of the A.C.A.T.-I.S.T. School

1994 - 1995

A.C.A.T.-I.S.T.: The Spirit of the Place

The spirit of ACAT is seen in the possibilities it offers.

- The possibility of affirming your strengths
- The possibility of expanding your knowledge of the world
- And perhaps the most glorious of all, the possibility of discovering the excitement of learning about yourself in an International Community.

As you read through this yearbook and review the past year's activities at ACAT, we encourage you to sit back, take a second look, and consider the possibilities.

Dedication

Full of fond memories of our many adventures in learning in your classes, we gratefully dedicate this yearbook to you. Thank you for your endless patience and loving care in introducing us to our opportunities for both academic and personal growth.

Sincerely,
The 1995 Yearbook Staff

Academics: The possibilities begin in the classroom.

Hisham Abdel-Rahman

Easy going Hisham is easily recognized by his ready smile and genial nature. Proud of his Sudanese heritage, he plays an enthusiastic role in International Day preparations. He plans to work in the business field after university studies in America.

Maddalena Carello

Voluble, a bit gullible, and always amiable, Maddi has dived into every activity at A.C.A.T. Whether preparing for International Day, performing in the annual musical productions, or leading the student council, she helps set an agreeable atmosphere.

Francesco Plaz

Tacturn Francesco lets you know by the positive results of his work that he's been around. A winter sports enthusiast, he heads for the cross country trails at the first snow fall.

A last chance to catch the seniors before they escape.

The group gets together for the parting hug.

Board members check out ACAT expansion possibilities in Pecetto.

Activities: The possibilities extend throughout the year.

Re-accreditation rewards an intensive year of self-study.

Accreditation team chairman Paul La Spargola measures board members.

Various phases of the accreditation report confirm the Faculty's Impressions of ACAT.

And the good news is passed on to the student body.

Versatile Monica switches from keyboard to first aid.

Paola and Mariana work out a fun ESL PE activity.

Skeptical Mr. McKenzie accepts Eml's excuse.

A warm welcome to Maria Recrosio, our new coordinator of Business Activities.

Even in their free time, the teachers facilitate our explorations.

Adventure, ETC.: Discovering beyond our limits.

River Rafting is a wet and wild white water winner.

Parents enjoyed the experience as much as their kids.

Wary Iona suits up for her run on the river.

Obedient Chris responds when the instructor says "Hold On!"

ACAT adventure seekers get what they're looking for.

A tranquil stretch of river allows for sightseeing.

Horseback Riding: The adventure continues.

Piero has read "The Charge of the Light Brigade".

Different mounts for different folks.

Peter's bowling technique improved, but not as much as Yosuke's.

International Day: The Spirit of The Place.

International Day is the occasion to share and learn about different cultures. Like all the past years, this year's International Day resulted in a great success in which people found the chance to be together and have fun together. A full immersion in 15 different cultures was made possible by collaborating to create an atmosphere of happiness and wonder.

The Union Jack gets a little help from its friends.

Giuseppe gets a close-up on Spain.

Oriental Delicatessen is Mrs. Kitawki's special.

Concentrated Maddalena gives the finishing touch to her chocolate mousses.

The Dutch table is the ideal place for a chat and a beer.

Creative Maresa helps Sweden come alive.

Involved in a full Japanese immersion, Mrs. DiClemente tastes some soup.

With a glamorous smile, Carmen displays her Italian spirit.

International Day is a good occasion for Anaela and Emy to exchange opinions.

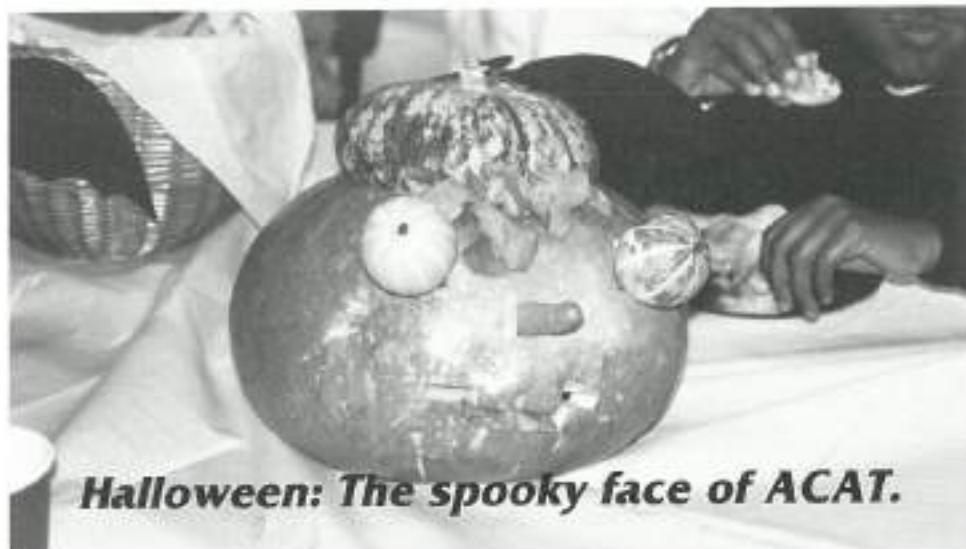

Two Brazilians are better than one.

Lisa attracts customers from all over the world.

Miss Hersey gets right down to the practical part of the day's efforts ... a contribution to UNICEF.

Halloween: The spooky face of ACAT.

Original and creative Fourth Graders fo

he weirdest bunch.

A mini-fairy takes out his classmates.

agic Barbara gives a pep-talk on her favorite magic tricks.

Captain Hook and his crazy squad take part in the spirit of the day.

Pumpkins, fairies, and scarecrows all gather around for an exciting parade.

Mrs. Cumiskey tries to get a better look at things.

Sombrero kids adds a touch of Mexico to all the festivity.

In the midst of all the foggy grayness of October days, when leaves turn brown and fall to the ground is a special day which ACAT identifies as Halloween. The spirit of this day, where every kid dresses up according to his imagination's suggestions is powerful enough to dissipate all the gray and make of October a colorful Spring.

X-Mas at ACAT: The Spirit continues

Making the last touches, the ACAT elves get Santa Claus ready for the great event.

Now ready to go, Santa thanks his helpers.

With a loving smile and a present, Santa makes each one happy.

And with loving kisses and hugs each kid made Santa happy.

Receiving a present personally from Santa doesn't happen often (only at ACAT)

Enthusiastic elementary kids contribute to the Christmas Spirit.

Third Grade's angelic tunes enchanted the audience.

With a dynamic version of "The 12 Days of Christmas" the Fourth Graders stir up the evening.

Reaching out: an activity for all seasons.

A Fall Fest with the "Ancients" starts the year off well for the Eighth Grade.

A blind-folded piñata-buster responds to Luc's directions.

Smiling Veronica helps a Roddolo resident to participate in the games.

An elderly bowler knocks them all over with Tossake's encouragement.

Eighth Grade elves accompany Santa on his special visit to the little'uns.

An ailing Roddolo patient finds Christmas joy in a school delegation.

Christmas charm radiates in an exchange of smiles.

When Emanuele reaches out, he means it!

It is a crowd of fun when it comes to playing with the ancients.

Yoshiko gets a nosefull at the Carnevale festival with the ancients.

A Carnevale fest wouldn't be complete without the traditional "bugle".

Gallant Jeff escorts his Carnevale "model" in the fashion show.

MUN: An International experience in discovering new people.

ACAT's 1995 representatives at the U.N.

After a long night of International relations even dynamic Rick wears out.

The Swaziland representative works overtime to catch up with her colleagues.

All dressed up with no place to go, Nick meets up with some friends.

Student Council: an ACAT experience in discovering ourselves.

Remember the folks who brought you ...

... Spirit Day!!

Exuberant audience reacts to Student Council Election speeches.

Student Council Advisor, Mr. Gaudier sets the ground rules for the candidates' speeches.

The candidates then set their own ground rules.

The best advice is "to keep in touch".

Soccer Season Highlights

Rising above his opponents, Peter puts his head to use.

Tactics, action, and team play describe the efforts of ACAT in competition.

The High School soccer team gets psyched for the game to come.

During the Pecetto Cup game, Hisham blasts the ball past the opposition.

With a clever Limbo movement, Ben makes a brilliant save.

Determined Moh works the ball up to the goal.

With a well-placed karate kick, Carl outwits his opponents.

A Mini-Sports Day brings out the best of ACAT'S Mini-Athletes.

A colorful dash marks the start of the relay race.

Hatted runners complete the first lap of the relay.

PE cones keep restless young team members alert.

Mini-Athletes explore their potential in a colorful swirl of activity.

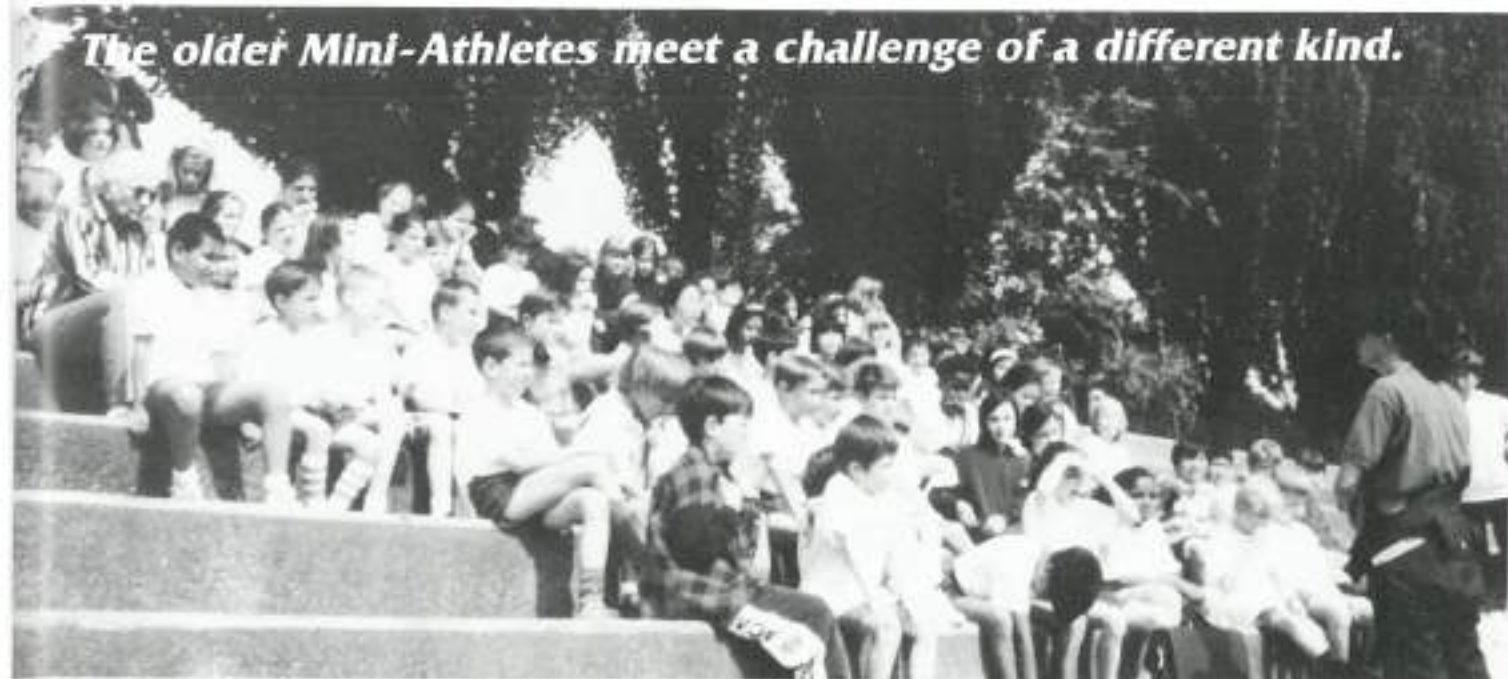

Samantha Rosso has her own cheering session.

Julie tallies up the individual team scores.

The older Mini-Athletes meet a challenge of a different kind.

Paola's pre-game lecture on sportsmanship sets the tone for the day.

The real test for one's Nike's is the long jump.

The 100 yard dash finds Ryeze and Emi in close competition.

Leaving the starting block after the "GO" Sports Day participants pursue their "Chariots of Fire".

Packed with energy, little Elko leaves the competition behind.

Acateers explore old and new possibilities to learn.

On the run, 6th graders get a feel for the Circus Maximus in Rome.

The Mouth of Truth occasionally gets indigestion.

A whole amphora full of Luca is enough for any Roman's household.

Emi catches the luxury tour of St. Peter's.

Catching the Roccobio Kinsman on a Raffle to Peter's "Measure of All Things."

Michy and "Mouse" check out the prop department at Teatro Regio.

With Regio director, Vittorio Bonelli, 6th grade opera fans visit behind the scene.

A local resident at Montecarlo reminisces about the 9th grade visit.

"Super Mark" comes back down to earth at Experimenta.

Eighth grade Shakespearlans recite in a workshop on Avon.

Full moon, 1993, the 8th graders are on a discovery trip to Stratford.

At the local hairdressers, Vale M. tries the "Ann Boleyn cut".

Henry the Eighth and the eighth grade both enjoyed Hampton Court.

Going for "Baroque", the 8th graders explore Juvarra's little contribution at Stupinigl.

"To sleep, perchance to dream," Elena "unravels her day's cares" on a London bus.

Cortona: The Fourth and Fifth Grade way to study the Middle Ages.

An orientation meeting prepares the group for a fantastic journey into the past.

Hiking over the rolling green hills of Tuscany requires a reorientation meeting.

Gala receives some expert guidance on her medieval project.

A trip to Cortona wouldn't be complete without something to bring home.

Elementary Field Trips

A medieval snack at the castle in Serralunga satisfied the 4th grade pilgrims on tour.

Flying the friendly skies with Michelle and Carmel is the only way to go.

Happy kindergartners board the airport shuttle for a tour of Caselle.

"Oliversudden" there was a play

An Overall sense of dedication set the foundations for a great challenge. Lots of practice and creativity began building on top of this. Improvisation led off to the development of acting skills, and the voluntary help of parents and teachers provided the support that tied all things together. The Energy and enthusiasm of a united group catalyzed the entire process, and the results of the above commitment spelled out OLIVER!

Something in the way "Nancy" moves brings the beer hall to life.

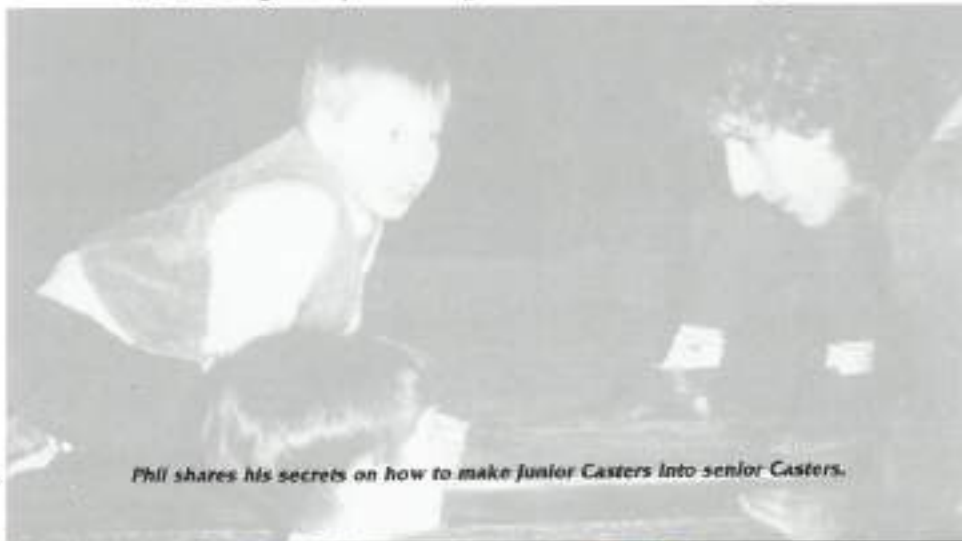

Isabella and Philip discuss the best way to develop the character of Mr. Brownlow.

Putting their Lego blocks aside, volunteer set builders take on a bigger task.

The Oliver stage crew puts finishing touches on a nice little mailing box ...

Phil shares his secrets on how to make Junior Casters into senior Casters.

A few pins and Mrs. Basson's help are all Marissa needs to secure her "Cuddly" Mr. Bumble.

Pumped up by the audience's response, the C rises to the occasion.

The latest restoration job at A.C.A.T. involves a new face-lift for Alessia.

Staring at their sign, Ian and Mark consider a little move.

Wearing Andy sheds some light on the play in a light.

Blowing doors around according to Phil's desires, also Mark experiences the "weight" of his preparation.

The cast receives a warm applause after the final success.

Popping out of the curtains with a confident smile, Sebastian prepares to meet his fans.

Easter Parade: A hat for every reason

The versatile lower garden braces itself for the traditional Easter Parade.

... Others for discovering, meditating, socializing, etc.

Others just like to be carried around.

Some hats are made for laughing ...

Some hats are clever but weird ...

Some are just nice the way they are

All together now ... some hats are old, some are new, some borrowed and some like.

An obligatory parade before one's parents offers another "Fuji" moment.

Under the critical eyes of the "Ancients", the colorful toppers pass in review.

"Hats off" to all the creative energy that went into making this year's parade another colorful fest.

Egg Day: Eggceptional!

An annual challenge by the science and math depts. invites the upper schoolers to create a device to protect an egg from breaking after it has been dropped from various heights. ACAT's eggstraordinary engineers faced this challenge. Here's the story.

The upstairs gallery gets the egg's view of the target.

Prospective engineers awaited their turns.

The World Controller of Egg Drops prepares to launch his enemy into

A flop-eared spectator plans ahead for his own device.

Eager participants wait for final instructions.

Eggspelled Paolo describes the aerodynamics of his contraption.

He proudly displays his winning entry (and his plane).

Mr. Abbott displays the real winning entry.

Mr. Mores "Eggroofs" Mr. Abbott against the "losers".

Putting himself in a vulnerable position, Mr. Mores challenges the last egg.

Career Day: A creative way to explore our possibilities

As a service project to the upper school, the 8th grade organized the 9th annual Career Day, inviting a wide variety of speakers to share their work experiences with us. An afternoon of workshops ranging from community service to first aid balanced the day's busy program.

General Motors Engineer Joe Jurczynski shares his thoughts on Aero-space Careers.

Our gatekeepers Luci and Muf welcome International Lawyer Guido Brosio to Career Day.

Maria Luisa Cagliostro discusses her work with handicapped children.

Back by popular demand was Journalist Dada Rosso.

A-V troubleshooter Vale M. rescues a speaker.

Publicity Manager Roberto Rocchietti explains the high tech nature of his work.

Criminologist Baimo Bollone receives a yearbook from Irene.

Genial Giorgio Conteglaxomo invites Paula to participate in the Rotary Club's Orienteering Day.

A Theatrical Makeup Workshop by Elisabetta Donat-Cattin puts Carmen and Camilla to work.

Not even "Juliet's" theme could resist "Bianco" Piero during the Drama Workshop.

In a First-Aid exercise Luca Gola prepares to "save" the dummy.

A pause between sessions allows Mr. Conteglaxomo to peruse the yearbook.

PTA Art Fair: Creative fun from simple materials.

Eager fair participants can't wait to get inside.

Once again the PTA has organized a winner. The annual art fair (held this year on the 13th of May) has become a much awaited event when both parents and kids alike can learn how to create fun projects out of simple materials.

Mrs. Foley helps out at the pencil holder stand.

Mrs. Palisca has all the right stuff to make the teddy bears.

Starting her ACAT career early, Ann Mores undergoes dad's final inspection.

At the snack bar Andrew replenishes his creative energy.

Mother's maxi patience makes a mini project possible.

The fun part begins when you get to do it yourself.

Mrs. Profumo sets a young artist on the right path to creativity.

The parents chat while the kids create.

STRACAT + STRAGROUP = STRAFUN

Competing with Inconsiderate traffic, heartbreak hills, and muddy potholes was worth it to have the friendly camaraderie, poppy-speckled fields, and brilliant day at the annual STACAT — another PTA success.

Ever-ready Paula catches up with obnoxious Anna for instructions "on the run".

Under mother's watchful eye, Marissa gets "numbered".

Security patrols receive last minute assignments from Mrs. Goodall.

It takes "stra-breath" to do the STRACAT.

The pause that refreshes also helps to continue to the end.

A T-shirt is worth a thousand words.

The Flag Ladies bring up the rear.

Buddies on the run. William and Federico coast on the down side of the hill.

STRACUE: The landmark for hungry Stracateers.

The problem of being at the front of the line is waiting for your friend at the end of the line.

Joseph entertains while waiting for the whoppers to arrive.

Getting close to the action, Bassam and Carlos savor their lunch.

A bristling trade transpired at Sue's ticket booth.

Breaking the smoke, the heat, and the hungry masses is our hero, Mr. Ruffalo.

By their cups you'll know them as "The Winners".

And then there's Ms. Lencloni whose cup runneth over.

La Mandria: It's the thought that counts (not the place)

Coach Russo clarifies the situation to a bewildered kid.

An unexpected rainy day doesn't discourage ACATeers.

A soccer match is always a good alternative.

The pom-pom people just watch.

We don't want to know what happened after.

If holding hands, the balloon throwers get ready for their first toss.

A balloon a day keeps the doctor away.

Anna, Mrs. Lencioni and Carl wait impatiently for their turn to get back to their partner.

Academic Award Assembly: a stimulus for better standards.

Honor recipients accept their certificates.

Mr. Elliott poses proudly with his honor students.

Twice a year, students from the middle and high school meet to receive awards for outstanding scholastic achievements. The assembly, held in recognition for effort and dedication, also serves the purpose of encouraging kids to aim higher up.

Mr. Elliott hands Francesca her Merit Award.

Froud mothers are always happy to attend another Award assembly.

Attentive students await to be called up for recognition.

Mrs. Russo, our NHS advisor, clarifies rules for society membership.

Sportsmanship and Fair Play Day

Coach Gaudet offers a friendly reminder of that spirit.

Jaguar team members discuss the spirit of sports.

Glimpses of the day's progress.

Good memories of a day well-played are symbolized in a trophy.

ESL: The way language barriers are knocked down at ACAT.

Having only one copy makes ESL reading an intimate affair.

Suddenly "on stage", Filippo finds himself at a loss for words.

Miguel ably responds to the invitation to speak about his project.

Mummified Mariana presents her project to a "live" audience.

Newly arrived students enjoy an ESL guided tour of the garden.

Elementary closing Exercises

Miss Hersey prompts first grade choristers.

Dr. Elliott starts the ceremony with glowing praise for the students' achievement.

A proud Mrs. Cunniff sends Nara off to the First Grade.

By their "chup-a-chups" you will know them.

Mrs. Bartlett congratulates one of her pupils on a job well done.

Board members hold an impromptu meeting.

With song and dance, the elementary chorus warms up the audience.

A little guidance from Mrs. Zebuliano sets her students on the right path.

With promotion in hand, Cashie is now ready for the 11th Grade experience.

A year of exciting discoveries concludes satisfactorily with Mrs. Corway's congratulations.

Promoted to the Middle School, the 5th graders sing a joyous farewell to their Elementary friends.

Graduation Day: The Last Hurrah!

The "New Seniors" step up to receive their diplomas.

Mr. Mores recognizes Zoe for her commendable achievement.

We have all-weather spectators at ACAT.

Ms. Hersey couldn't let this "Fugi Moment" pass.

Mr. Grifbaudo follows the ceremony with interest.

Dr. Elliott introduces Mr. Grifbaudo, Director of the B.I.T. as our guest speaker.

Long time resident at ACT, Maddi says goodbye to it all.

Underclassmen proudly receive their promotion certificates.

Francesco thanks his fans and supporters.

The Graduating Class of 1995 shares the podium with Ms. Lymbery.

The ECIS Award recipient Andrea receives a kiss from Kirsten for his achievements.

Middle School Student Council representatives receive a note of thanks for their efforts.

Vale and Maresa close out the year with a song.

In retrospect we have tried to represent the possibilities for self-discovery through the numerous field trips, class project exchanges, and activities that took place during this school year. We would like to thank you all for having explored all of this with us. Here are a few final glimpses at what has been a great year.

Curious little'uns begin their exploration of ACAT's possibilities.

The best achievement at the end of a race is having gained personal satisfaction.

Potential coach Sydney takes inspiration from his potential athletes.

Tracy is always there when a hand is needed.

Improvising clown Jeff entertains the ancients.

Combined effort makes senior work easier.

SANTENA - VILLAR PEROSA

La Monoservizio Bibo si differenzia dalla maggior parte delle aziende concorrenti proprio in termini strategici: doppia produzione (in polistirolo e in cartoncino), gamma ampia ed articolata, particolare cura nel packaging, oltre ad una qualità di base sempre elevata, intesa a posizionare il marchio al di fuori della low price competition.

La scelta di posizionamento, compatibilmente con le caratteristiche del mercato, si è infatti da sempre indirizzata verso il segmento top quality, soprattutto attraverso la produzione della linea di piatti e bicchieri in cartoncino. Assolutamente indispensabile nel quadro di un'offerta completa, i tovaglioli non rappresentano invece un prodotto strategico per l'azienda torinese, ma piuttosto un'importante complemento di gamma, in particolare nell'area del tre veli stampato, cioè del massimo livello qualitativo. Insieme a piatti e bicchieri, costituiscono infatti uno degli elementi essenziali dei set coordinati.

La Monoservizio Bibo S.p.A. è, in Italia, leader di mercato dei prodotti monouso per la tavola sia in termini di quota di mercato che per quanto concerne la completezza dell'assortimento, la qualità dei prodotti ed il servizio ai Clienti.

La Società è fornitore dei maggiori gruppi della G.D.O. che assorbono circa il 70% delle vendite in Italia del prodotto per i consumatori.

La leadership nell'ambito della G.D.O. è stata raggiunta attraverso continui studi ed implementazioni di tutti i fattori che determinano una veloce «rotazione» a scaffale: caratteristiche del prodotto, dell'imballo e del packaging.

La Monoservizio Bibo S.p.A., che nel 1992 ha raggiunto un fatturato di circa 70 miliardi di lire, è stata fondata nel 1928. L'Azienda è quindi uno dei pionieri nell'industria del monouso per la tavola ed ha di conseguenza acquisito un importante know-how ed una profonda «cultura» nell'ambito di questo specifico settore.

Da 5 anni ormai la Monoservizio Bibo applica a tutti i livelli i principi della Qualità Totale e, entro la fine del 1993, si sarà organizzata secondo le norme ISO 9002 richieste per la certificazione in ambito CEE.

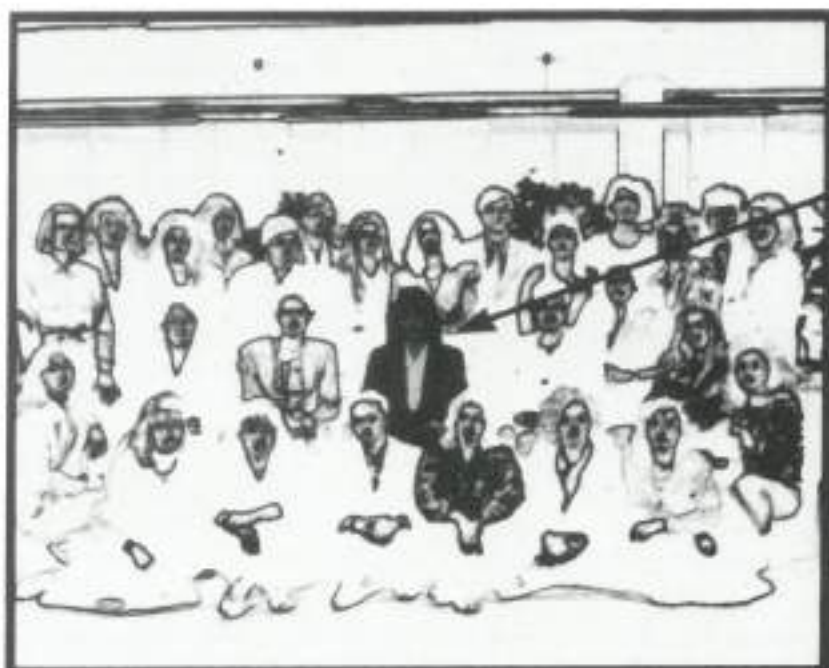

La Monoservizio Bibo ha anche una importante quota di mercato nel settore Catering che assorbe circa il 30% del suo fatturato totale.

In questo settore l'Azienda opera con una gamma completa di articoli studiati specificatamente, in termini di caratteristiche del prodotto, del confezionamento e dell'imballaggio, per soddisfare le esigenze della ristorazione sociale (es. prodotti per i vassoi) e commerciale (alberghi e ristoranti).
