The Global Piazza

In our preparation of this 1997-1998 yearbook, we were attracted to the notion of the world as a neighborhood - with more emphasis on the people who are its occupants and less on the space they occupy. Since advances in global telecommunications and transport have made the world smaller, this concept of the world as an interdependent community has become part of our thinking. In a sense, then, the idea seems even closer to reality at ACAT-IST, where the need for sharing, mutual respect, and caring within a community enriched by its diversity becomes a daily exercise.

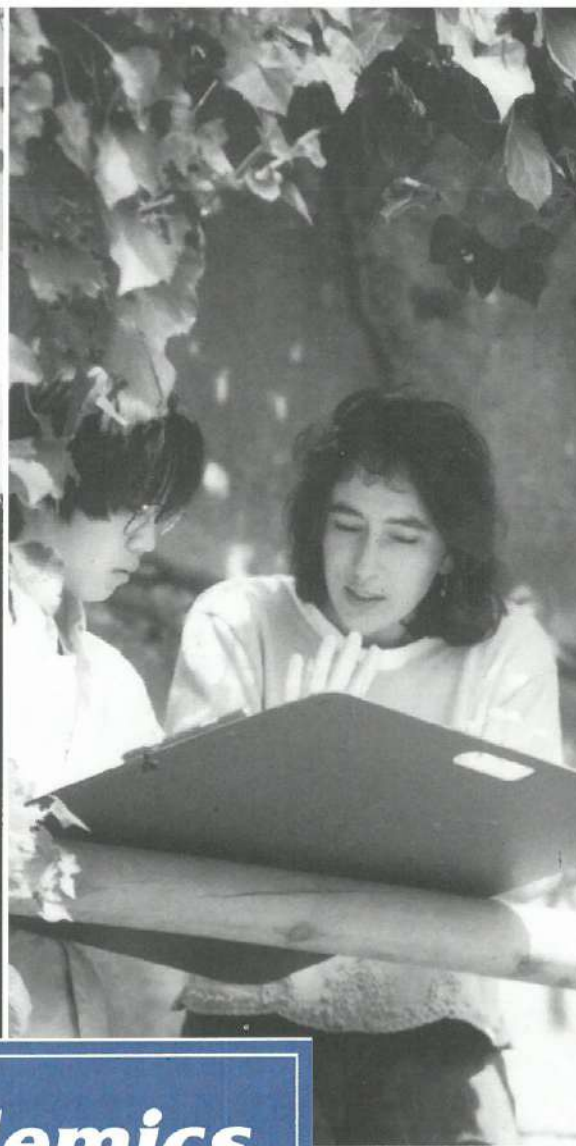

We trust, then, that as you browse through the pages of this yearbook, you appreciate our choice of "the piazza" - the center of any village where all the social interaction takes place - as a symbol of the global village and of the place where our studies at ACAT-IST will eventually lead us.

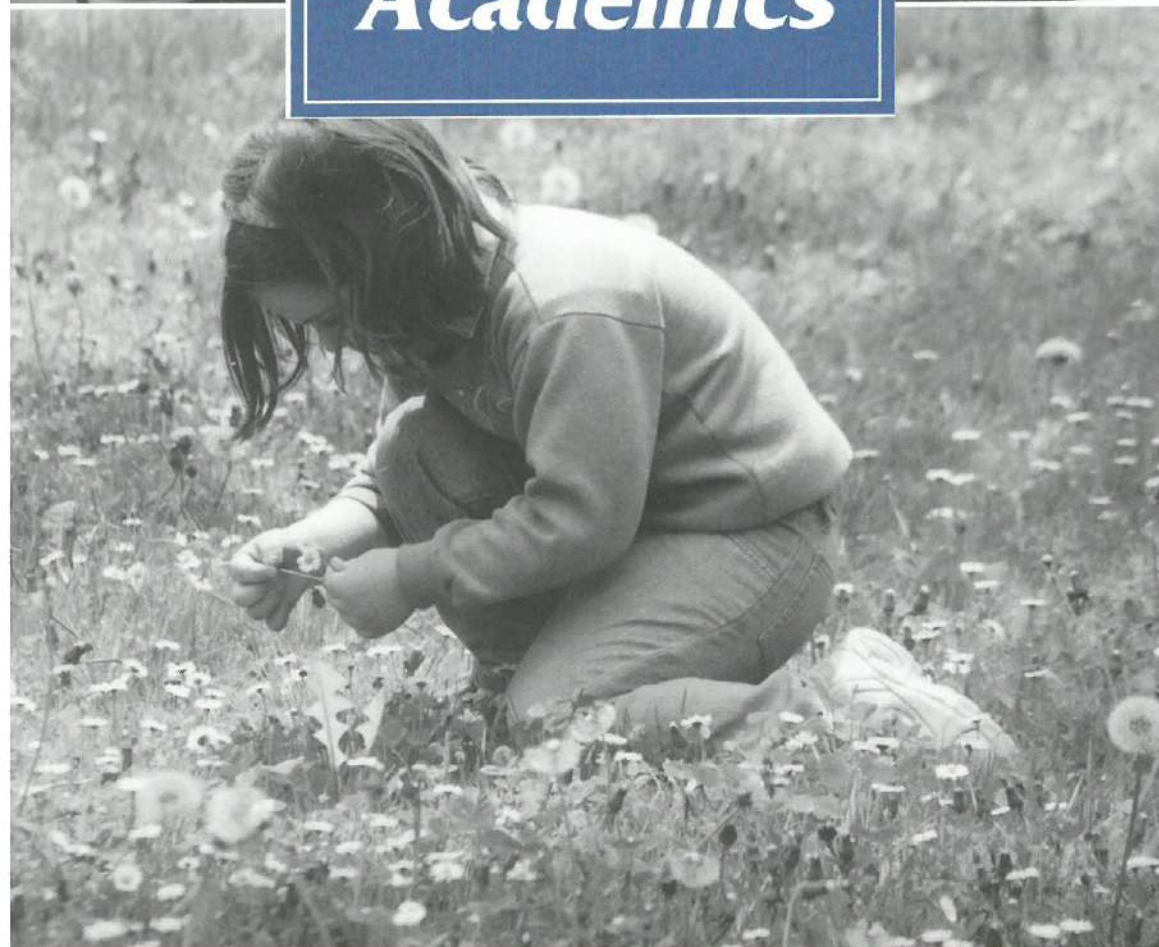

Dedication

A sweet smile in Kindergarten, a soothing voice in First Grade, and a firm hug in Second Grade; three personalities who all left a permanent mark on the students who grew up at ACAT: Mrs. Gelsomini, Mrs. Zabalzano, Mrs. Bardelli. Mrs. Gelsomini's gentle nature, her tummy-rubbings and inexhaustible patience make the delicate passage from primary to elementary school much sweeter. Mrs. Zabalzano's unique South African accent accompanies readings of 'Meg and Mog', and reflects a person who is always ready with a smile to answer the millions of daily questions children ask. Bittersweet Mrs. Bardelli, with her Scottish firmness, helped children gain confidence and develop character. We thank these three very special women for their everlasting efforts; they will always be part of our warm memories of the ACAT family.

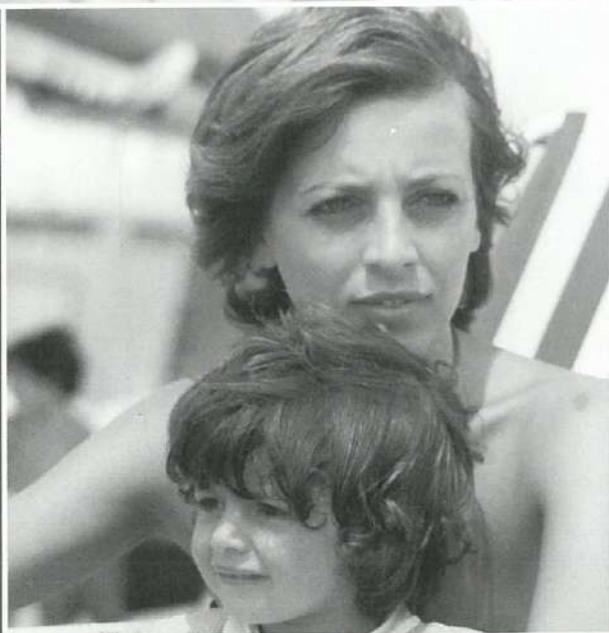

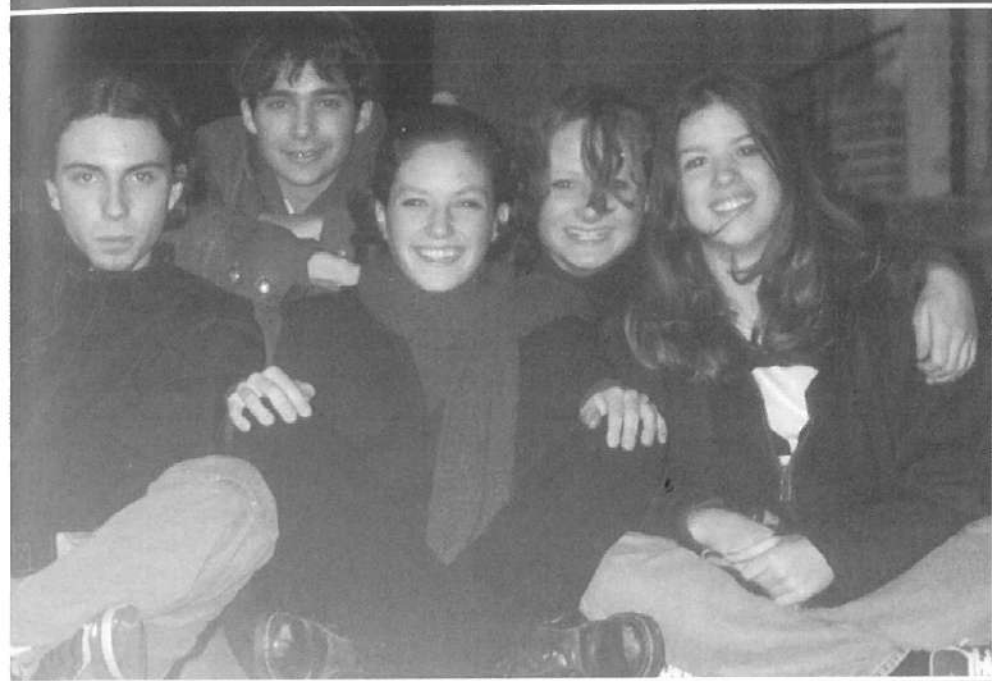

Academics

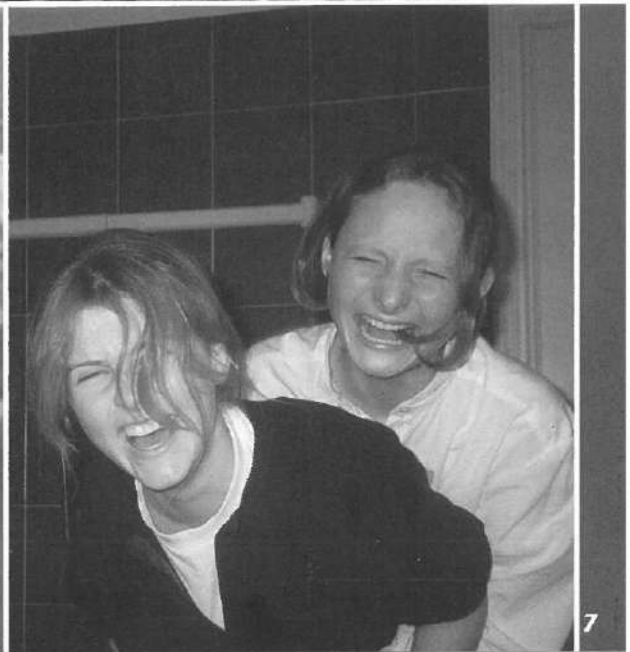

Simona Bozzarelli

Spontaneous and fun-loving, "Babbu" has always been known as our tender little girl. The balance between her distinct and creative fun and her good-hearted disposition is appreciated by everyone. To her, school has always been warm and welcoming and after nine years at ACAT, she will treasure the friendships she has made and strengthened. Despite her sometimes indecisive attitude, she feels certain to miss MUN and the trips to America with Mr. Boyle. With open arms and her sweet ways she will earn the opportunities that she desires.

Energetic, caring Carola takes charge of her younger siblings and dominates the yearbook and student council arenas with her organizational talents but still finds time to give a hand and smile to those who surround her. Her studious image masks her truly crazy and spontaneous spirit. Even her extravagant sneezing hints at her uniqueness. Serene with her high expectations, she captures the positive aspect of everything she ventures into.

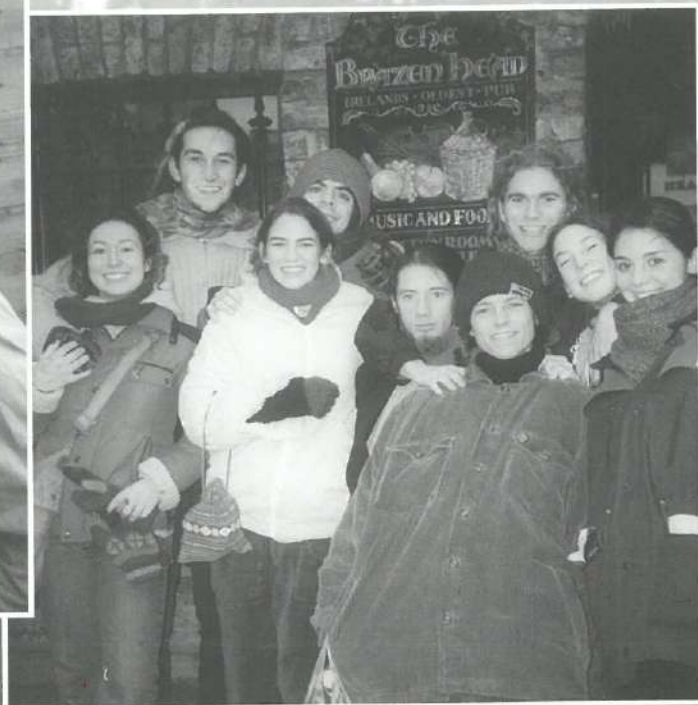

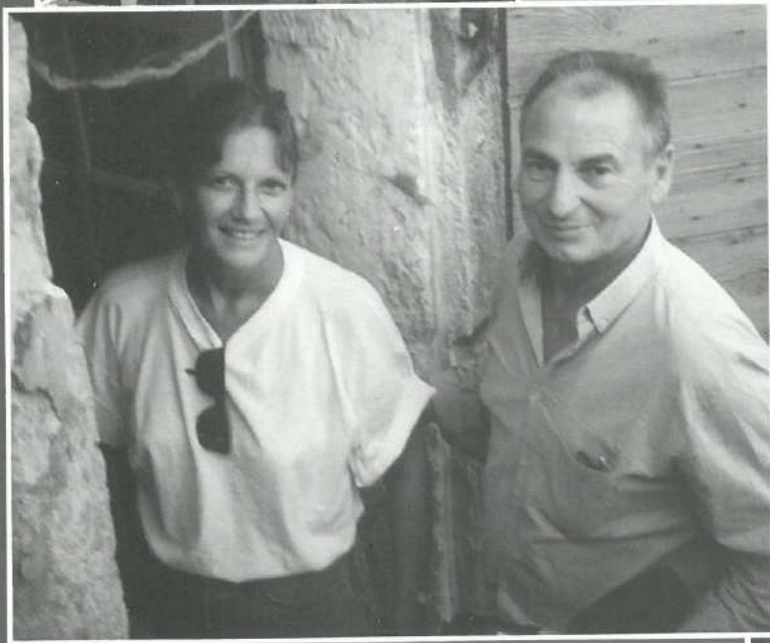

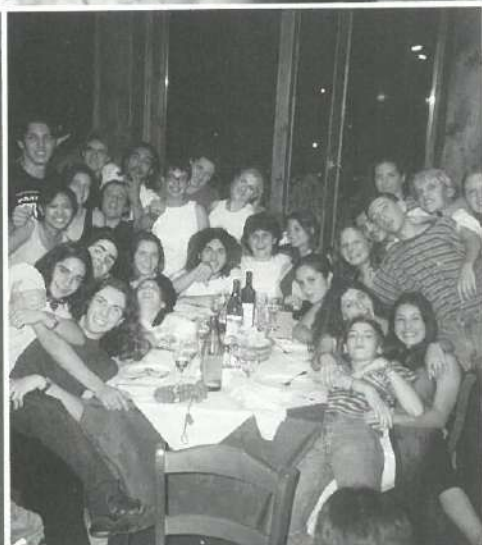

Marie Couëlle

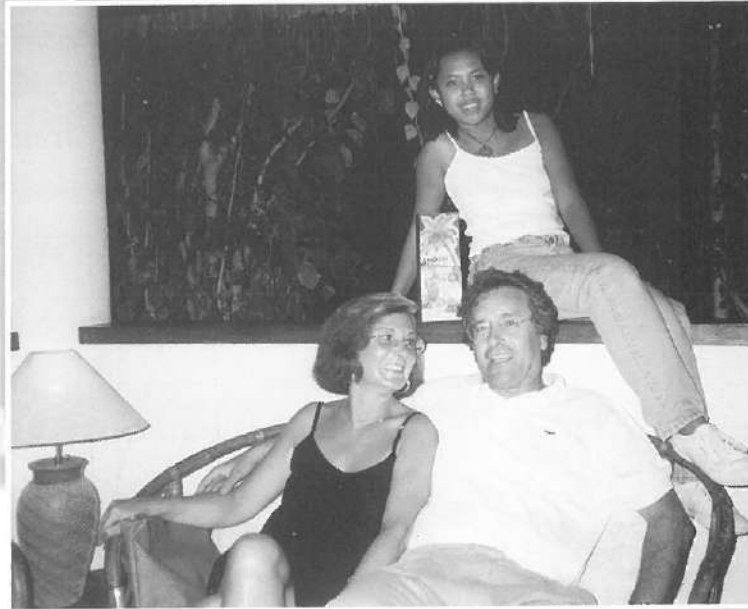

To some, Marie seems a wild and crazy child, but she is kind and understanding in the eyes of those who know her. In coming to ACAT, she has found a more relaxed way of learning, whether through the honesty of Mr. Mores, the patience of Dr. Elliott, or in the enlightening history lessons with Ms. Wilkinson.

In her ideal vacation, Marie would sail a boat to all sunny places where nature rules over everything. Perhaps she will take after her native New Zealand mother and someday be able to fulfill her quest to help less fortunate families in third world countries.

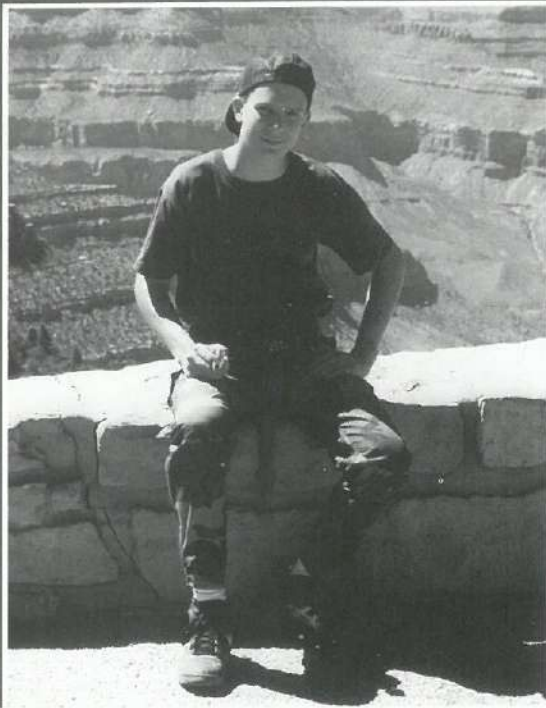

When Marie leaves us to take her place in life, we know that we have passed on to the world someone who might make a difference. "Ma quanto la fai lunga!"

A self-confessed "pecora nera", Raya, found a sympathetic friend in "big" Walter. Despite her teddy bear look, which leaves a soft spot in your heart, Raya is often sophisticated even through her choice of clothes. Ever-active Raya can always be found doing something adventurous, whether it be wind surfing, scuba diving, or working as a shop assistant. Hoping to develop her facility in languages, she sees her future in the travel industry.

Filippo Marchino

On first impression, Filippo may appear curious and rebellious, but he is actually just someone with a positive outlook and a appetite for mischief. He is friendly and bright, and amusing to be around. His intense dedication to race cars will someday lead him towards a future and great success in that field. He uses his characteristic determination to train for snowboarding and his initiative to think up such things as the famed ACAT t-shirt. With Filippo's combination of qualities and interests, we should not be surprised to see his name in the winners' section of a newspaper someday.

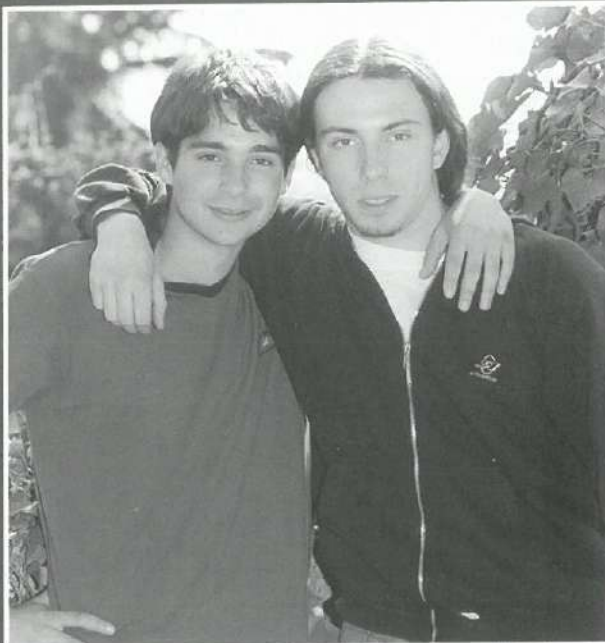

Annalisa Palisca

*Anna, the dreamer is
A leader, a listener, and individual,
Whether she is eagerly painting the walls of the Student Store or dancing for hours on end at a party, this glowing senior is always prepared to refresh us with a smile. Bearing in mind that 'craziness is like heaven' she dances with her dreams, ratio-nalizes her feelings, and dives into every activity with genuine dedication. With a full wind at her back and brilliant sunshine on her horizon she will go forth to an adventurous future in London. She will always remember the roof nights, the morning bus,
Bardo, MUN's and the infinite, wild parties.*

Lorenzo Richetta

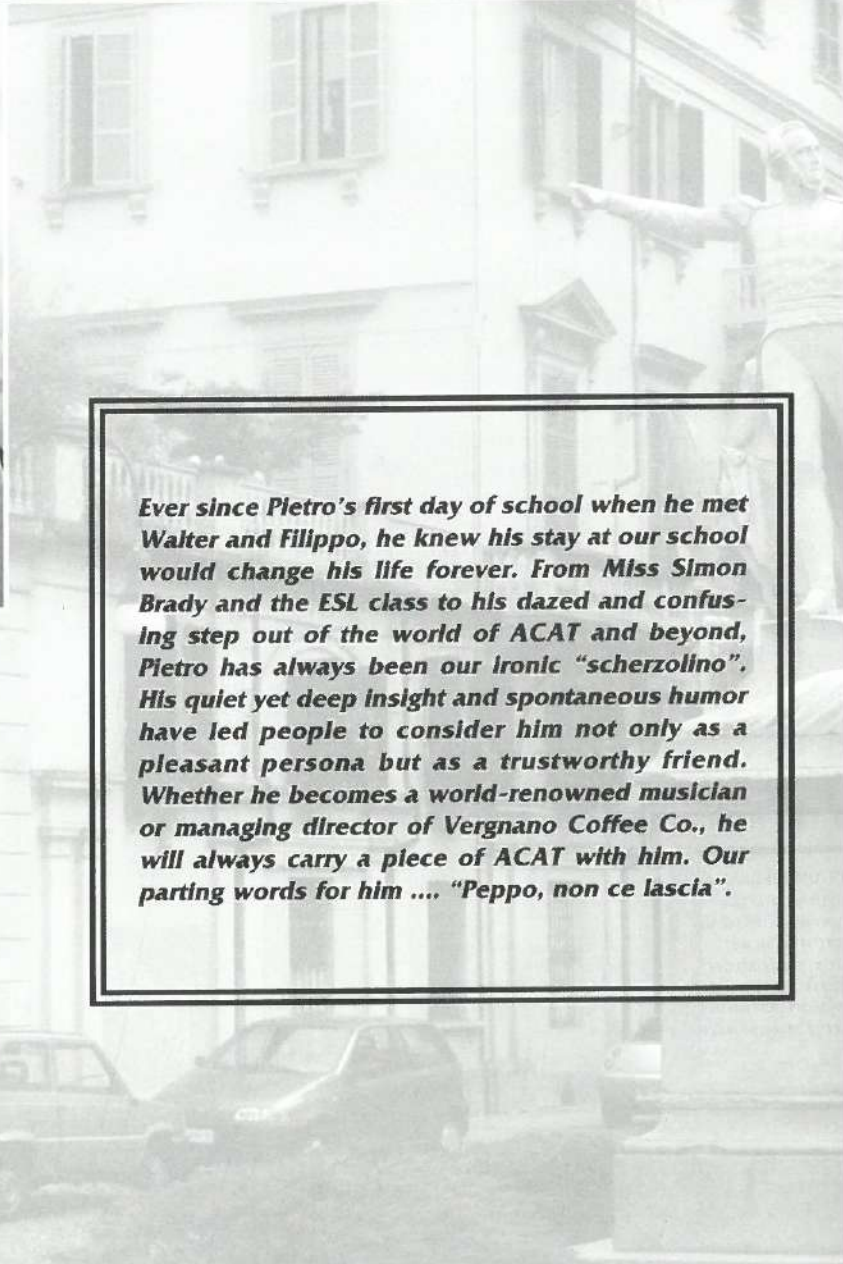

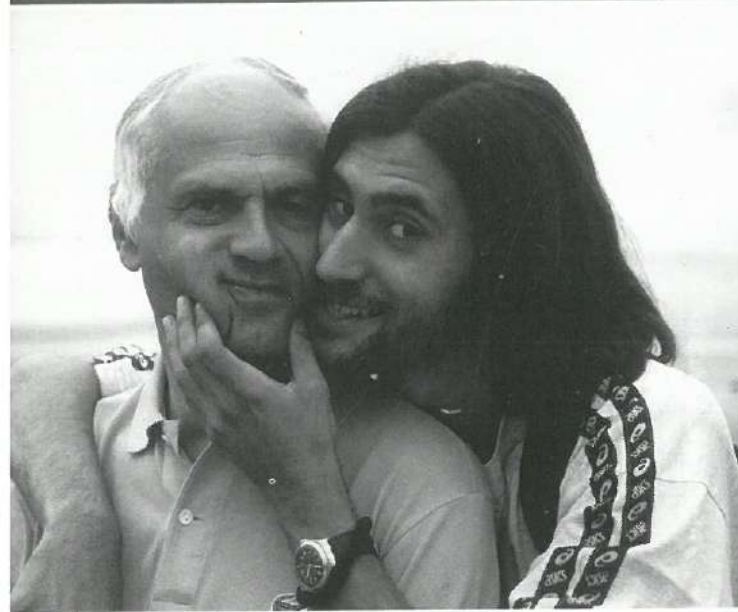

Lollopap ... the senior who will never wake up before 12:00 A.M. ... Our committed soccer player and wild snowboarder spent seven memorable years at ACAT, where he immediately dived into the "different yet great atmosphere" by joining Mr. Boyle on the adventurous Trek America expedition. After such an unforgettable experience Lori participated in several other school trips ranging from action-packed Lugano to MUN. As he will always remember falling into the rapids while river rafting, we will never forget his 'Chicken Surprise' at Egg Day. Ever-active Lori can be easily spotted dancing in Zona Castalla on weekends, but his exuberant facade conceals a sensible and sensitive soul. While studying engineering in London he will look back on these years and smile at memories of the Prodigy concert, 'el toboga', the Elliotts' house, Stracat showers, and the Junky Hunky tree.

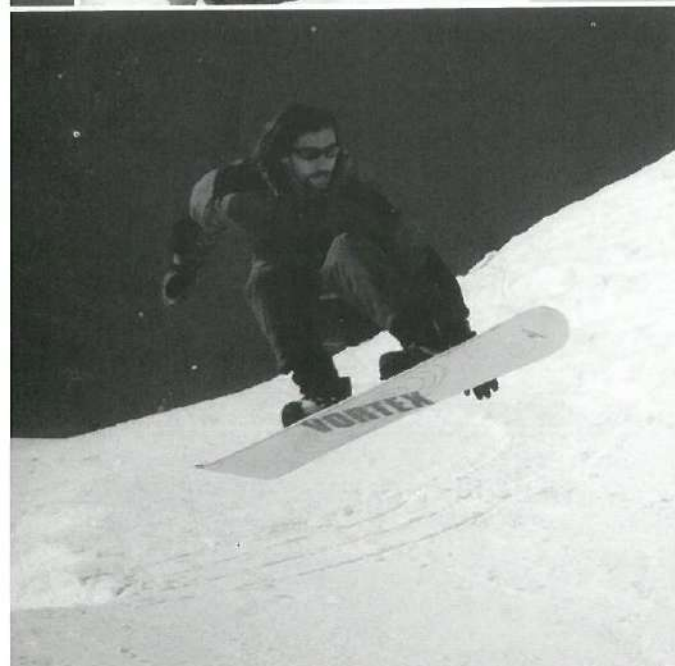

When Aileen's 'Irish' eyes are smiling, you know her whole world is smiling with her, but when her Italian temper is roused, watch out. Whether it be Piccola Al seeking her identity, adjusting to her growing pains or keeping on task during a yearbook deadline she quietly sets her own pace. Flashing back over her self discovering years at ACAT, she will especially savor the memories of her music classes with Ms. Hersey, the walks/rides down town with her less conventional friends and the everlasting lunar eclipse and the "car talks" in via Mario Mogna. A skilled scubadiver and budding artist in her free time, Aileen has her sights on Human Rights studies elsewhere. She thanks and will miss Turin- and those who have been part of life in it.

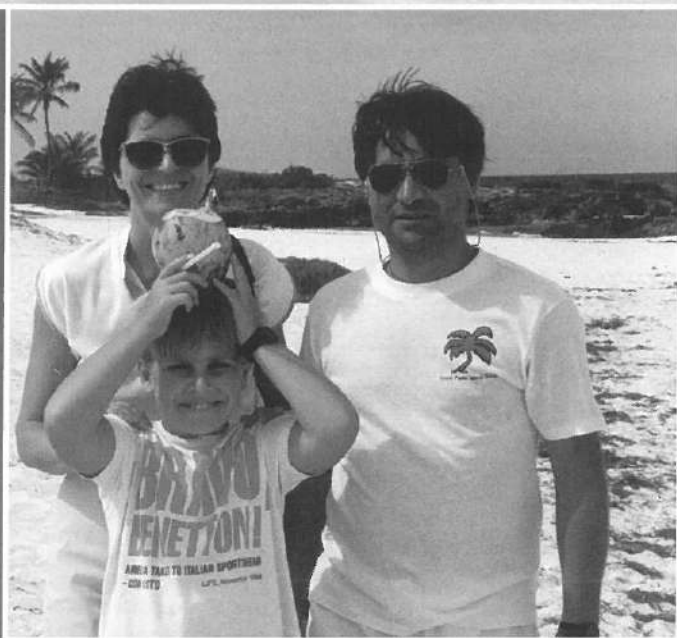

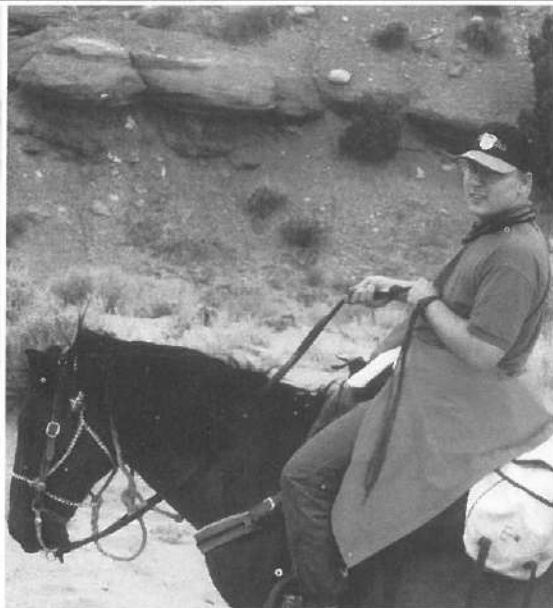

Pietro Vergnano

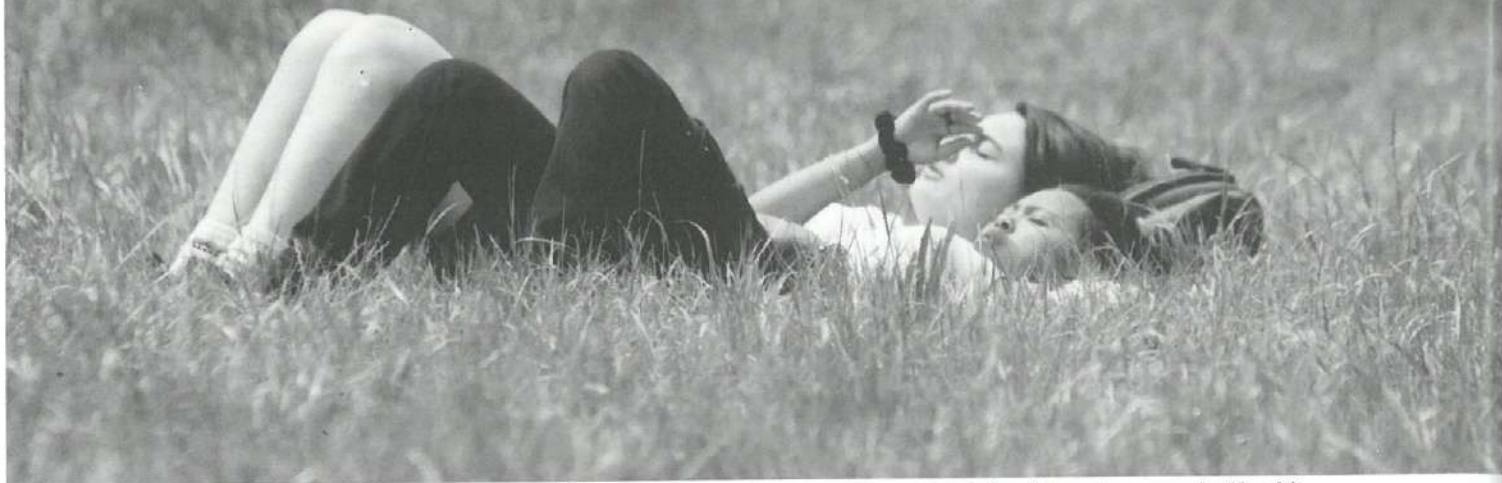

Ever since Pietro's first day of school when he met Walter and Filippo, he knew his stay at our school would change his life forever. From Miss Simon Brady and the ESL class to his dazed and confusing step out of the world of ACAT and beyond, Pietro has always been our ironic "scherzolino". His quiet yet deep insight and spontaneous humor have led people to consider him not only as a pleasant persona but as a trustworthy friend. Whether he becomes a world-renowned musician or managing director of Vergnano Coffee Co., he will always carry a piece of ACAT with him. Our parting words for him "Peppo, non ce lascia".

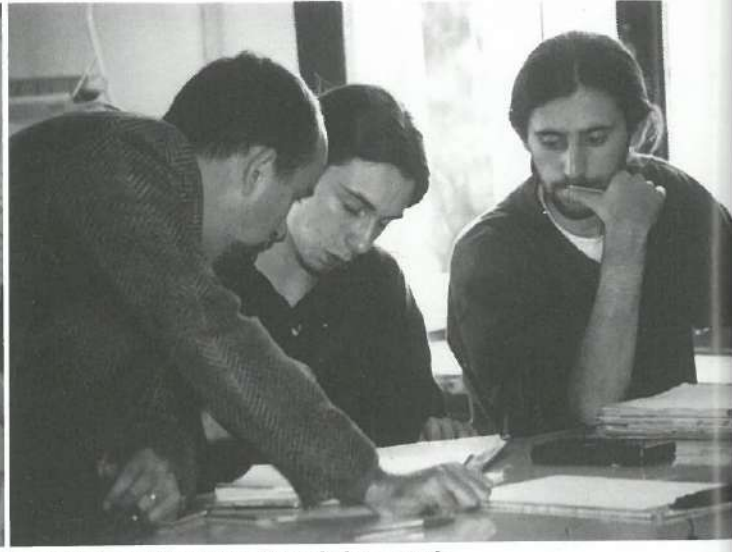

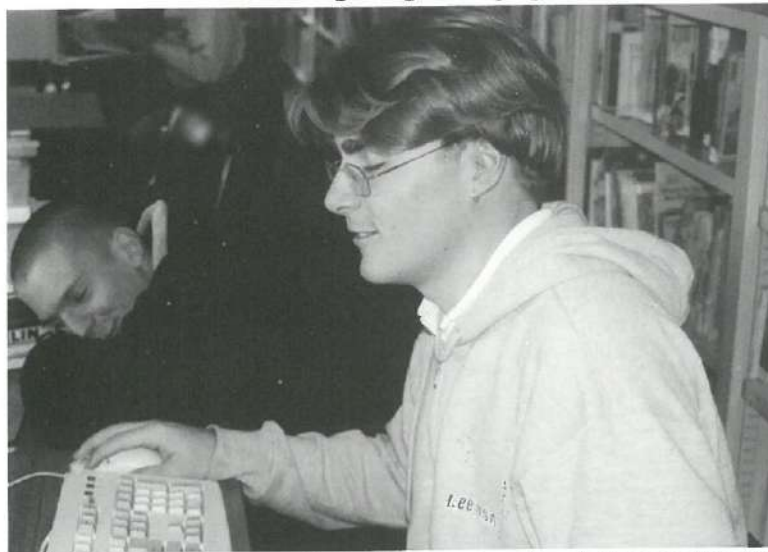

Adventurous Walter is the kind of person who knows that because you live only once, you have to get as much out of life as you can. When Walter becomes the director of an important company someday, he will stop a moment and think back warmly on going to Elena's parties, cleaning up in the lunchroom after the little kids ate ice cream, and travelling to America with Emi and Mr. Boyle. His ten years at the school have made him into the perfect big brother, and as he leaves us to study in Canada, we are proud to see him go off and begin his new life.

Seniors: the evolution of a species

After breezing through the IB program, Raya settles down to a serious study of cloud formations over La Mandria.

As the IB approaches, there is the more intensive approach and the more distended approach.

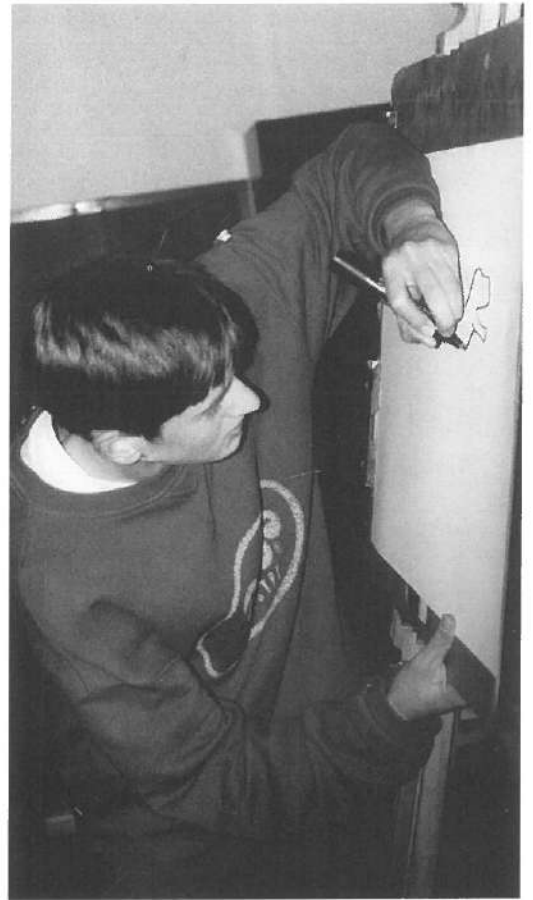

Full time IB students (part-time clowns) the seniors welcome Mr. Abbott to the club.

Twin day saw a glant cocoon unravel into two beautiful butterflies.

T-Day: memories of home served up by the PTA

Many thanks to those who give (including the bird) ...

... from those who receive (including the bin).

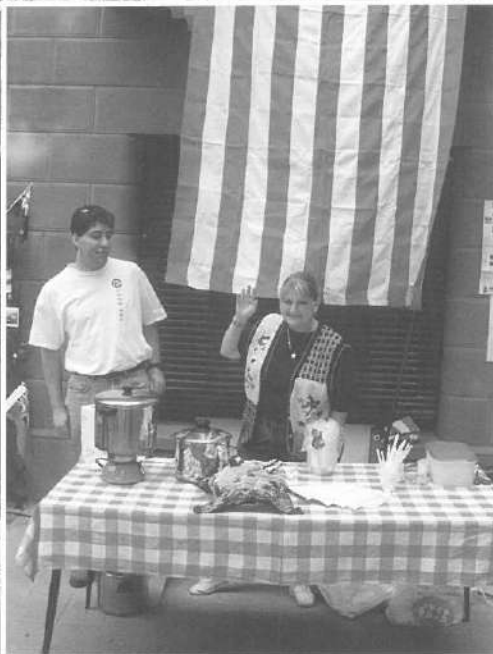

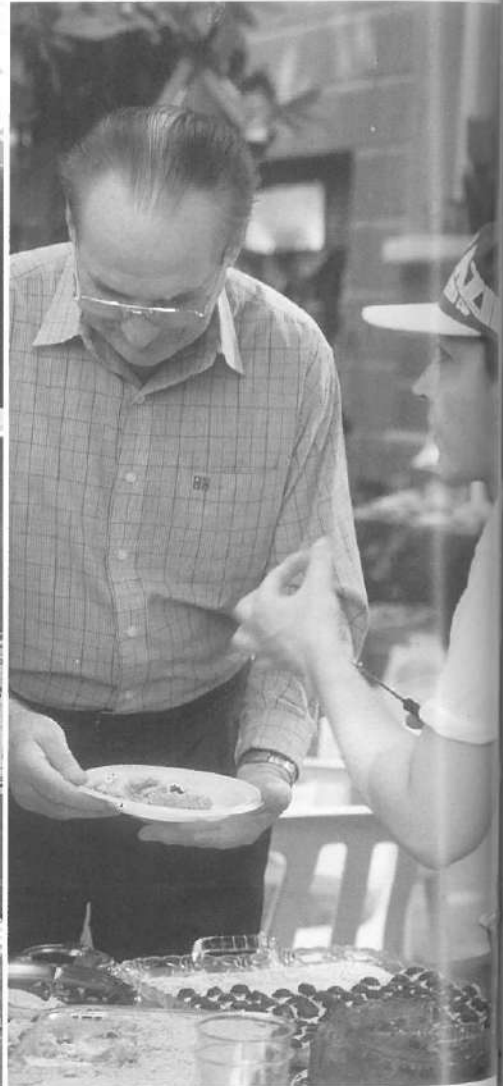

A savory recollection of the first T-Day, the annual ACAT version sponsored by the PTA, assumes special significance in the spirit of participation by everyone in the school. The spirit of giving is enjoyed as much as the spirit of receiving.

International Day: An appetizing cultural exchange

Whatever your nationality, you were bound to have fun at this year's International Day. Maybe you listened to Irish folk songs and watched Mrs. Sigliano and her Scottish dancers, while relaxing and drinking Guinness in the sun. Or with a tasty Japanese rice ball in hand, maybe you hunted around the White Elephant booth looking for bargains. Or, if you had an exceptional craving for some spicy snacks, you might have headed to the Brazilian stand, which was packed with goodies galore. If you were still not full, you could've stopped by the French stand and grabbed yourself a chocolate-filled crepe. The best part of this International Day, however, was just talking and having fun with friends from all over the world.

A sumptuous buffet of international food offered an appetizing cultural exchange.

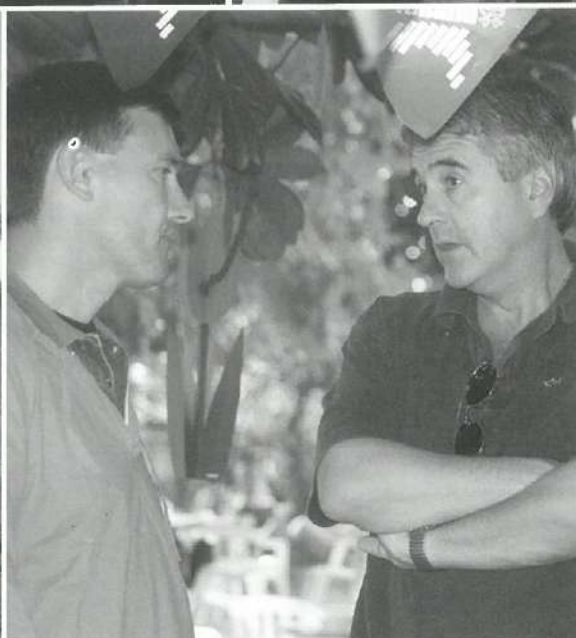

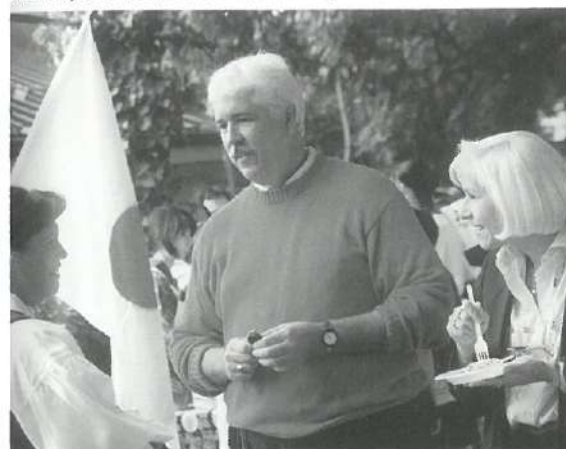

The opportunities for quiet chats and colorful displays of ethnic pride complemented the annual get-together of ACAT families.

Between samples of food, Anna browses over samples of Swedish artifacts.

Deep, meaningful conversations over rice balls occupied even the youngest participants.

Scenes from another successful PTA activity well-spent ...

... Conclude with a spirited Irish folk dance

Halloween: Painted Faces in unseemly places

When Halloween comes to ACAT, commonplace objects substitute for mysterious figures and dwellings. Normal classrooms become mystical chambers, where walls are lined with images of witches on broomsticks and hissing black cats. Dusty cobwebs hang from doorways and carved jack-o'-lanterns smile with an eerie glow. An ordinary passageway turns into a house of spooks where behind a black curtain masked creatures spring out from dark corners, tossing repulsive mush and cackling at their unsuspecting visitors. The lower garden transforms into a land of fantasy where a parade of ghosts, goblins, fairies, and super heroes march about. Pumpkins, vampires and clowns alike gather together and sling of happiness and Halloween fun.

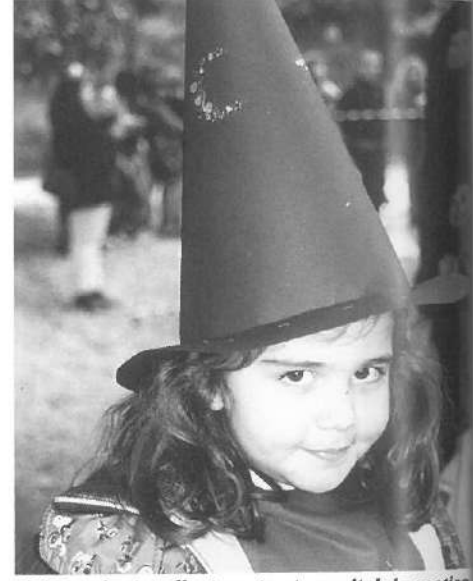

An impromptu "Raggedy Ann" dance reveals Ms. Anderson's latent talent.

Some ghosts are unbustable.

A jolly, dancing pumpkin adds a humorous touch to the morbid lineup of ghouls.

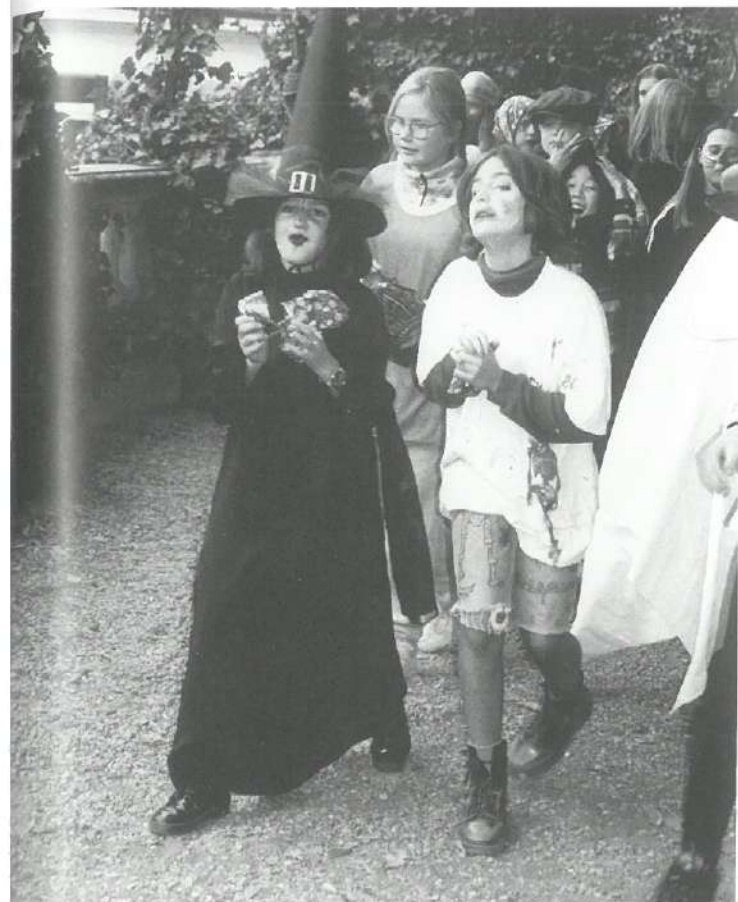

A last minute adjustment sets a witch in motion.

A little nasal adjustment sets a tiger on the prowl.

Midnight black and satanic red were popular colors at the somber fest.

Prowling in style, 5th graders strut into the costume parade

Grimly brooding members of the "Addams family" grimace together in a charming family portrait.

Curking around the entrance of the spook house Student Council members prepare a spirited welcome for unsuspecting little spirits.

Weapons in hand, the ACAT eco-busters get ready for their "Mission Impossible."

No trash escapes Marie and her oversized tweezers.

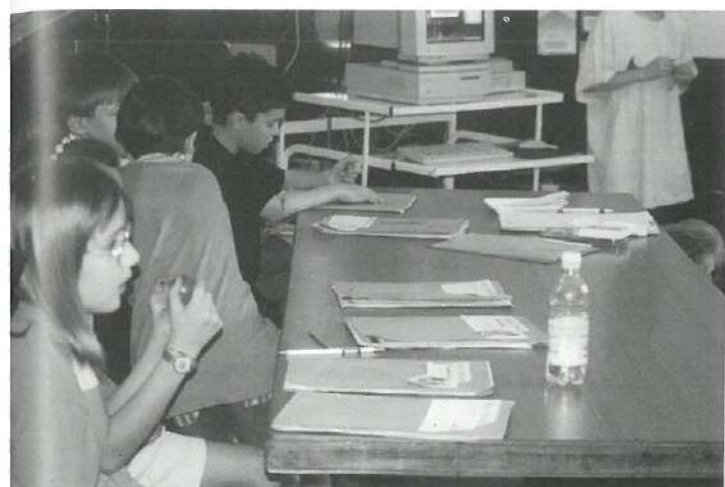

Meticulous Mari picks evens the smallest bits.

Environmentally concerned, Lori gives the final touch to the banks of the Po.

Earth Day: A fourth grade special project.

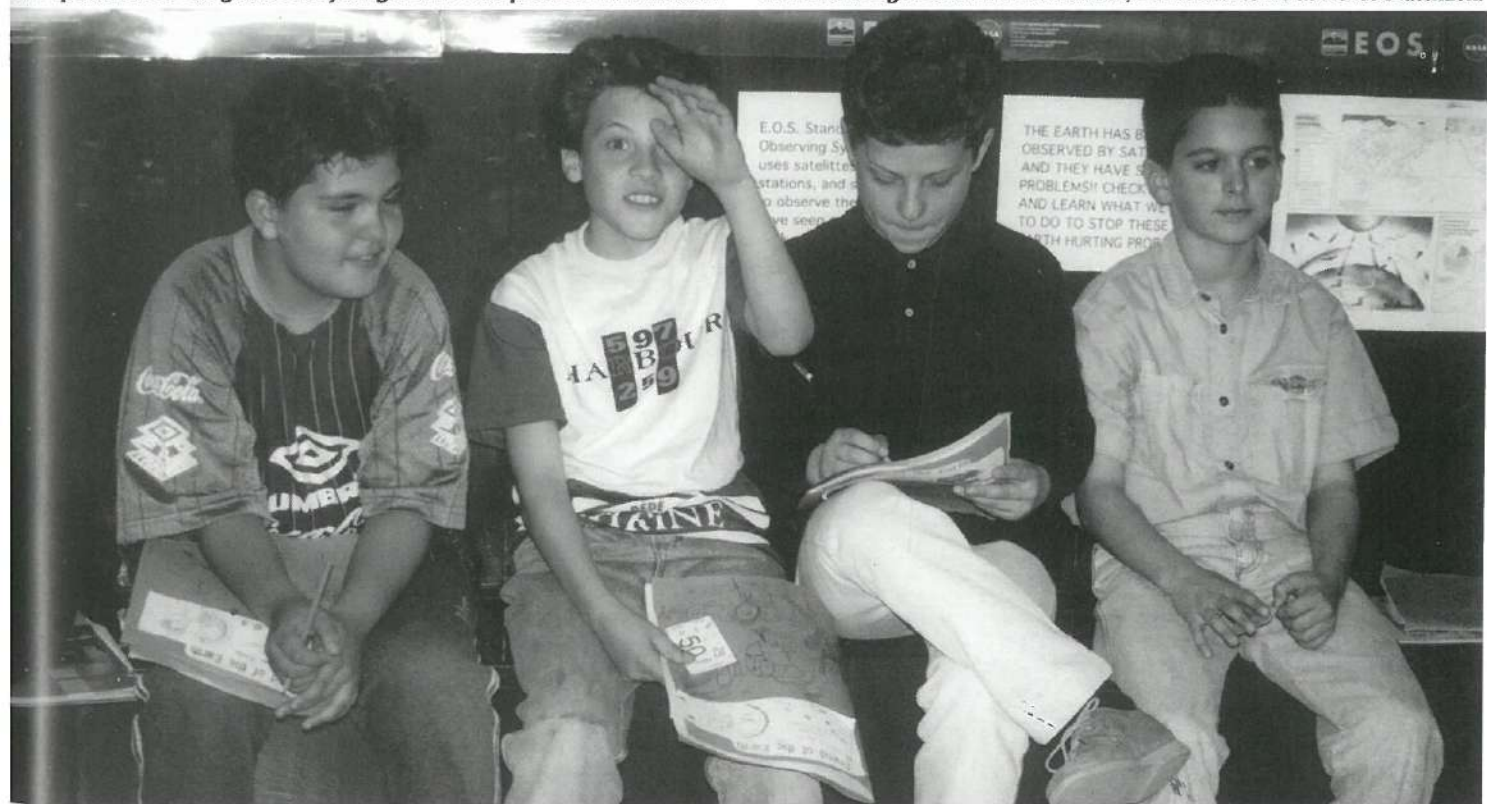

Global awareness is a dominant characteristic of the fourth grade and their projects.

With expert Alberto enlightens the younger kids with precious information.

With interesting facts on our environment, David catches his audience's attention.

The fourth grade boys sit down to reflect on the day's achievements.

Reach out: 'tis the season to be caring

With a pinyata blast, Vale M. starts the Fall Fest.

An encouraging word from Umberto guides a squash into its basket.

Caring comes in many styles.

Stef's gentle manner warms the atmosphere for Don Alciati at the Fall Fest.

An elevator full of Santa Clauses brings a lift to the convalescents at Roddolo.

Even the Grinch "who stole Christmas" came and gave it back.

When two Santas meet, there's bound to be Christmas cheer.

Painted faces and contented smiles spell success for the seventh grade's Carnevale with the Ancients.

The Christmas Concert

The vibrations of energy that flowed from the eager children were evident as people gathered in the old gothic church to listen to an ACAT concert. There was a growing buzz of enthusiasm as the children became more and more excited: The murmured hushes of the other children were stifled as each class began to sing. While some songs had melancholy, almost mournful notes that echoed wistfully against the lofty brick walls, others were festive and merry. As they caroled songs of joy and happiness, the children's voices floated up to the domed ceiling, where Biblical scenes received this delightful treat.

Ever-patient Mrs. Korzonek guides nursery and pre-k through their singing.

Elisabetta's solo adds her special touch to the second grade song.

Spirited third graders harmoniously convey the spirit of the season.

Christmas at ACAT would not be complete without Santa Dlno.

In Santa's presence the respectful nursery students better not shout and they'd better not cry (and we know why)

A pre-Christmas encounter with Santa himself is just what the kids needed.

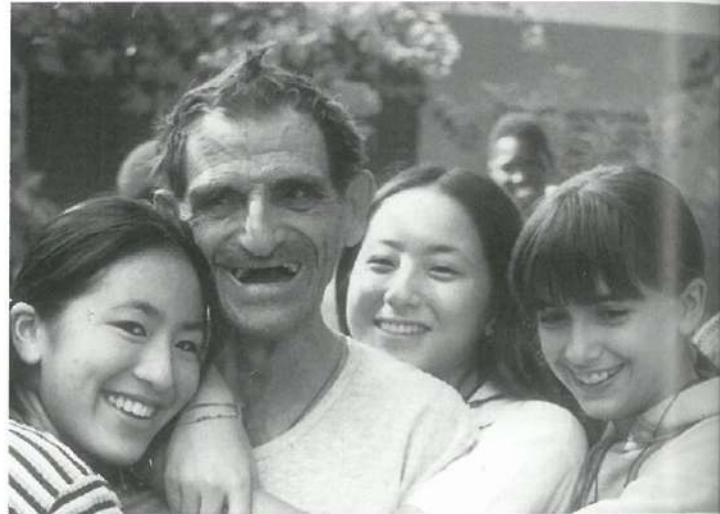

African Awareness: A Light In the Dark

African awareness was a major theme of our year, starting with the trip to Burkina Faso by the group of ACATeers: Emi, Ludo, Mari, and Mr. Boyle. The trip was not only to learn but also to help enlighten the rest of us. To help spread what the ACATeers had learned, the eighth grade organized an African Awareness Assembly focusing on issues such as poverty, starvation, and ignorance, and what we ourselves could do to help. Our guest speaker, Anne Forester, talked about the UN's presence in Africa to shed further light on our uncertainties. In the days since the assembly, it was quite noticeable that Africa kept popping up around the school. A collection of books and videos was made as a donation to Ecole Saint Anne — our adopted school in Burkina Faso; incentives to adopt or support an African child appeared; collections of medicines were planned, and a guitar concert was held to raise money. But after all of this, what did we learn after a year of African awareness? We learned about Africa's different customs, climates, people, and way of life. We learned that Africans have the same needs, aspirations, and hopes that we have. In the end, we learned that Africans are just like us.

Bearing a water jug on her hand, a villager from Nanoro makes her daily jaunt to the mission well.

A warm welcome awaits the ACAT visitors at a home in the village of Nanoro.

Warmly moved by the enlightening lessons of "African Awareness", the ACAT community responded generously to appeals for help.

Special Assemblies: getting a look of the real world.

After an in-depth study of Amnesty International, the Italian B students begin the assembly.

Annie scrutinizes her pamphlet before her presentation.

Ms. Liberty is Anna's aspiration.

The group finalizes its report before going back to the assembly.

Liberal-minded Chiara and Giacomo discuss the significance of the statue liberty.

Luca and Rob present a hypothetical scenario of self-defense ...

... and Ms. Wilkinson gives us a practical performance.

The hot topics stimulate many a debate among the different groups.

Field Trips: The Art of Civilized Wandering

Packing up their journals and hunger for adventure, Middleschoolers took off in all directions this year and sought knowledge in the unique "classrooms" beyond the walls of A.C.A.T.. Whether their travels brought them to nearby Chieri, Torino, and Val d'Aosta or to more distant Rome and Florence, their quest for an understanding of the past was satisfied.

The climb-over at Salgar Campus gives Martina a workout and better understanding of early man's descent from the trees.

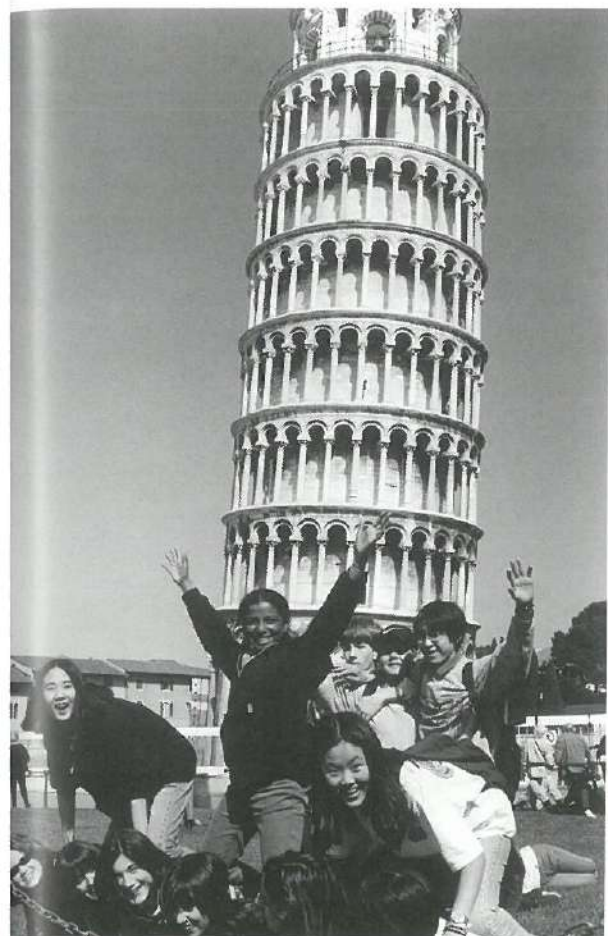

Salgar Campus Instructor Enzo Malolucci shows 6th graders the simple technology of prehistoric times.

At the Martini-Rossi museum a sketch of amphora styles completes the sixth grade studies of Greece Joining with the third grade on a visit to Roman Aosta, the 6th graders take a break at Gran Paradiso.

Still leaning after all these years, Pisa's tower proudly withstood the 7th grade invasion of Tuscany.

The Florence of the Medici is a fitting backdrop for the seventh graders' spring Renaissance trip.

The Basilica of Pisa helps round out 7th grade studies of the Romanesque style.

The Bronze Boar of Florence promises good luck to curious seventh graders.

One day at the Teatro Regio provides 8th graders with a close-up of "Romeo and Juliet".

The costume department is an intriguing part of the backstage visit to the Teatro Regio.

The cannon that dismantled Constantinople was no match for the indomitable 8th grade at the Pietro Micca museum.

Model United Nations

January 30, 8:00 AM, The Hague. Twelve students huddle together to avoid the wind at the tram 7 stop. They are about to head to the "Congressgebouw", where they will encounter 3000 students from all over the world. For the next few days they will discuss crucial world problems and solutions for them. Persuasion, diplomacy, debate, confidence, public speaking ... enveloped the Antigua & Barbuda delegation, but the social side must not be left behind ... La panda, Helsinki 608, Cisti Yosuke le voyage, Chad, Marco/a & Umbia/a.

Psyched and optimistic Antigua and Barbudians pose after their arrival at Schiphol airport.

Eager to discuss world problems ACAT representatives proudly await the presentation of their resolutions.

SKI DAY: Good Old Fun in the Snow

Excitement was tingling all around as we piled out of our automobiles to begin this year's Ski Day, ably organized by Fillippo Marchino. As snowboarders set out for the slopes and skiers prepared to race, we knew this would be a day to remember. With snow flying every which way, skiers hustled competitively to make it to the finish line, and snowboarders tried their best to avoid flopping face-down on the snow.

Friends and family alike met to tell of their adventures. Cheers and applause echoed through the hills as awards were given to the winners. Finally, after we put away our skis and boards and dusted off any leftover snow from our weary boots, we welcomed the warm, quiet bus ride home.

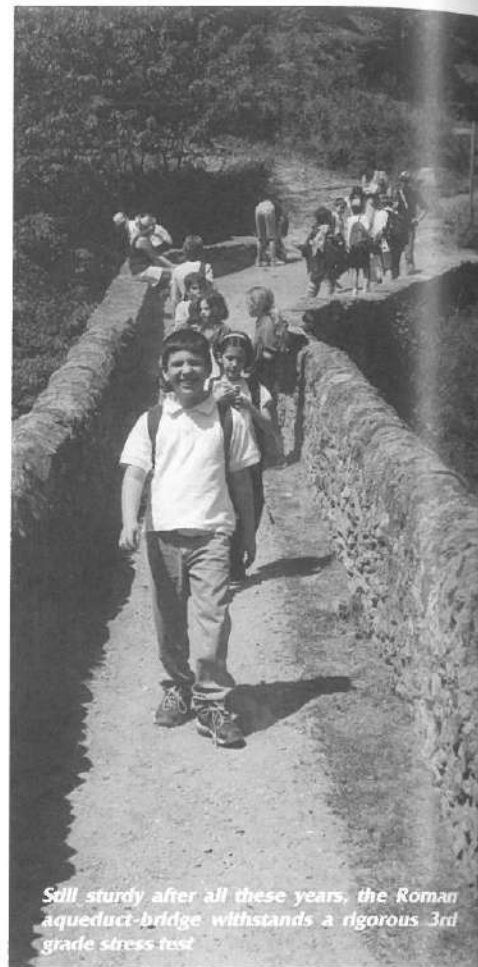

Elementary Field Trips: Reaching beyond the walls of ACAT

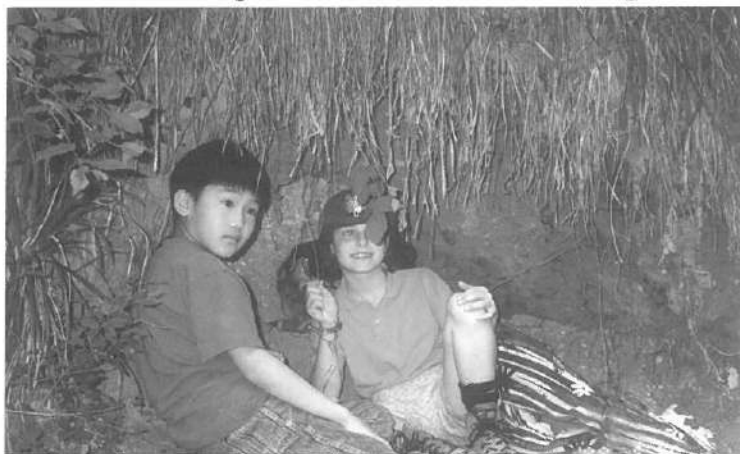

On the trail, adventuresome 3rd graders explore the natural wonders of Gran Paradiso.

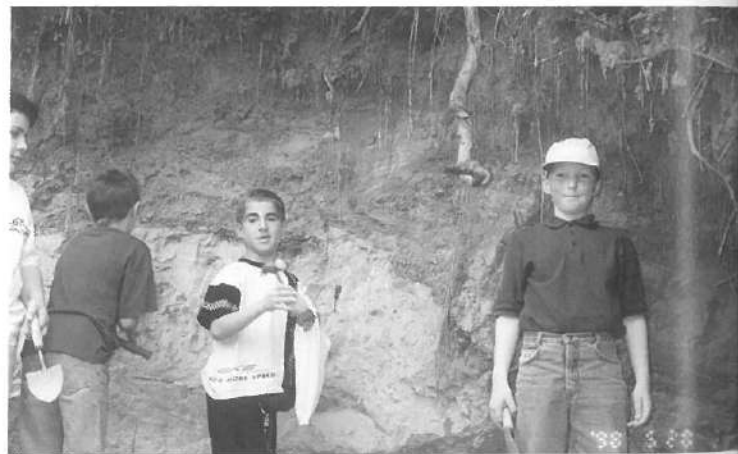

A Roman bridge in Val d'Aosta sets the scene for 3rd grade studies on the Romans

Still sturdy after all these years, the Roman aqueduct bridge withstands a rigorous 3rd grade stress test

Third grade fossil hunters take a break from their labors at Buttiglieria d'Asti.

An ancient sea bed reveals its five million year old treasures to eager 3rd grader excavators.

The bottom line is- the field trip isn't really complete without an ice cream treat.

Cortona: the ultimate experience in discovering the past

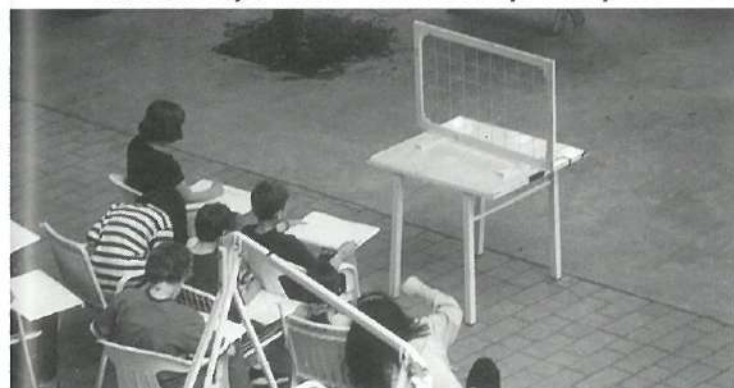

With the help of Martin, the activity director of CREA and our teachers, every year the 4th and 5th graders live a wonderful experience through hiking, jousting, treasure hunting, and eating bread with salt!

What better way is there to discover the steps of the past than to sit on them?

More realistically, we climb all over them.

A proven Renaissance method of studying "perspective" meets the group's approval

Wearied from their exploration of Etruscan tombs, the group welcomes a review lecture from Mr. Attwood.

A mad dash at the quintain sharpens one's jousting skills.

Another mad dasher might sharpen them also.

Thanks to Mr. Atwood Cortona fills us with warm memories of our studies on history.

An Easter Happening: a creative response to Easter Bonnets.

Under the patient guidance of Mrs. Bardelli, costume storytellers await their turn to entertain their parents.

Ears perked and nose twitching, a glistening Binny Bunny presides over the annual hip and hop.

From fearless firemen to fanciful fairies fun fables unfolded funnily.

The pleasant change of pace delighted the parents.

Eager fifth graders run through their lines before their performance.

Egg Day: Back again and flightier than ever.

In doubt about the drops Mr. Abbot consults a fine-red eggspert on the subject, (mother nature knows best it comes to designing egg contraptions).

Under the careful supervision of our guest "judge" prospective engineers present their contraptions.

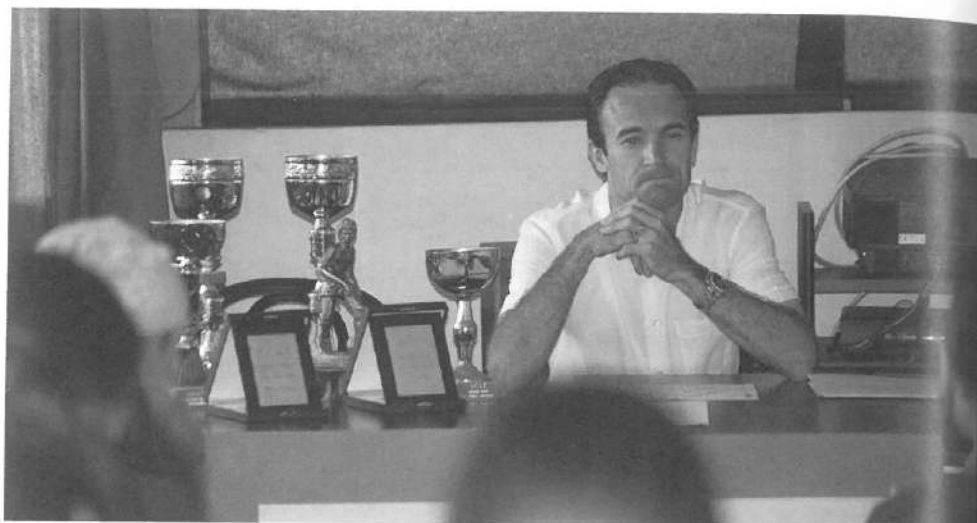

At ground level, an eggspectant audience anticipates the next drop.

Sports Day: the thrill of victory, the agony of 'de feet'

Right on the ball, Ms. Ronzan kicks off the Sports Day.

Speaking from experience, Toro player Dorigo sets the tone for good sportsmanship.

The competition was fierce ...

but the response was fiercer.

Delicate choreography at the net presents a graceful "pas de deux" between Umberto and Carola.

With a determined blast, Willy scores a big one for the blue team.

Thoughtful Mr. Mores adjusts Paola's parasol ...

... but greedy Mr. Abbott wants one too ...

... so feisty Paola calls a foul and wins it all.

The salsa-primed "Brazil" team relishes the sweet taste of victory

Bemused alumni Mo and Carl look on with interest.

A casual "European" team takes its wins stollcally.

With mixed emotions the "Australlian" team comes to the winners circle from down under.

Laid-back North Americans just enjoyed playing ...

... while Coach McKenzie got to take home the trophies.

The white team also played ...

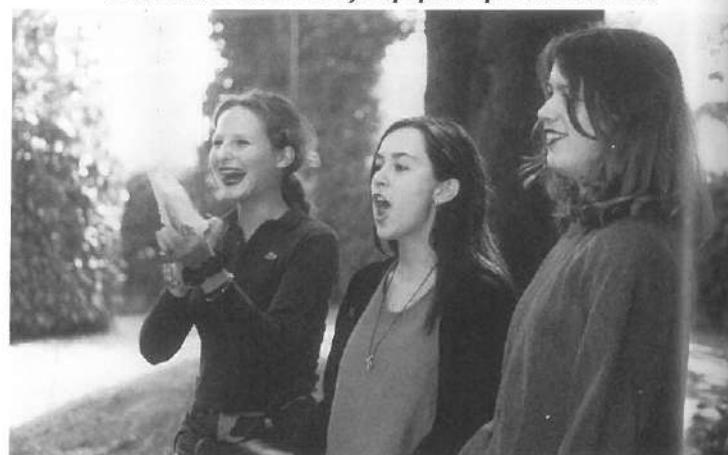

... while the African team was gracious (if not disconsolate) in its defeat.

Student Council: A creative way to spell fun

The Student Council has done it again! They have helped to give us another successful year jam-packed with fun activities, such as theme dances, spirit days, the talent show, and many more. The Student Council knows how to organize when it comes to parties; dances are major successes, whether it means dressing up as a hippie or delivering roses to that special someone. There's nothing like a Color Day at the beginning of the year to release back-to-school tension, or a twin Day near exams to relax stressed-out students. The Spookhouse is another escapade of creativity where a dull hallway is turned into an elementary hotspot, using those extra monsters hiding in the closet to entertain

A beach-clad 8th grade radiates warmth on a chilly spring day

Whether to a teacher or to a student, the ACAT spirit of the Student Council reaches all.

Confident Stefi and Annie receive moral support from their fellow candidates on election day.

Stracat: the best way to prepare for the Stracue.

A pre- Stracat warm up sees Kris and Tomi sprinting with energy.

Traffic controllers Anna Canavesio and Anita Piovano review safety procedures for the 6km course

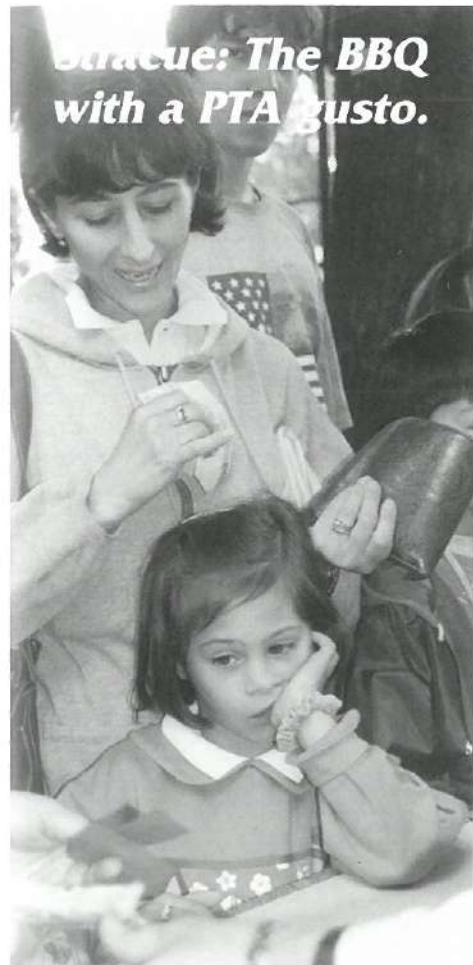

A busy Ms. Halliday keeps up with the rush of the last-minute sign-ups.

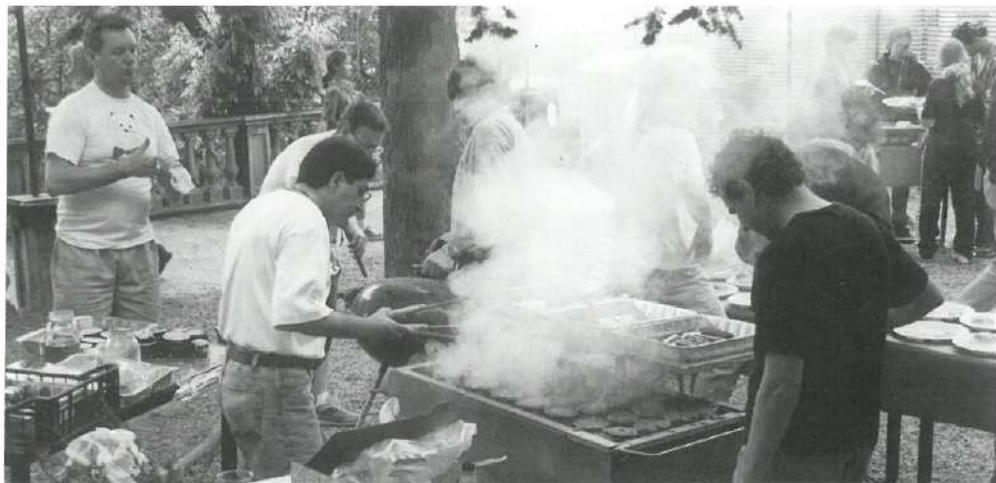

Participation in Stracat takes on many aspects (and everyone agrees that participation is worth the effort.)

Paul Mazzaferro breezes along to a record victory

Stracue: The BBQ
with a PTA gusto.

It's no fun waiting in the slow-food line

Efficient organization and coordinated teamwork have become a PTA trademark at the annual Stracue.

Satisfied customers, Lorenzo and Lynn Villacorta savor their barbecued delights.

Easy conversation and relaxed spirits whiled away the pleasant afternoon.

Tempting bargains, appealing prizes, deserved awards, and fun raffles topped off the day.

Academic Awards Assembly

Anxious preparations precede the awards ceremony

The first honored recipient of the English Teacher Improvement Award, Paola Ronzan, is congratulated by Mr. Mores.

Flattered Walter gladly receives this year's "Math Blaster" T-shirt.

In her first year at ACAT, Sara already snatches a prestigious outstanding achievement award.

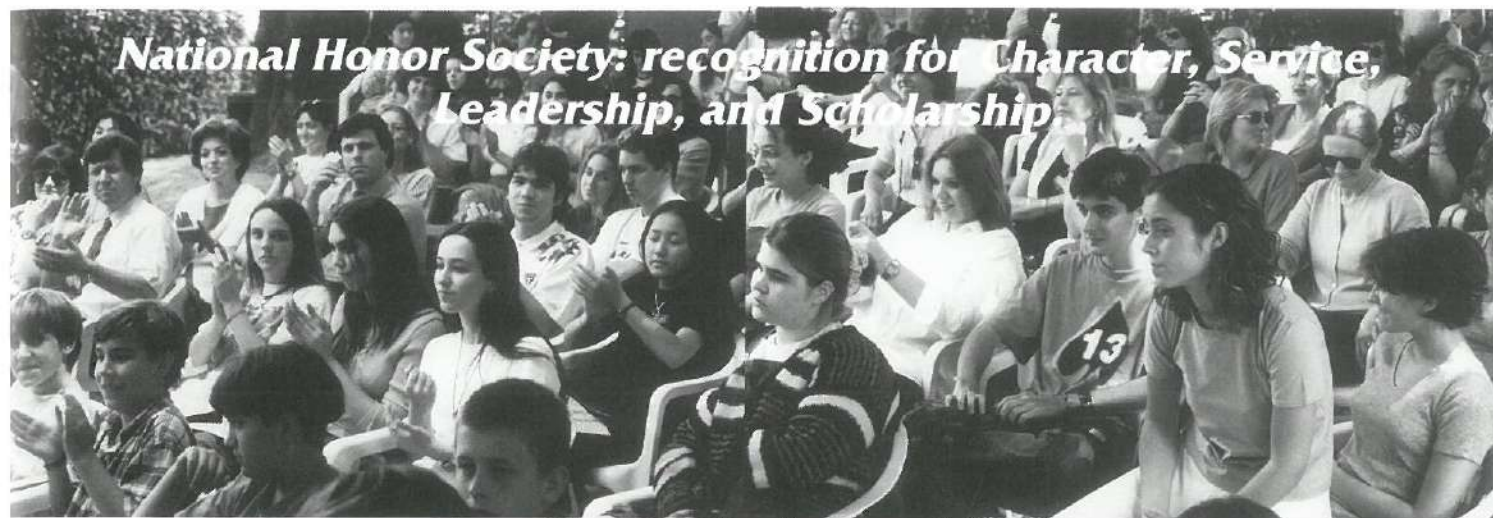

Proud and dignified Robert, Costanza and Fil receive their Honor Rolls from Ms. Wilkinson as Mr. Mores watches.

Vivid memories recur in the minds of MUN participants as they receive their certificates from Ms. Wilkinson.

National Honor Society: recognition for Character, Service, Leadership, and Scholarship

An appreciative audience follows the ceremony with interest.

The pledge of induction is the final step into NHS for Ire, Laura and Yvonne.

The new members appreciate their moment of glory.

Irene and Carola light the symbolic candles of knowledge, leadership, character and service.

The six NHS members celebrate their (induction and their commitment) with their parents.

La Mandria: the haziest, laziest day of the year.

Reaching new heights, Acateers leap into action.

Independent Pietro chooses "the road not taken".

Lazy reflections in the sun, Acateers gently settle into various stages of collapse.

Snacking and chatting 7th graders make the most of their escape day.

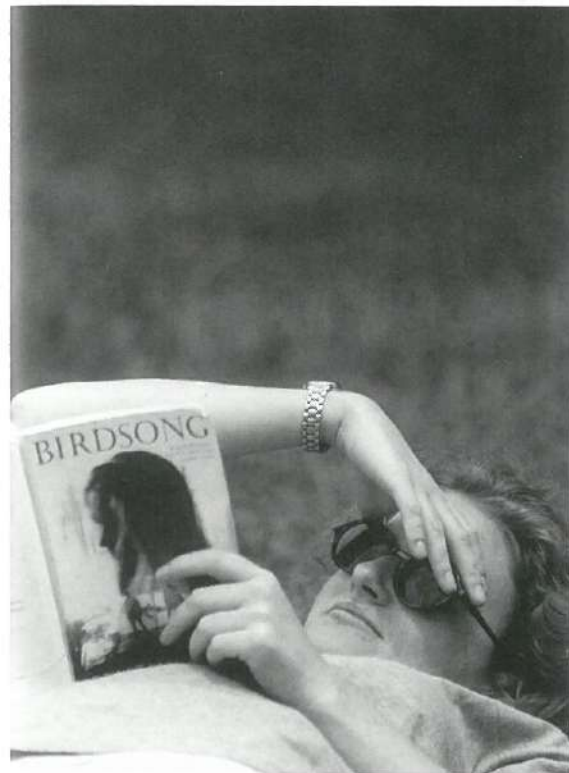

Shade-loving 5th graders work up their spirit of involvement.

Steady-eyed Anna prepares to blast Mr. Mores' lob-pitch out of the park.

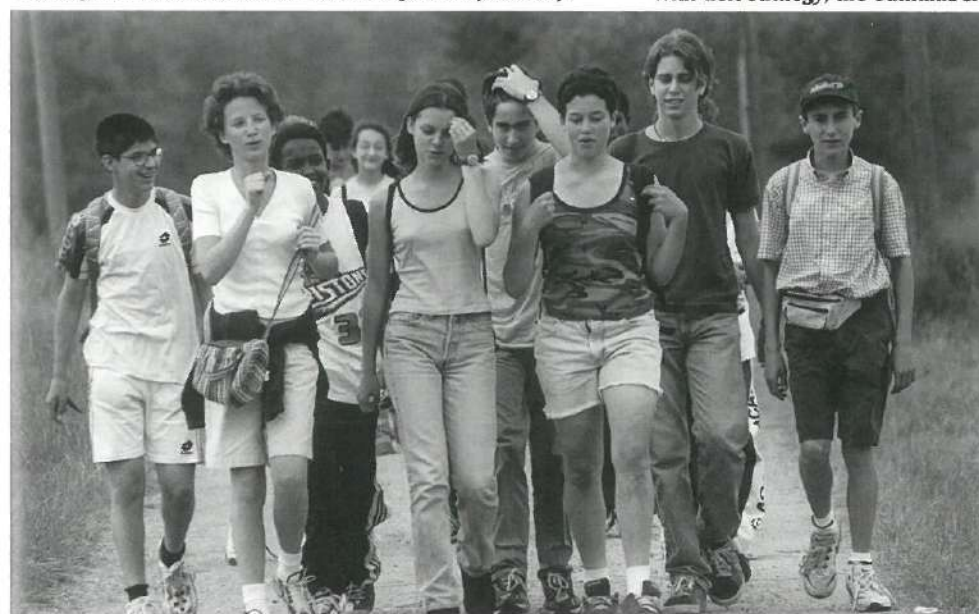

No-sweat Tony rockets around the bases to claim his home run.

With "Birdsong" in hand, Ms. Wilkinson immerses herself in an enlightened escape from reality.

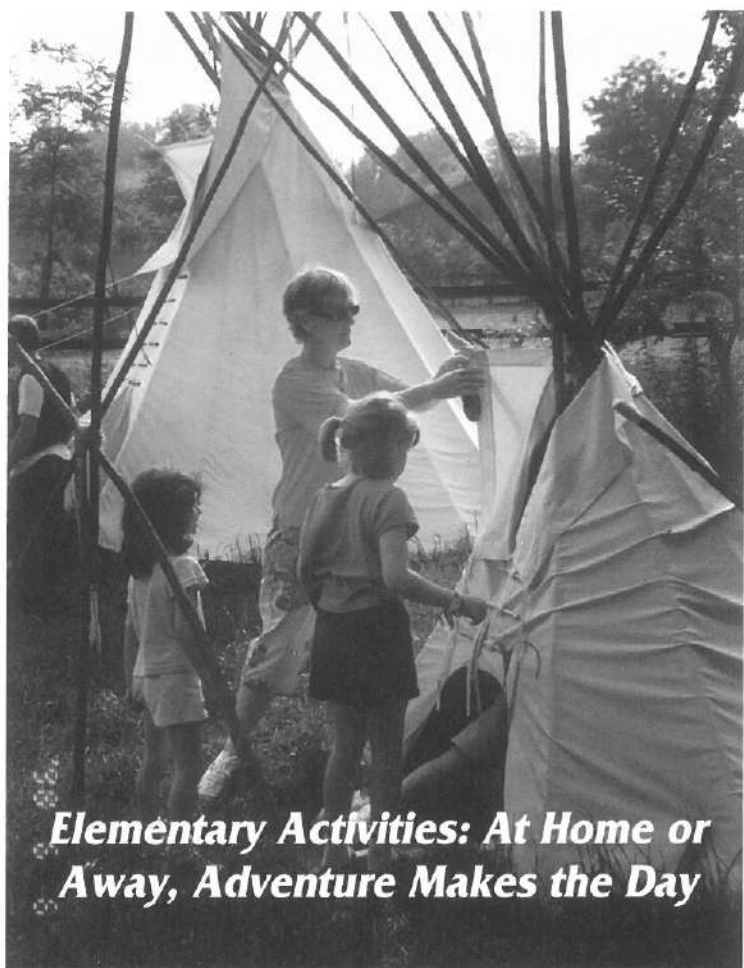

With deft strategy, the outnumbered faculty took a moral victory in the tug-of-war.

Bikes away, the self-assured 8th graders swagger towards the playing fields.

Fond memories of "La Mandrias past" returned with Amlra this year.

Elementary Activities: At Home or Away, Adventure Makes the Day

At Bussolino di Gassino Ms. Cumiskey sets up her wigwam for the 1st grade camping adventure.

Indian designs and fun games kept the creative campers alert through the day.

Evening campfire dances and competitions filled out the fun weekend.

Meanwhile, back at ACAT the Nursery kids gathered around their teddy bears for the annual picnic.

*The Little Kids Sports Day:
Wet n' Wild fun for everyone*

With a simple cup of water Ms. Cumiskey (adds her bit to the fun).

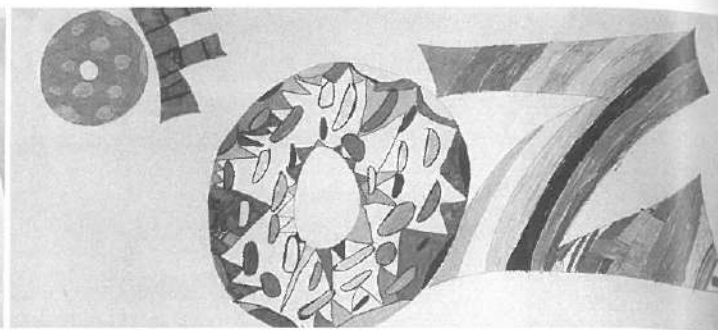

Slipping, dripping, and sliding, contestants bring the fun and the water level up.

Surviving the flood, Paola rewards her dripping athletes.

Meanwhile, tranquil and bone-dry Giuseppe quietly observes the whole picture.

A Musical treat to beat the heat!

As in every production, Oz has its unsung heroes: Phillip Radle the director, the piano movers, Chris Rogers, assistant, and Liz Follas, Elementary choreographer.

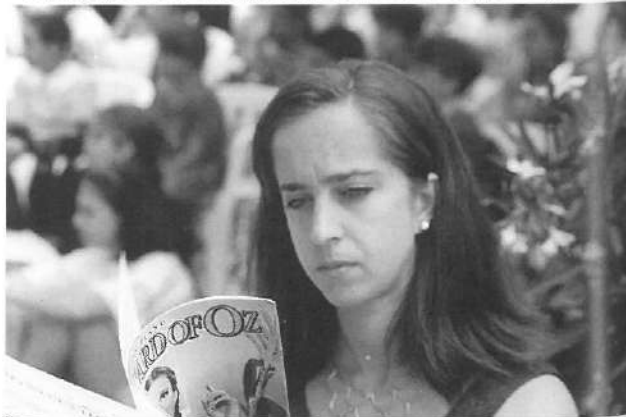

Behind the scenes, Ms. Mline awaits her cue to open the curtain.

Dorothy (Guia) and Imogene her pet cow (Giuseppe and Carlo) enter the land of the munchkins.

Coming up for air, Giuseppe and Carlo search for greener pastures.

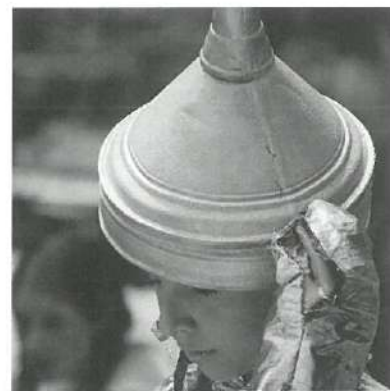

A quick review of the score helps Ms. Lauro get in tune for the performance.

Popcorn in hand, "Mad" Cynthia (Anna I) settles down to her favorite soap opera.

"Mark is the measure of all things."

A headache for the tin man is a real clunker.

Philip helps calm Imogene's curdled nerves

Everpresent Ms. Anderson prompts from offstage.

Colorful-hatted munchkins and Good Witch Chiara help Dorothy (Oakley) find her way to the Wiz.

... And so, they were "off to see the Wizard."

Elementary Closing Ceremony

Microphone in hand, Mr. Mores opens the 1998 Elementary Closing Ceremony.

All the excitement down below (in the lower garden) attracts the upper level spectators.

Promotion certificate in hand, Vahid is ready to face his next challenge.

With a song in their hearts the first graders are eager to go forth and multiply.

Mrs. Gelsomini gets ready to formally promote her kids.

Another happy year finishes for Mrs. Bardell with a smile on her face.

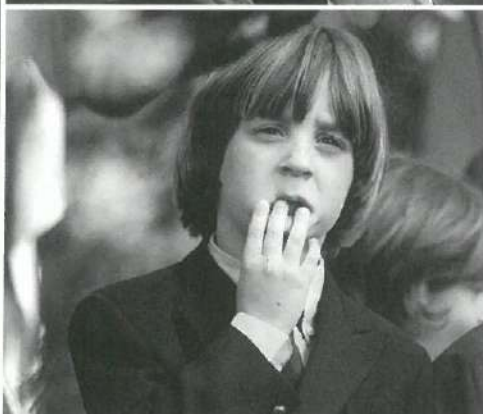

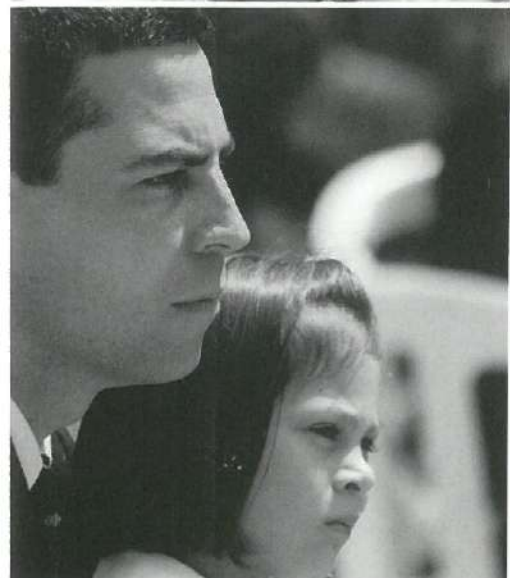

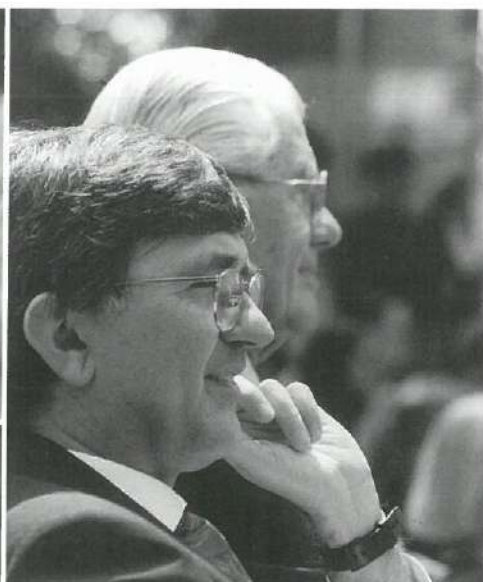

The sound track of the closing ceremony was successfully directed by Ms. Laro.

Casual Todd saunters for his promotion certificate from Ms. Cumiskey.

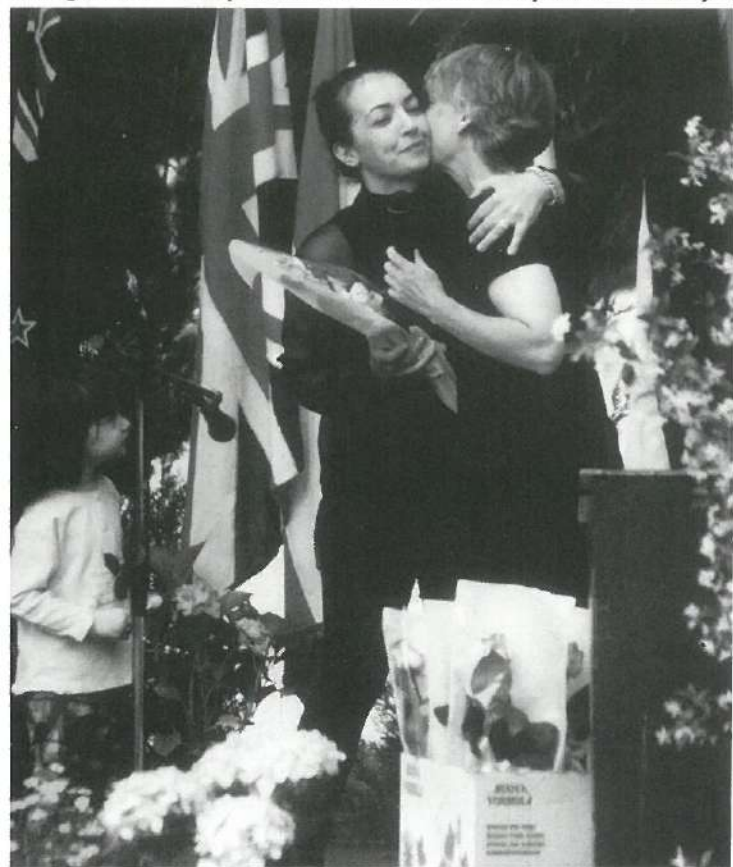

Mrs. Campbell's exuberance brings out the best of her kids at graduation.

Evoking memories of the past and dreams for the future, the promotion ceremony rivets the audience's attention.

A true gentleman escorts a lady friend through all difficulties - even the promotion ceremony.

With flowers and a heartfelt hug, Ms. Cumiskey thanks Ms. Masello for her continued help.

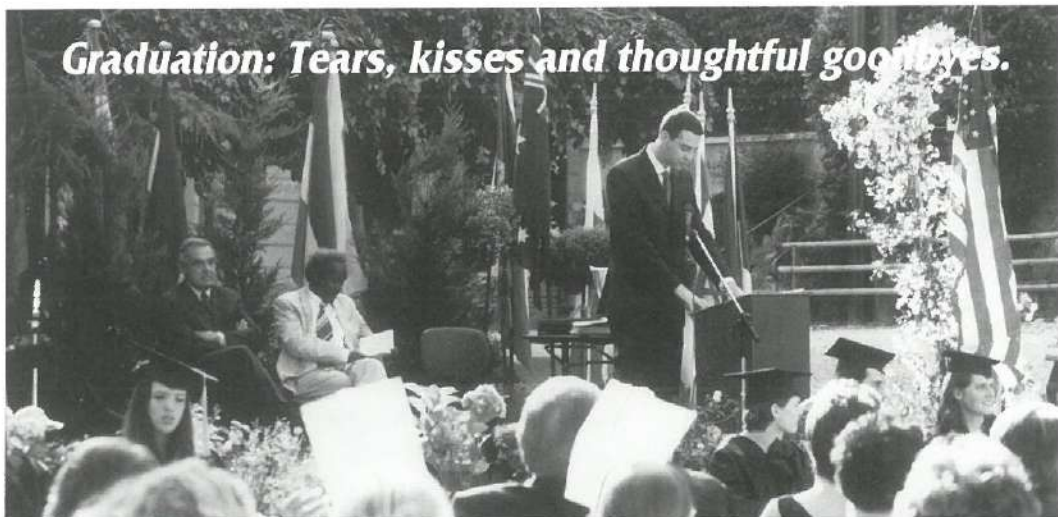

Costumed fourth graders pass on from their promotion ceremony to their "Wizard of Oz" performance.

A proud fifth grade bids farewell to Mr. Bill and hello to the middle school.

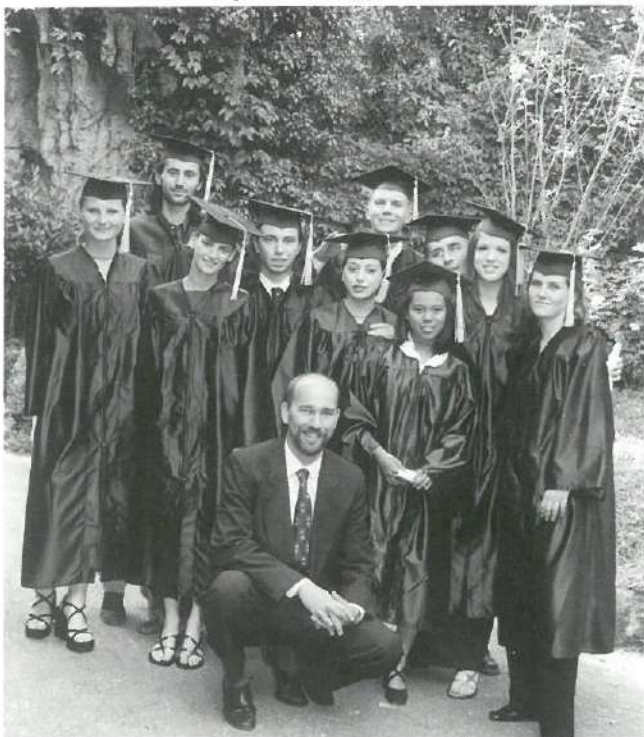

Graduation: Tears, kisses and thoughtful goodbyes.

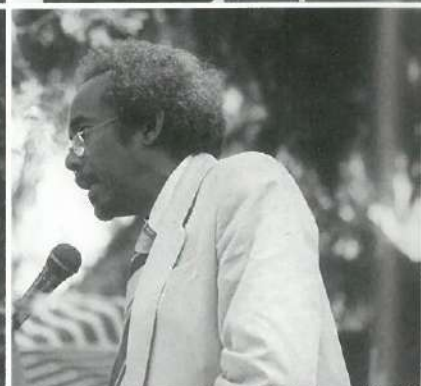

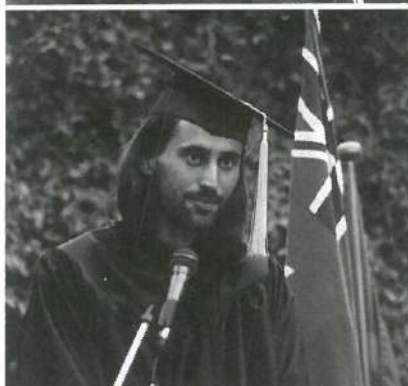

With words of praise and appreciation, Headmaster Mores opens the graduation ceremony.

Thoughtful reflections for hopeful beginnings highlighted the speakers program (with special guest speakers Mrs. Sylvia Lymbery and Mr. Aden Schell sharing their incisive observations).

Full of warm (sometimes hot ...) memories of the past 18 years, proud parents follow the ceremony with a well of emotions.

Seventh grade advisor Mark Moore leads his class in a rousing rendition of the country stem song.

For her many endeavors on behalf of the school Ms. Hamilton receives a token of thanks from Mr. Mores.

Glowing with pride, Ms. Wilkinson congratulates her Pre-IB class on their survival.

ECIS award of International Understanding.

Service Award for Burkina Faso.

Positive Attitude award.

Shelley Marinelli Award for Excellence in Music.

Award recipients, Annalisa, Marl, Alessandra and Federico are recognized for their outstanding achievement.

Characteristically angelic, the sixth graders wowed the audience with their performance of "Hail Holy Queen".

A poignant rendition of "Wings" recalled the memory of Shelley Marinelli.

Abbiamo trasformato un grande Progetto in una grande impresa.

Vogliamo presentarvi una nuova grande impresa. È la nuova sede Progetto di via Moncenisio, sorprendente per grandezza e organizzazione. Chiamatelo castello, cervello... la sostanza non cambia: 13.000 metri quadri di esposizione, uffici, officine meccaniche, carrozzerie. È qui che si realizza in pieno la filosofia Progetto: qui c'è la Concessionaria più grande ed efficiente che possiate trovare; da qui si coordina l'attività di tutte le 19 sedi perché Progetto sia ovunque una garanzia di responsabilità e servizio al cliente. La stessa filosofia guida il nuovo Centro Officina e meccanica di Via Tunisi. Un grande centro di assistenza dove i clienti Progetto sono seguiti da migliori professionisti, con le tecnologie più avanzate e un servizio rapido e sempre affidabile. Provate un nuovo modo di vivere l'auto, scegliete Progetto, il nuovo modello di Concessionaria.

The Vacca family Danner

A sumptuous repast-a convivial gathering of ACATEERS and a generous contribution to the yearbook finances. Once again we marveled at the warm and spontaneous hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Vacca - whom we sincerely thank for their efforts.

Always the gracious hostess, Mrs. Vacca welcomes guests at the annual fundraising dinner.

Sociable Gaby enters into the convivial atmosphere.

A sumptuous display of food soon disappeared as guests surveyed the enticing offerings.

Light-hearted conversation added to the evening's pleasantries.

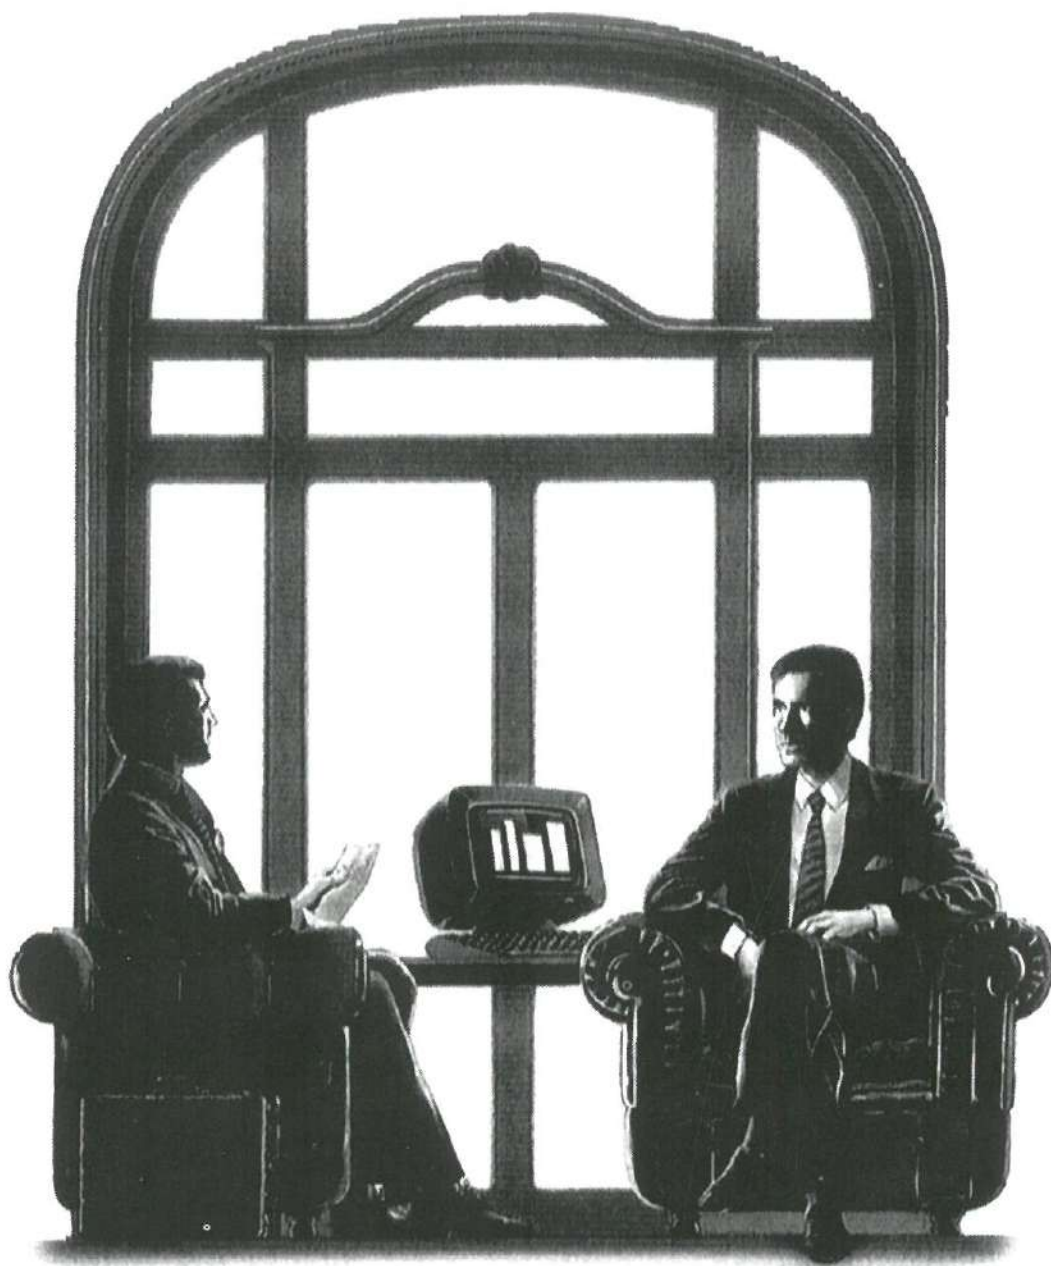

Beaming smiles and a substantial check confirms the evening's success.

Posing with Yearbook's staff, the Vacca family savors the warm after-glow of their undertaking.

LA BUSINESS SCHOOL DELL'UNIVERSITA DI TORINO.

Nata nel 1957, la Scuola di Amministrazione Aziendale è "struttura didattica" dell'Università di Torino accanto alle Facoltà e rilascia Diplomi legalmente riconosciuti. Caratterizzata dalla collaborazione tra Università, imprese ed enti pubblici e privati, gode di uno Statuto speciale che ne garantisce l'autonomia. Gli accordi (oltre 200) stretti con le più importanti Università e Business School di tutto il mondo offrono ai suoi studenti un'ampia scelta di specializzazione internazionale, anche negli USA, dove spese e tasse di iscrizione sono di norma difficilmente sostenibili. Per quanto concerne l'ammissione ai Corsi, il numero dei partecipanti è programmato e l'accesso, quindi, è subordinato al superamento di una prova di idoneità. Per gli allievi SAA sono disponibili prestiti sull'onore e borse di studio erogate da aziende, istituzioni e dalla Scuola stessa. Strategica, infine, è l'attività dell'Ufficio Job Placement che, sviluppando i contatti con le imprese interessate ad assumere, contribuisce a rendere elevata la percentuale dei diplomati SAA rapidamente assorbiti dal mondo del lavoro. A Torino e nelle tre sedi decentrate la Scuola di Amministrazione Aziendale forma ogni anno 1000 allievi.

SHELLY MARINELLI

"And give me wings to ride the wind through winter's storm and summer's light. And let my wings lift me higher and bring me through the night and bring me home to you" ...("Wings" by Carli Stromen)

Le ali del tuo aereo hanno solo ora veramente preso il volo . Le acque staranno accarezzando la tua morbida pelle e trasportando via con sé il tuo tanto amato aereo. Non è un sogno il mio, ne quello degli altri, ma il tuo sì. Chissà che cosa hanno visto i tuoi dolci occhi? Chissà quali parole hanno pronunciato le tue rotonde labbra? Chissà se hai pensato a noi? Noi ti stiamo aspettando, aspettando che tu venga a darci l'ultimo bacio, a darci l'ultimo addio e ad asciugare le nostre ultime lacrime.

(a letter from her friends)
