THE CHANGING COLORS OF ACAT

In conceiving this issue of the yearbook, we have chosen the theme, "The Changing Colors of ACAT" to convey the special nature of the school.

This year we not only boast a new name but also inaugurate a new curriculum, The International Baccalaureate, to reflect the international community that comprises the school.

Our aim in this yearbook, then, is to document the special atmosphere in which our school thrives and continues to change.

Dedication

Dedication is the act of earnestly giving oneself over to a cause or profession. It is complete involvement, self-sacrifice, concern for others, and striving for excellence. Throughout her 14 years at ACAT, Mrs. Scognamiglio showed constant dedication to her French students and their individual progress, and for eight years Mrs Di Benedetto shared with us her dedication to improving her students' appreciation of Italian Literature. As these two admired teachers leave ACAT, we are not only mindful of their lessons but appreciative of their dedication. This book is a small token of our appreciation.

Marcella Di Benedetto

Monique Scognamiglio

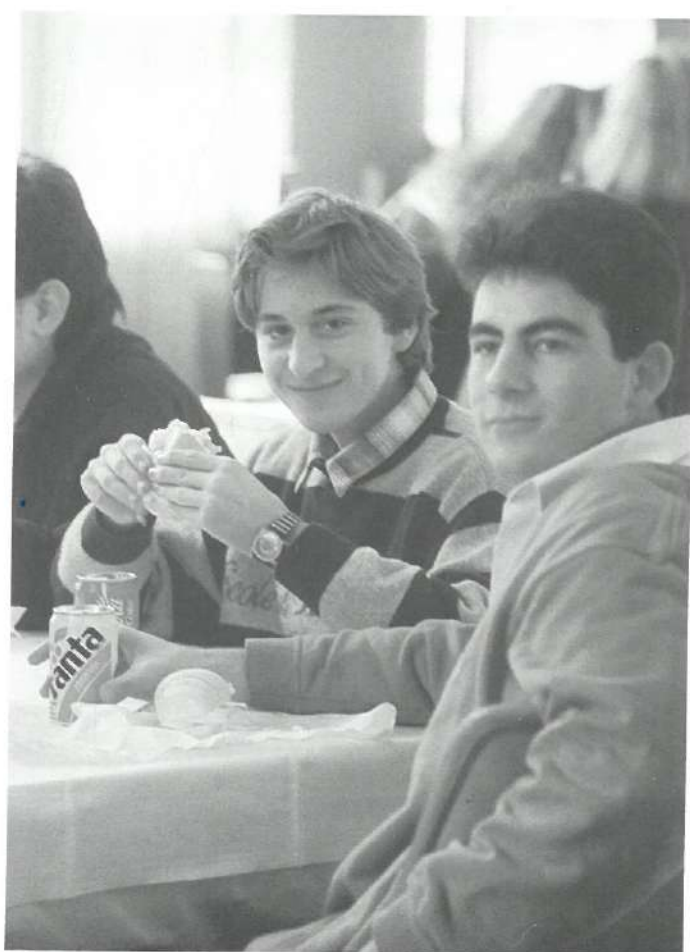

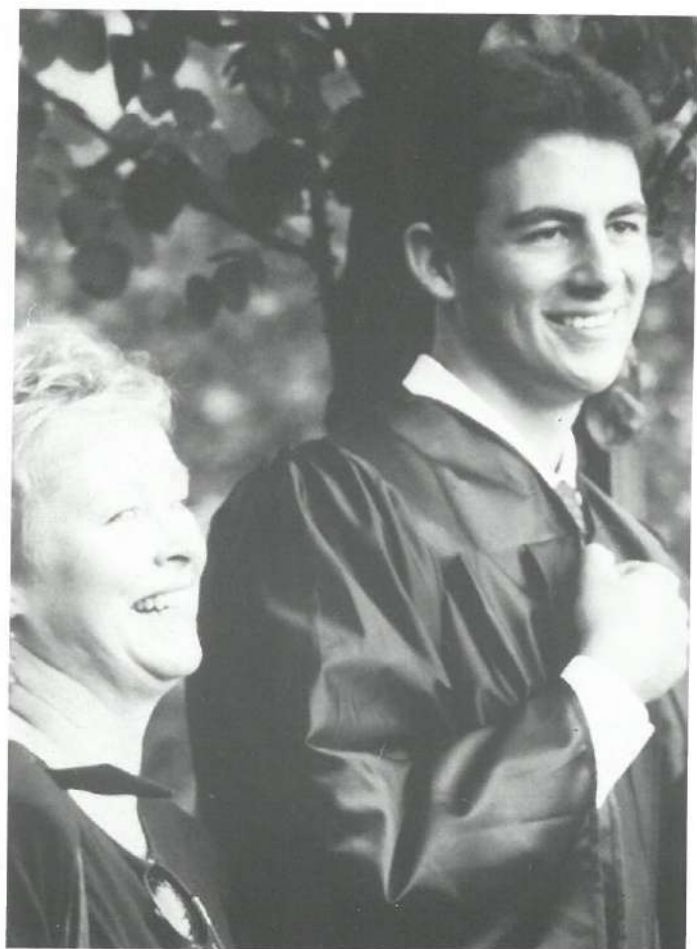

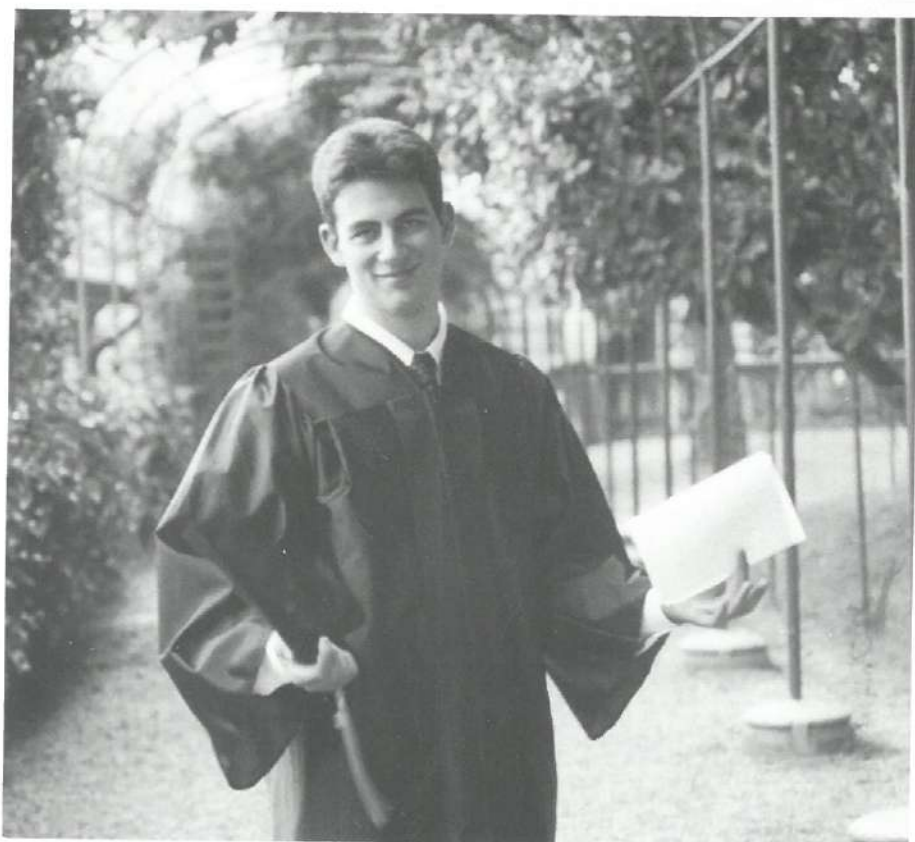

ACADEMICS

Scott Agnelli

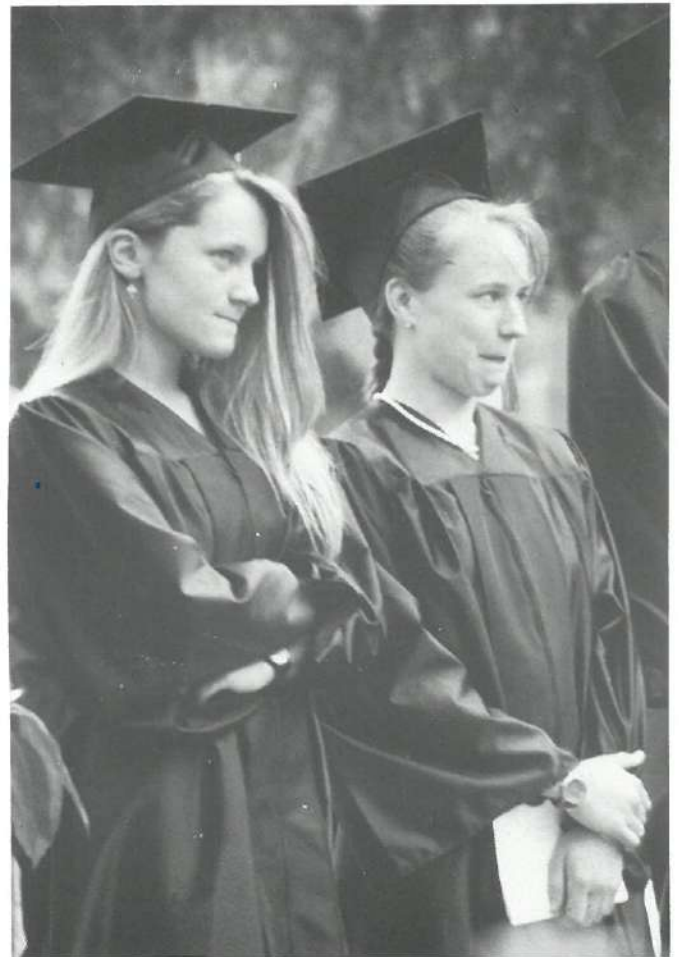

Our long-distance commuter from Val d'Aosta, Scott will long be remembered for his congenial nature and his subtle wit. The winter months find him perfecting his skill as a skier. His after-ACAT plans call for a stint with the military.

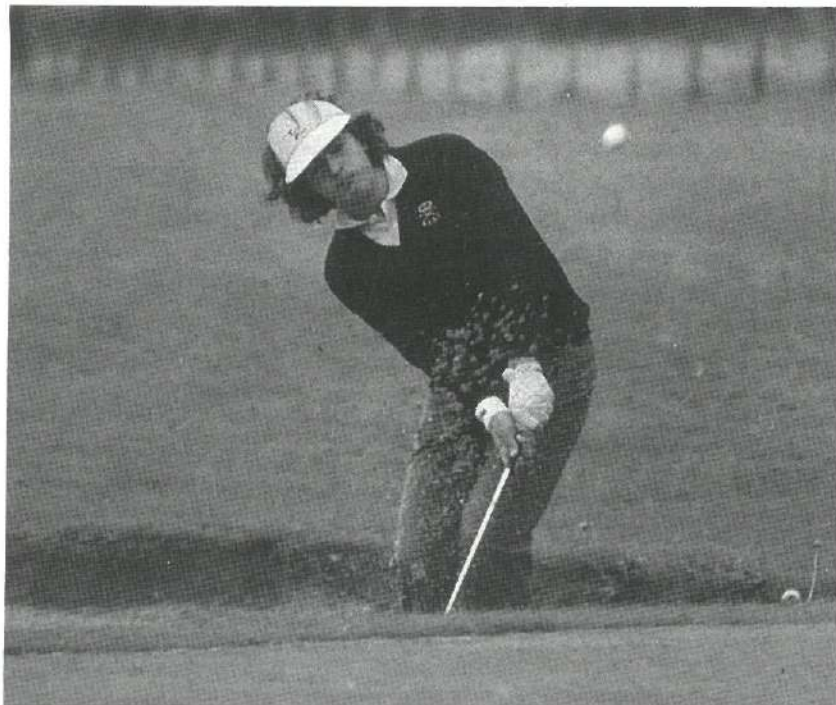

Sara Besana

Becky, pizza, Coke, Simo, windsurfing in Como, Susy, plop, paranoia, phonecalls, HA! HA! Consu, crab, Sansicario, lo svenimento, Michelle, "I Want to ride my bicycle...", the swimming pool stories, Paula, too little space too many things to say, Sven, dajm, the basketball evening, Alberto, England, La Diane, Manolo, 6.11.93, topo, 31 Ottobre, Louise, Stockholm, shopping, crema e cioccolato, HiiiiHe, "come down in June", dreams... dreams...

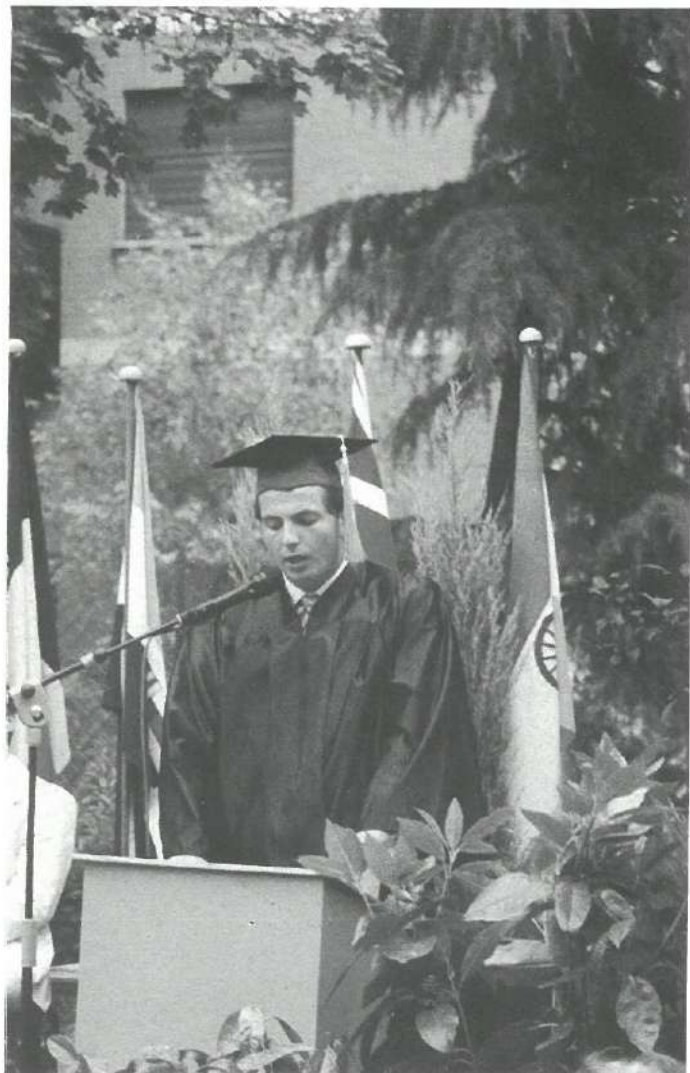

Cristiano Fiorio

“Forse il freddo si accosta al male ed il ciclo caldo al bene gli occhi neri al male quelli azzurri al bene, tutto si rispecchia, ma il riflesso non si può rispecchiare così il mondo non può capire il nero abissale, che lo circonda, quando i ghiacci si scioglieranno al sole dimostreranno come il male cederà al bene.”

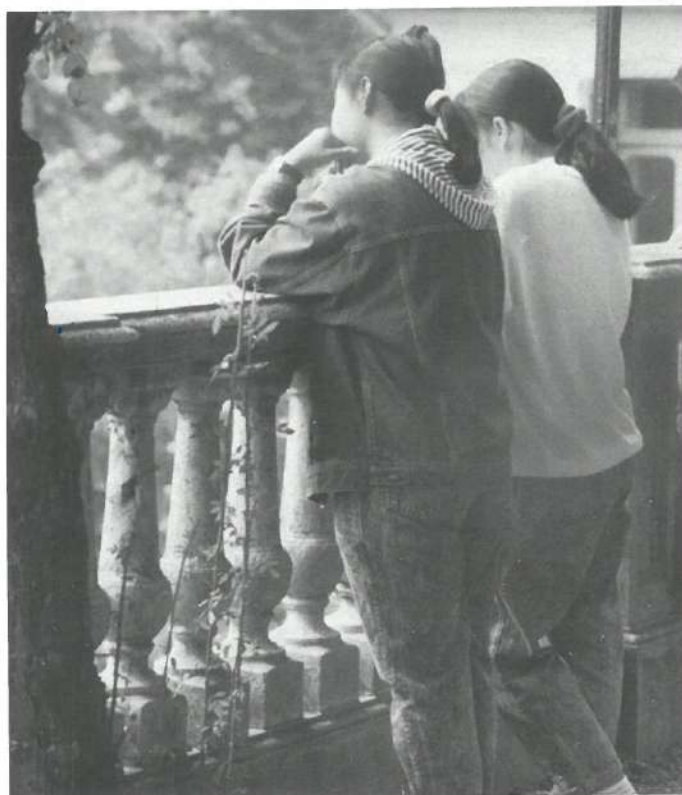

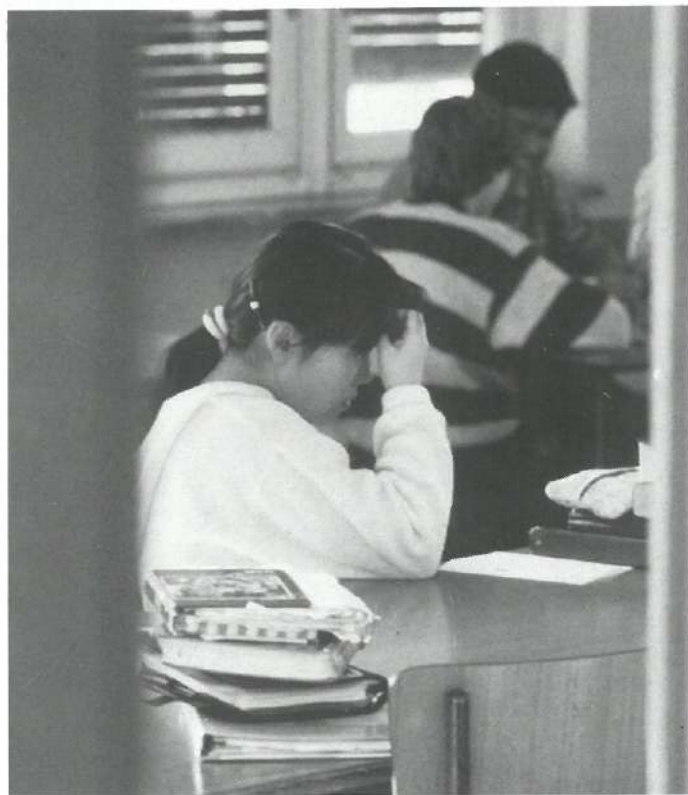

...excerpt from the poetic thoughts of Cristiano.

Kumi Kanno

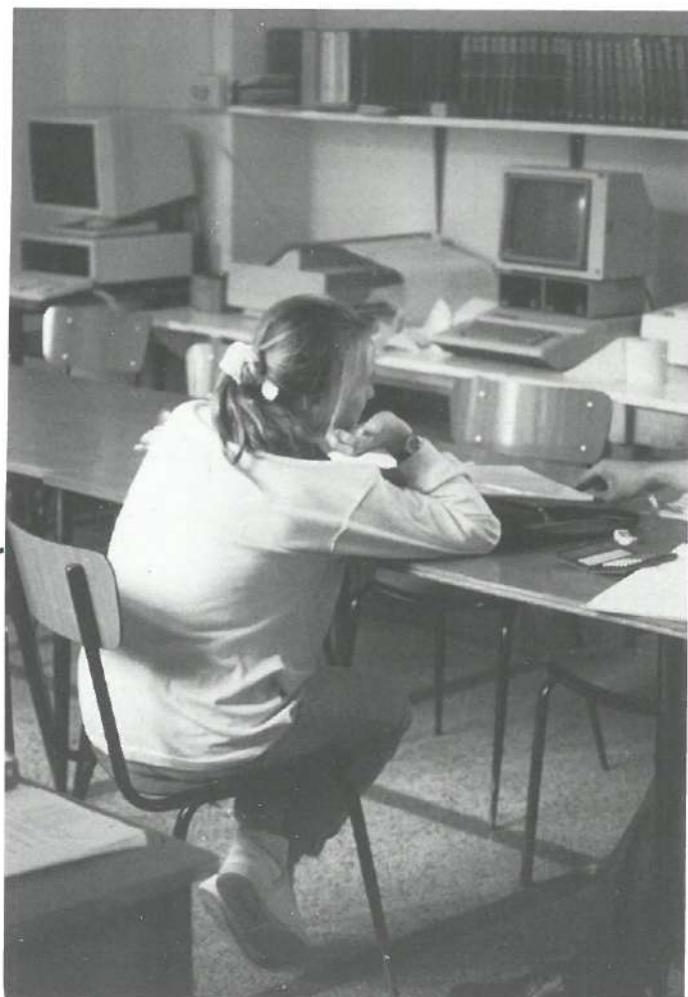

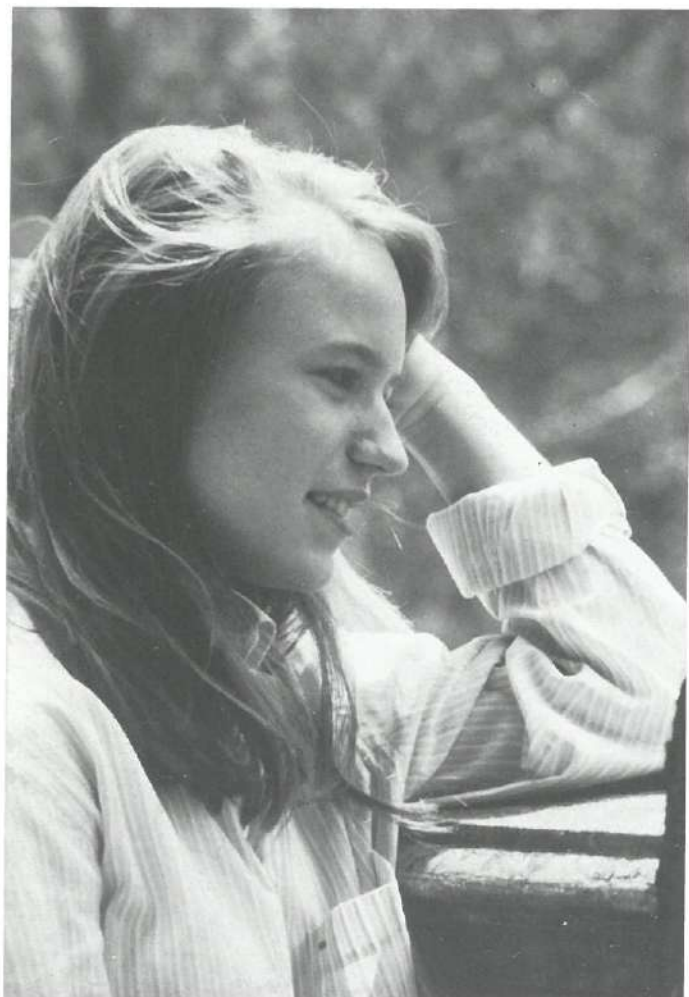

Mature, responsible, diffident, Kumi with her quiet self-confidence distinguished her presence at ACAT through her mathematics skills and creative art work. Although she left ACAT early to conclude her studies in Japan, we shall always consider her a solid member of the class.

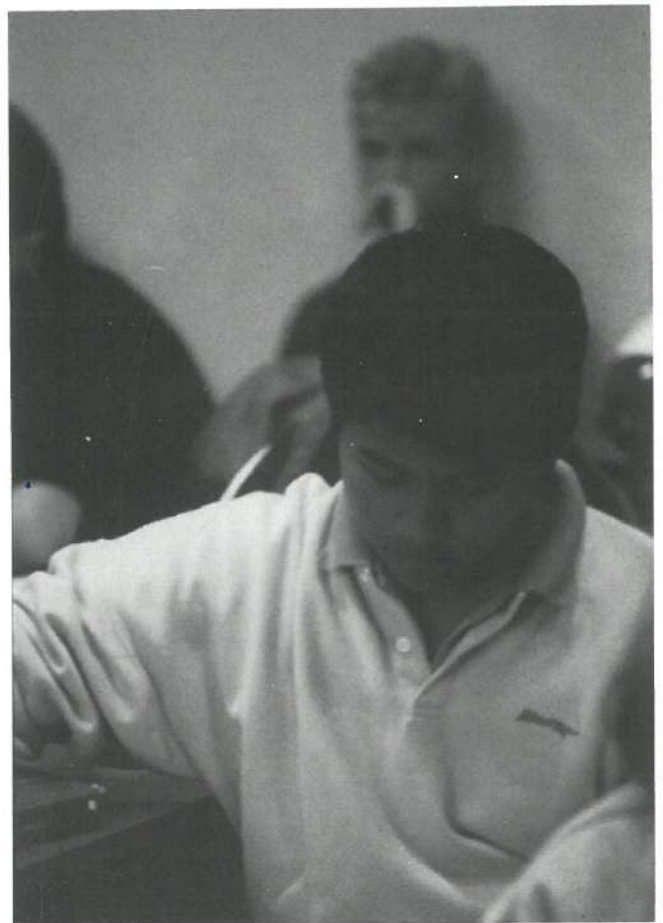

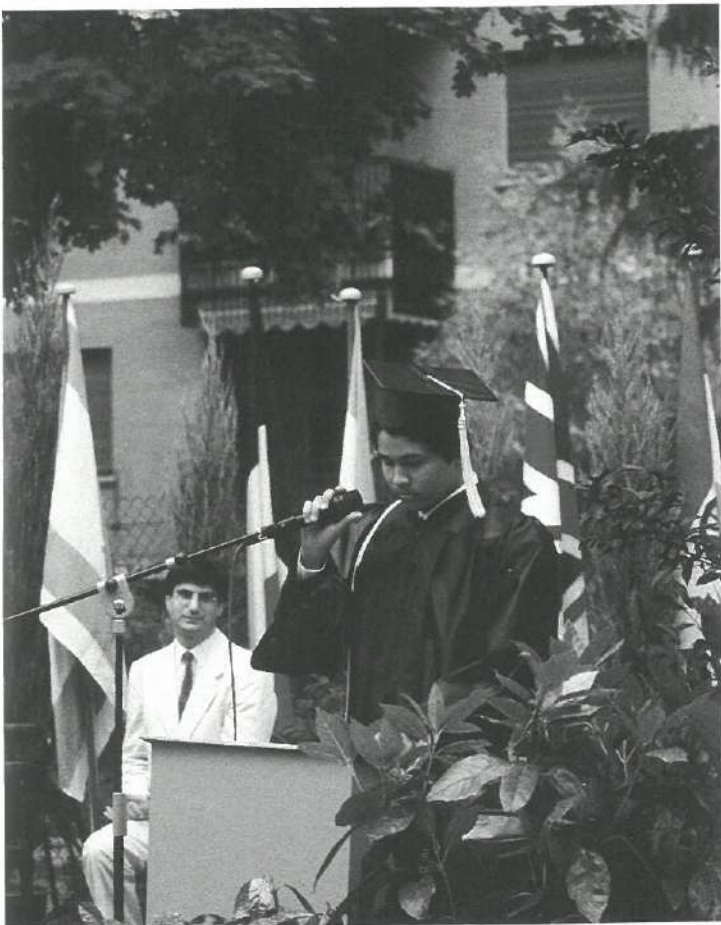

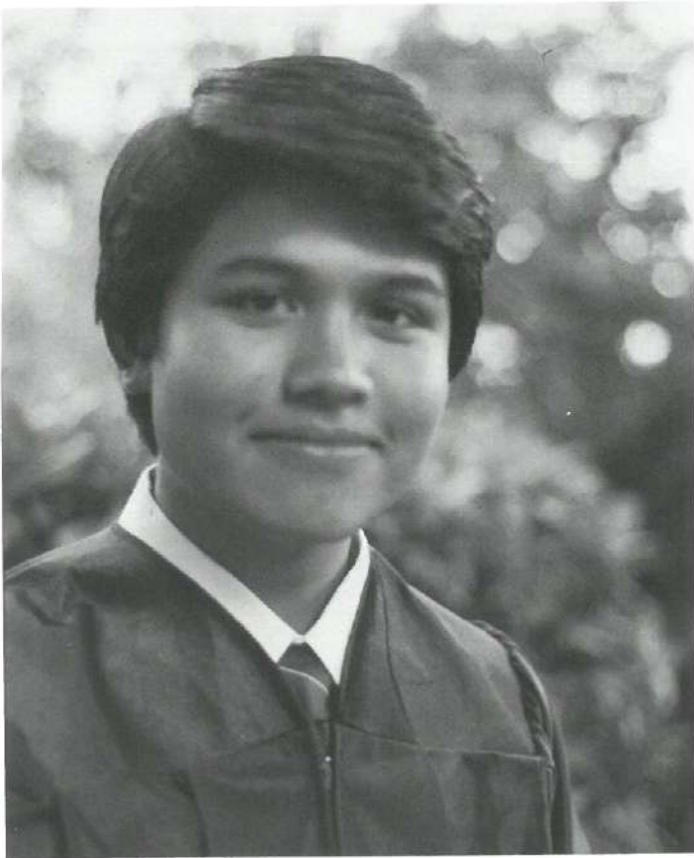

Paola Munz

It is not very easy to explain what ACAT has meant to me. It involved me in several sports, especially basketball and volleyball, and I enjoyed trips all over Europe and the United States with my classmates. With friends and teachers from several nationalities, I learned to share first thoughts about cultures. In brief, ACAT has offered me a variety of experiences both inside and outside the classroom... but nothing stays the same and now it is time for change. GOOD LUCK, fellow seniors. GOOD BYE, Acat.

Rabindra Sebastian

Rabindra, our man in Malaysia, is distinguished by his easy-smile and quiet manners. A dedicated student, he will continue his education in America.

The Seniors in a candid mood.

The Mougines P.E. trip: when titans collide

One of the only points scored by the ACAT team restored Mr. Forsythe's hopes.

Paolo tried to skate.

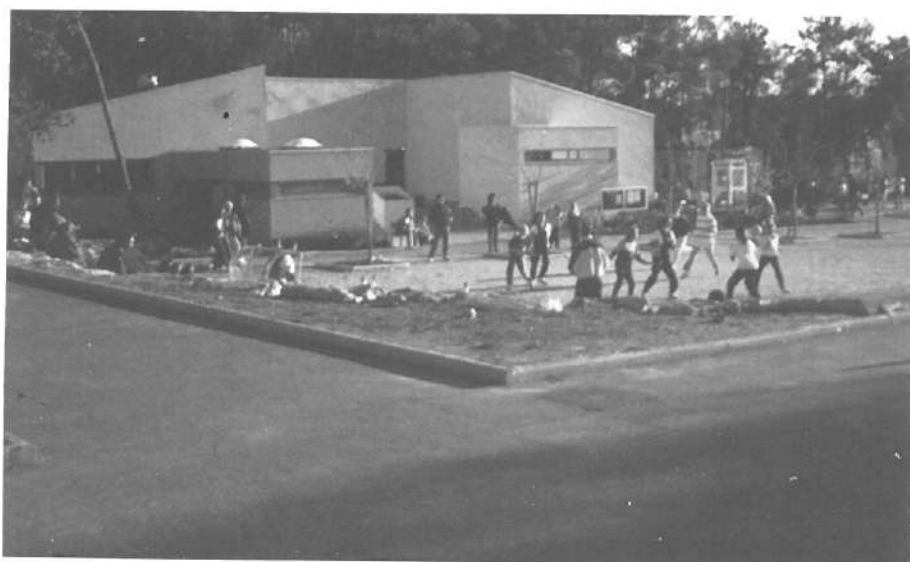

Stefano hoping to get the ball

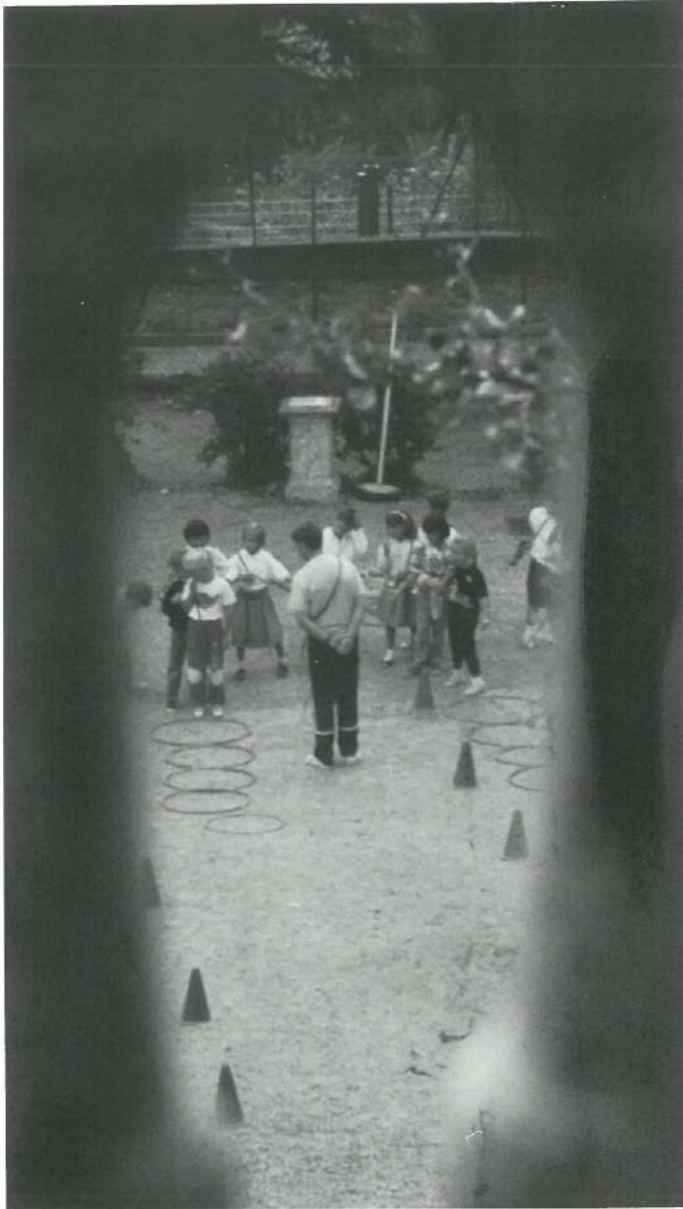

Erik and Luca wait for the ball to come.

Erik going for the ball.

Handball wasn't a great success in Mougines.

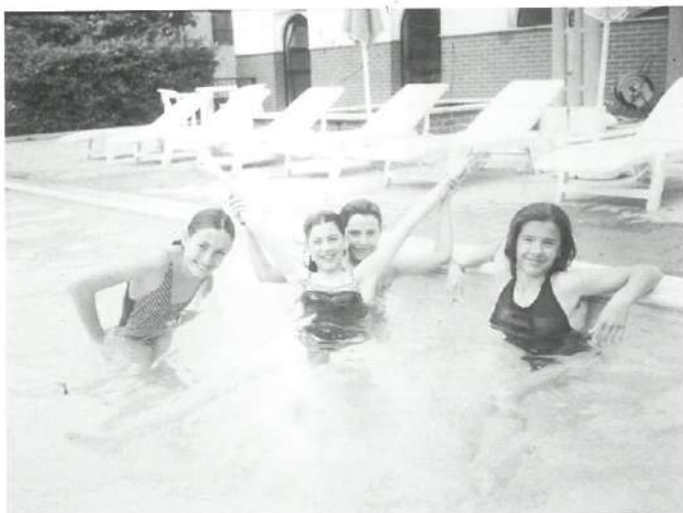

Mr. Forsythe conducts the games for the elementary.

Mr. Forsythe works out with future basketball stars.

ACTIVITIES

Welcome-back Barbecue: a taste of things to come.

Scenes of the initial barbecue which set a good mood for the year.

Teachers having last minute fun before the beginning of a new year.

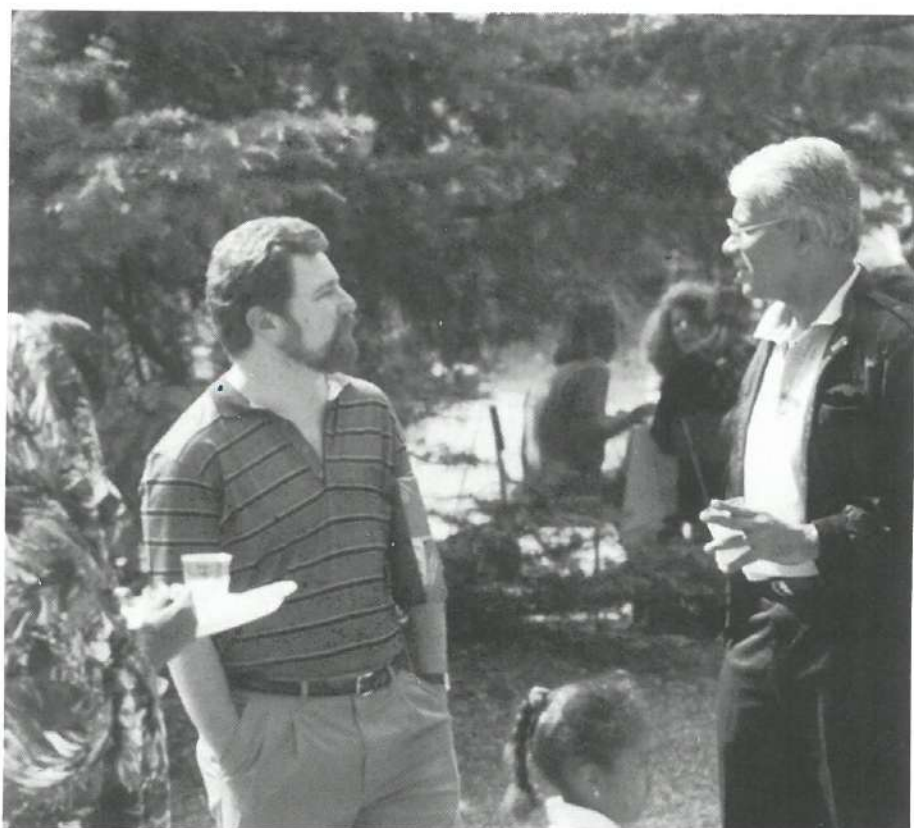

Families also shared the inaugural buffet of the school year.

Roddolo Chefs roasting over an open fire.

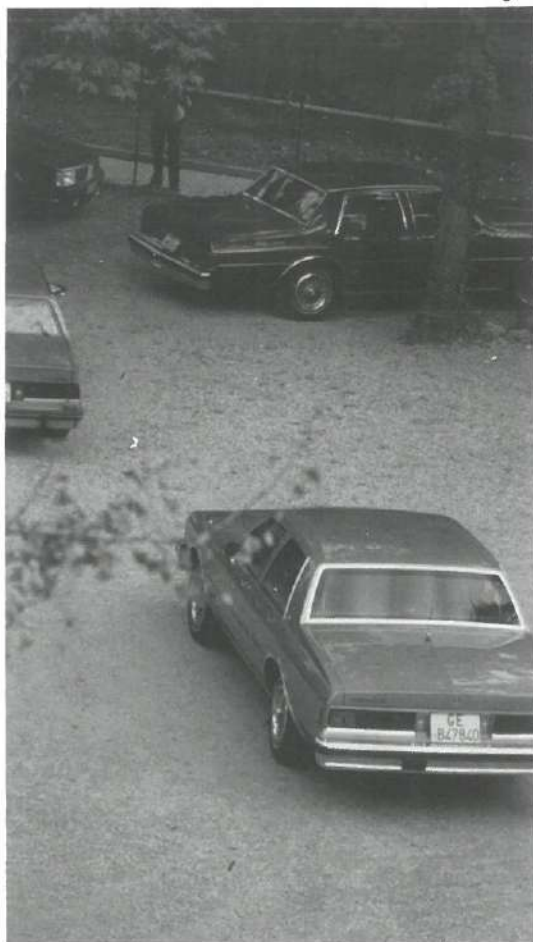

Mr. Savio joins in the banquet spirit with "gusto".

Burgers aside, the best part of the barbecue is in getting to meet the folks.

The Ambassador's visit: a day unlike all the others.

It was the day of the big cars.

Ambassador Peter Secchia's visit to the school included special moments with the kids...

...and easy conversation with the staff.

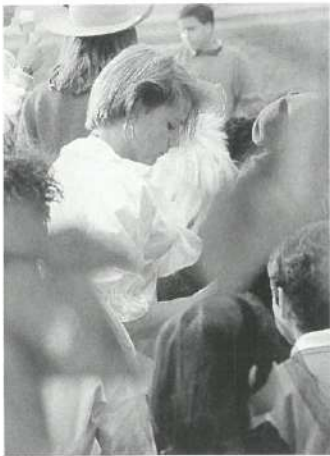

An informal refreshment set the tone of Mr. Secchia's visit.

Mrs Cumiskey and Mr. Churches match wits with the Ambassador.

Halloween: the masked marvels of ACAT

Fourth grade "pilgrims" set the stage for the traditional fest.

Thanksgiving : the day ACAT becomes a landmark for hungry pilgrims.

The much anticipated Thanksgiving dinner was more successful than ever this year as more than 250 participants converged on Villa Roddolo to partake of the annual fest. Many of the well-fed pilgrims complemented their meals with prizes at the raffle.

The leaning pilgrim of ACAT?

UNICEF's fund raising project was sponsored by Mrs. McKenzie.

The pilgrim girls were there too...

Families eager to eat, calmly wait in line for their turn.

An overall view of the numerous participants at the Thanksgiving dinner.

The Hague International Model United Nations General Assembly.

Miss Margulis registers the Barbados delegates at the Congress Hotel.

ACAT's foreign diplomats send long distance greetings.

Elegant delegates get ready to face resolutions.

The student council

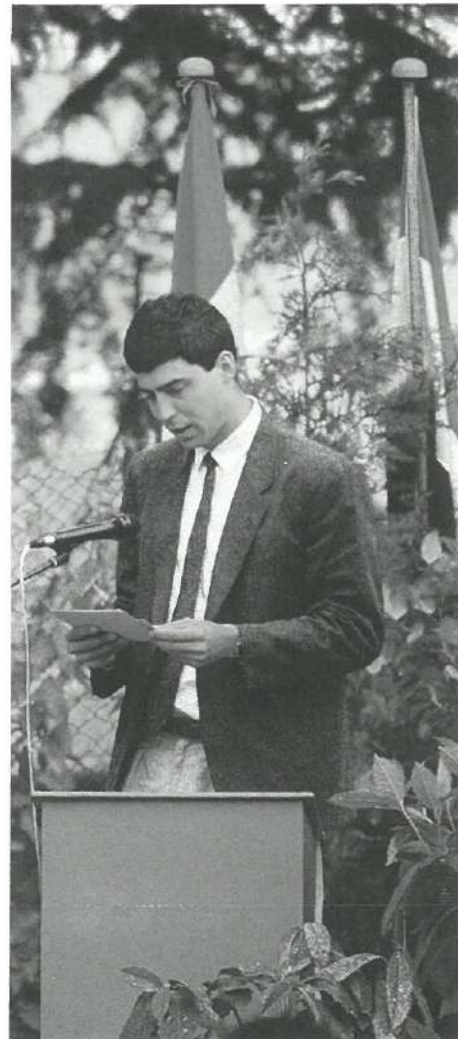

After many lunches given up for assemblies, student council members are finally rewarded.

Interested class-representatives listen to the President's ideas.

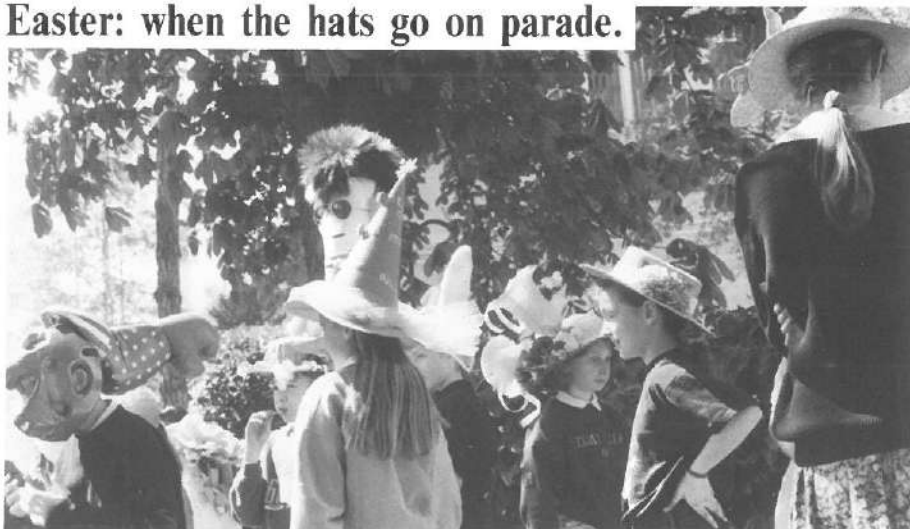

Mr. Forsythe awards Mieke with a T-shirt displaying her award-winning design.

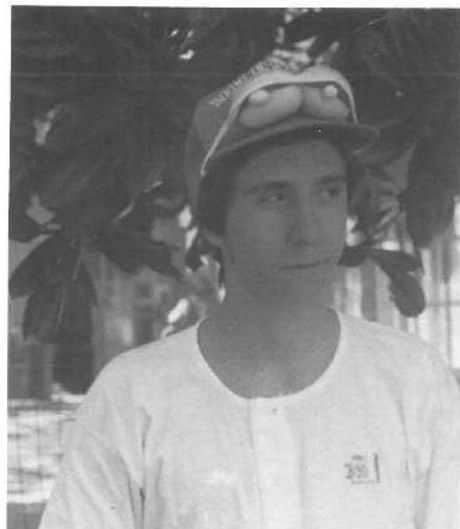

Mr. Mores reviews the year's achievements of the student council.

Easter: when the hats go on parade.

Hatters of every description joined the fun.

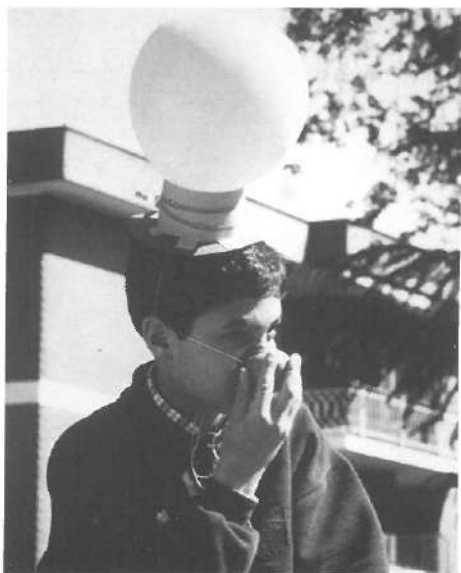

A bikini inspector needs a furtive look.

Hats up, everyone; we're ready to start.

It was a hat-ful experience for the littl'uns.

I get by with a little help from my nose.

When two hats meet, anything could happen.

If hats could only talk!

Nervous hatters line up for the parade to Roddolo.

Veteran hatmakers discuss the latest models.

These hats were meant for walking...

...these just for talking.

Hat's all, folks.

Egg Day: Egg-traordinary!

Luca shows his egg project to the others.

A patient audience waits for the next egg to fall.

Miss Margulies drops Luca's project.

Will it break???

Local eggsperts watch the action.

The egg toss!

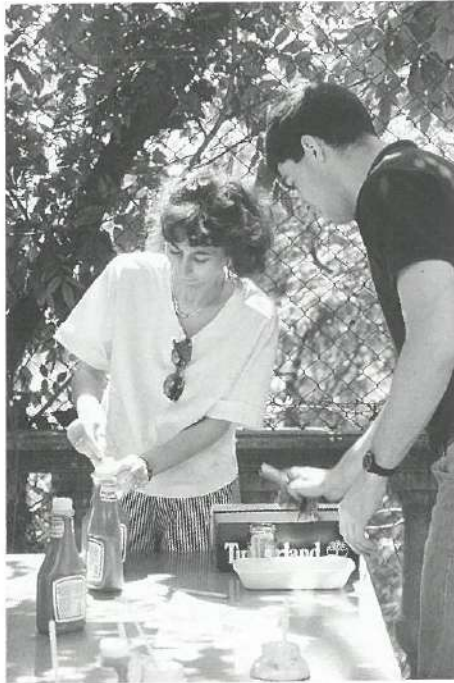

The egg catch!

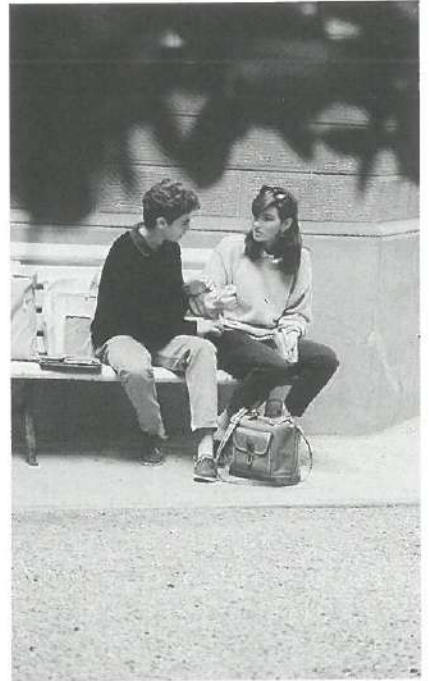

P.T.C.-cue: a relished event

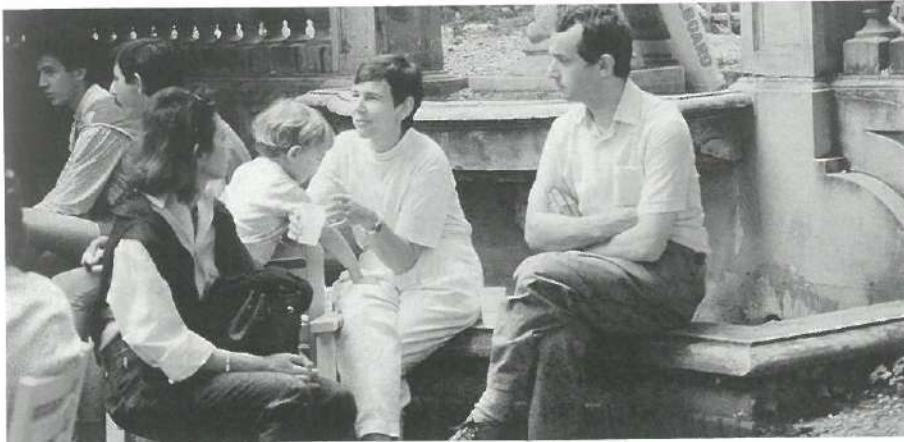

The unsung heroes of the grill.

Mr. Mores employs outside help for the barbeque.

The couple of the year was present at the cook-out.

P.T.C. members enjoy a well-deserved break.

Beneath the greening arches of McACAT's there was a thriving business.

The banner-throwers from Pecetto delighted the crowd.

Milan Jazz Band brings a welcome change of tune to ACAT

A lively rendition of "Showtime" set the mood for the day's program.

One can only imagine living under the same roof.

Music - the cure for latin convulsions, math anxiety, chemistry conniptions, and basic stupidity.

LA CENTRALE DEL LATTE PER I GIOVANI

La Centrale del Latte di Torino sta per compiere quarantanni, ha tuttavia sempre cercato di mantenere uno spirito dinamico e moderno.

In particolare quindi, quando promuove iniziative rivolte ai giovani consumatori lo fa con molto entusiasmo.

I giovani, clienti decisamente importanti, e soprattutto quelli sportivi, vengono collocati al vertice dei consumi di latte; proprio grazie a loro infatti il latte non viene più solo considerato un alimento adatto alla prima colazione, ma anche tra le migliori bevande dissetanti.

Per tutto quanto sopra esposto la Centrale del Latte di Torino ha sempre contribuito, e lo fa tuttora, alle iniziative destinate al pubblico giovane.

Riceve quotidianamente visite scolastiche che coprono fasce d'età dalla scuola dell'obbligo sino agli studi universitari. È presente nei tornei di pallavolo delle scuole MARIA VITTORIA - BOSELLI; nella corsa campestre del S.A.T. (vi partecipano 3.000 giovani dai 6 ai 10 anni); al torneo Internazionale di MINI-BASKET; al torneo Internazionale di calcio giovanile organizzato dal Gruppo Sportivo LA-SCARIS; centro avvicinamento e perfezionamento allo sci giovanile JOYFUC; al premio teatrale per giovani ZETOTTO; al concorso di disegno umoristico-satirico del C.A.U.S. e sponsorizza la ormai tradizionale «FESTA del CAVALLO» che da 10 anni riempie le tribune dell'Ippodromo di Vinovo coinvolgendo i ragazzi delle scuole elementari di Torino e Provincia; sponsorizza attività sportive, Amici del Fiume, Soc. Podistica «Tapporosso Testona» dove molti giovani conquistano medaglie e onori nazionali ed internazionali.
