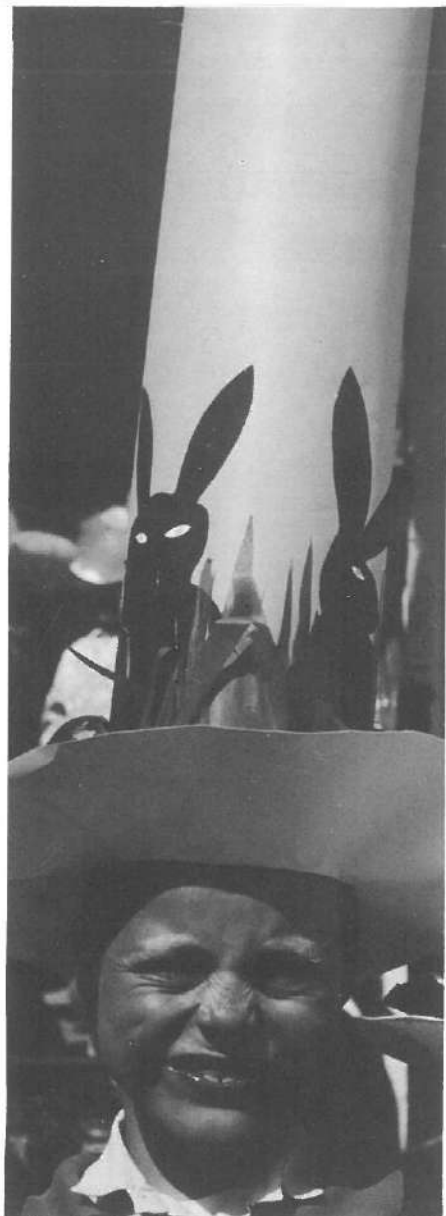

... and they succeeded.

Easter Hat Parade: the A.C.A.T. view of Spring fashions.

Whether we presented the basic tried and true favorites...

... revised stove pipes...

or the wild pancake look... or...

Exotic sun bonnets...

... or the southern belle effect.

... or a simple balloon fantasy.

... We all paraded proudly to our neighbors at Villa Roddolo.

Hat with boy.

Anyone who knows hats knows the 5th Grade.

The high schoolers enter with a burst of last minute creativity.

The head hatter.

The candid camera hatter.

The holy hatter.

STRACAT: nostalgia among the cherry trees.

Nearly 150 STRACATERS gathered at Villa Sacro Cuore for the annual walk-run through Pecetto's Cherry Country. Sponsored by the P.T.C., the event brought back warm memories of other A.C.A.T. family gatherings.

We're first.

I'm the original.

I'm the boss.

I'm second, but I try harder.

We're just enjoying the walk.

Also we!

STRACUE: how to smoke a head master.

Benito: the only way to go.

Paolo: the only way to know.

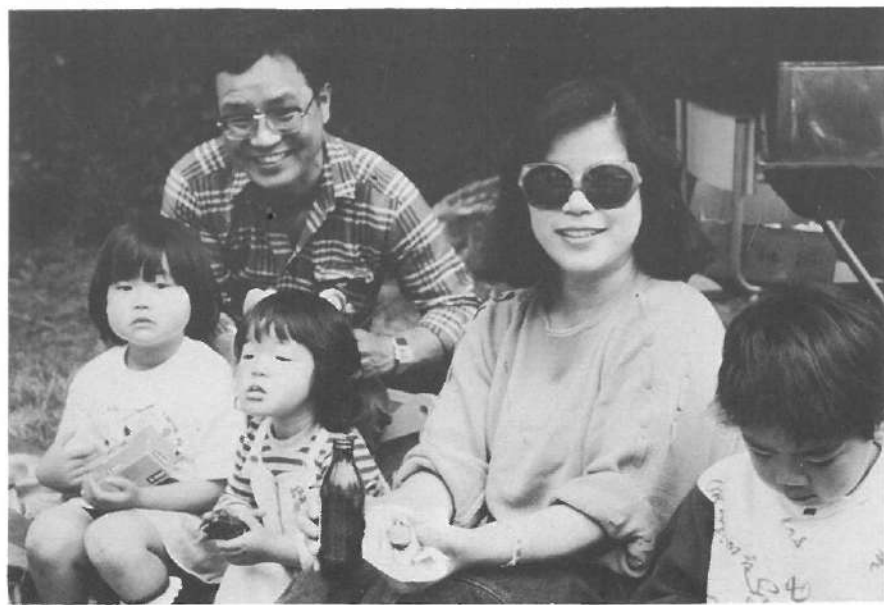

The Scandinavian team discusses Stracat strategy

The All-American hot dog (grilled) Dutch Style?

Master Chefs exchange hot dog recipes.

We survived our first Stracat.

EGG DAY: a speggtacular challenge to future engineers.

Mr. Miller - The eggspert...

... amazes speggtators with his magic parachute.

At no time does the egg leave the hat. A crowd of eager participants awaits the results.

The "best class spirit award" goes to the seventh Grade.

and the "broken yolk" award to the slippery handed.

Some elementary flashbacks:

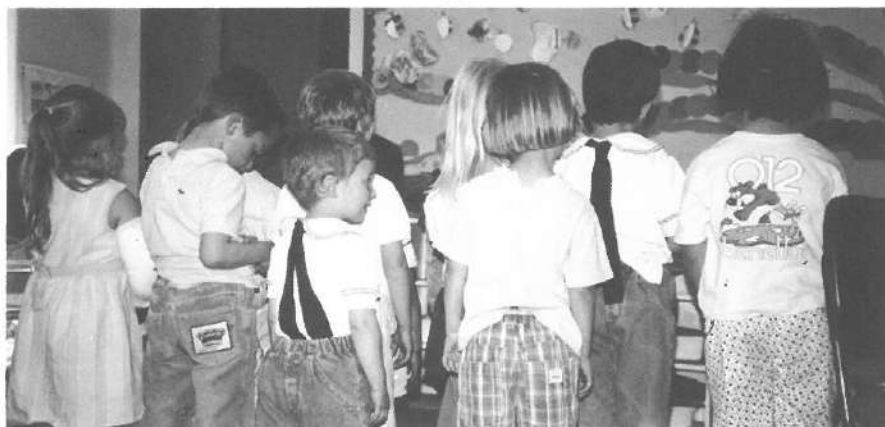

For the young at heart.

A successful "weight watcher".

A yougurt break restores one's energy.

! yad sdrawkcab.

and a not so successful one.

One of our favorite activities.

Is dancing considered display of affection?

Well, it's snack time... again!

LA MANDRIA: the pause that refreshes.

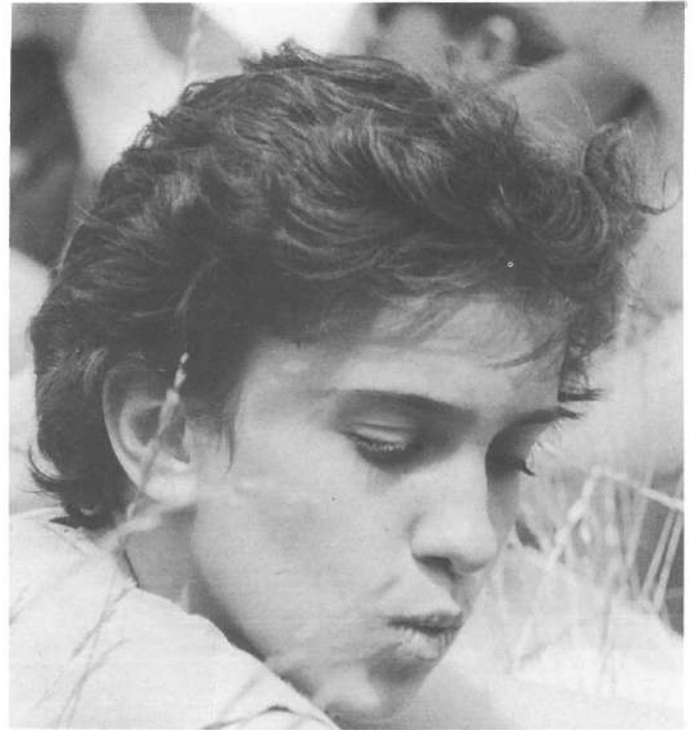

Sixth Grade softball players in search of a challenge.

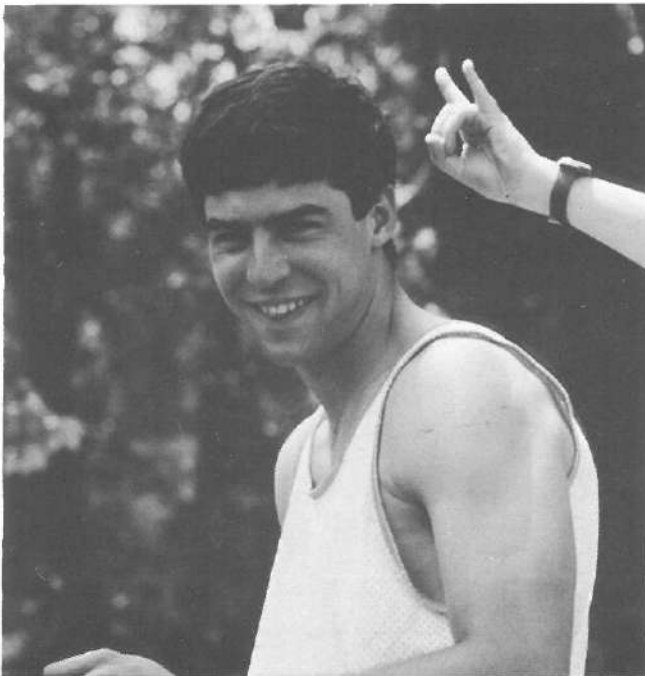

The challenge.

La Mandria where one can reflect on the past year...

La Mandria for those who think young.

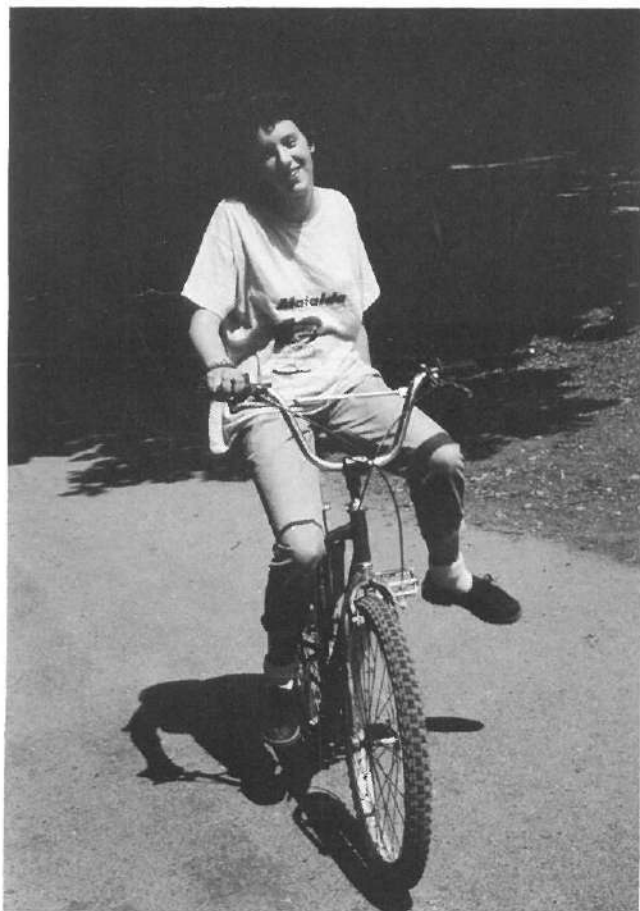

... or who would like to.

or whether one passed the year.

Sometimes it takes a team effort to pull through a year at A.C.A.T., but usually it's up to the individual.

...with each of us.

... a unique part,

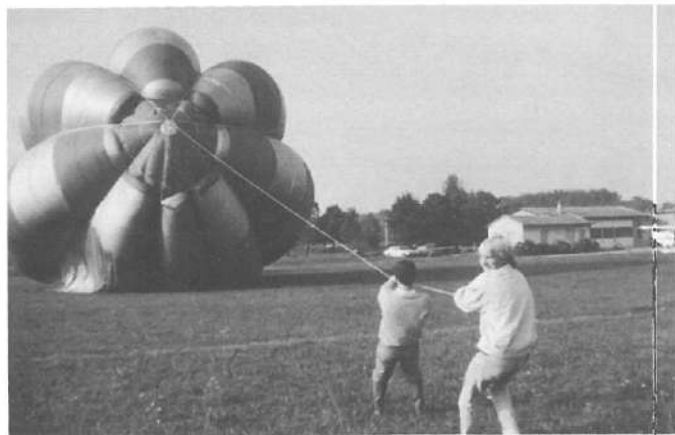

of the total experience.

Acating around

Some highlights from this year's discovery trips.

A few fearless adventurers...

soared to new heights...

in a hot air balloon...

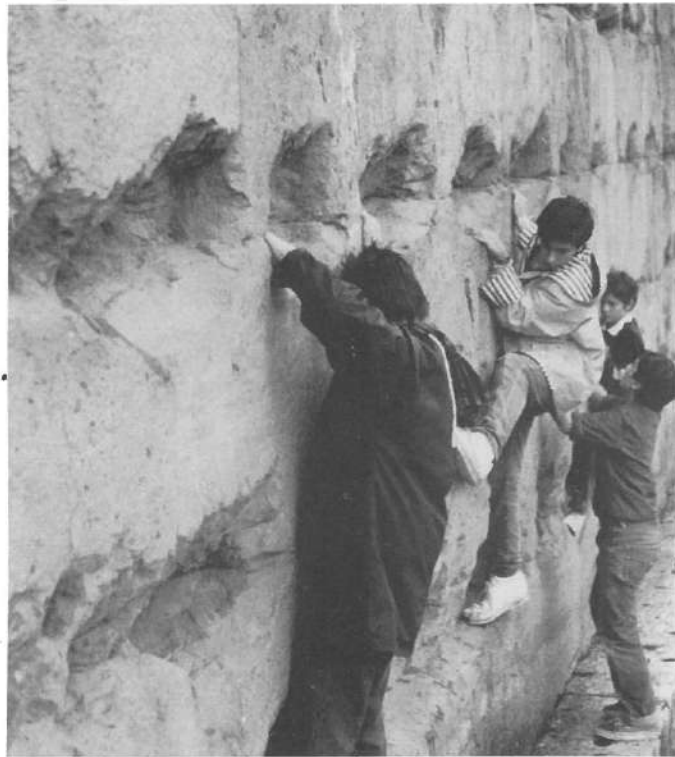

while other hearty.

... souls (soles) "sored" the rocky trails of Gran Paradiso.

A peaceful introduction to farm animals.

An intense inspection of Roman ruins.

High schoolers at Fenis Castle.

Consuelo and Michelle at the Festival of St. Orso.

A.C.A.T. "gondoliers" on the loose in Cambridge.

A needed rest after a successful trip.

High Schoolers blocking the view at Buckingham Palace.

Humanities Clubbers reaching out at Sacro Monte.

Sixth graders at La Stampa.

Elementary Closing Exercises...

... a time for thanking volunteer parents...

... to perform once more for our parents.

... for thinking over the past years.

... or the next one.

... to encourage school pride.

... to sing for joy.

... to listen.

... to wonder.

Mrs. Gelsomini arranges certificates.

The First Graders recite their own poetry.

A chup-a-chup for your thoughts.

Smile if you're promoted.

Monica receives her just reward for a year's hard work.

Simona Suddenly becomes a 6th grader.

The third grade jockeys for position before singing.

"Does a chup-a-chup mean I'm promoted?"

Graduation Day:

While some anxious students await their diplomas...

... Mr. Gillogly imparts words of wisdom.

Miss Travis reflects on the past year...

... and others their vacations...

Alissa shares her newly found philosophy.

Mr. Miller congratulates Anita

A.C.A.T. is how I spell success.

one general sign of relief

A little Comic relief loosens up the serious atmosphere.

... as Alberto does his famous mike juggling act.

A year of diligent study is duly rewarded.

What are moms for?

Svenskin congratulates Mrs. Shor for a year well done.

A brief review of this year's memories

Here at A.C.A.T., the tree of knowledge bears real fruit.

Sing us a song!!

"Mr. Boyle, I love taking pictures for yearbook!"

This area is reserved for PDA.

Hair today, gone tomorrow.

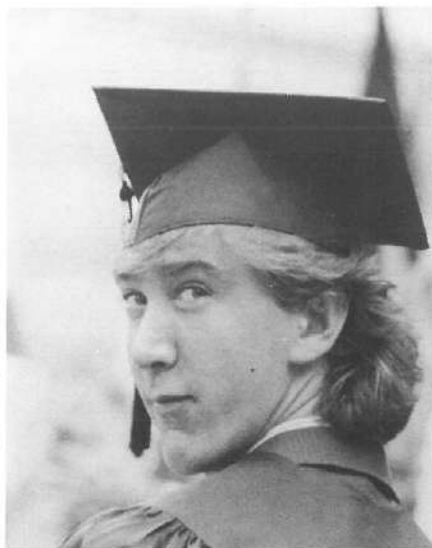

A.C.A.T.'s special forces.

La Stampa ha fatto una scoperta scientifica:
i lettori, più li si considera intelligenti, più aumentano.

Dedicare ogni settimana quattro pagine di un grande quotidiano alla scienza, alla tecnologia, alla medicina è una scelta coraggiosa.

Occorre partire dall'ipotesi di avere lettori interessati ad andare oltre le notizie, lettori che credono al quotidiano come strumento di cultura.

La Stampa ha fatto questa scelta e quella che era un'ardita ipotesi è ora una tesi inconfutabile. I lettori più li si considera intelligenti più aumentano.

Tuttoscienze, il supplemento de La Stampa del mercoledì, ha dimostrato che la scienza non è astrusa, non è ostile, non è distante. E soprattutto non è per pochi. Che non occorre essere dei Nobel per interessarsi ai suoi segreti. Che è possibile, conoscendolo più a fondo, non aver paura del mondo che cambia.

Così, con Tuttoscienze, mercoledì dopo mercoledì, per circa 1800.000 persone, la scienza ha assunto un volto familiare. Un volto quotidiano.
